MOVE TO CHECK UP SLUSH FUNDS OF ARMY-NAVY

No Accounting Made for Millions.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Controller General J. R. McCarl, it became known today, has set out to force an accounting of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money annually poured into what are known to the general accounting office as the "slush funds" of the army and navy.

J. R. McCARL. [H. & E. Photo.]

The controller's office charges and the war and navy departments deny that these funds were set up in order to avoid a public accounting for a considerable part of their appropriations.

The controller general is preparing to ask congress at the next session to order these funds opened to public auditing like other disbursements of public funds. Although refused information by the departments, Mr. McCarl has had investigators at work who have learned a good deal about the funds.

Pile Up Surplus of $500,000.

They have learned that one such fund maintained at the army's Walter Reed hospital in this city became so large that $500,000 of it was invested in stocks and bonds and deposited in Riggs National bank; that virtually every army hospital in the country has such a fund, at least part of which is used for such purposes as buying pianos and victrolas for nurses and radios and automobiles for the doctors and that even the war time hospitals in France piled up a surplus of $500,000.

There are many other types of "slush funds," most of them thought up by the army. For instance, there is a company mess fund throughout the army, an athletic fund in both the army and navy, a special cadet fund at West Point, and post exchange funds wherever there is an army post. None is subject to auditing by the controller general's office, where all government expenditures are supposed to pass for examination.

The establishment of a slush fund is both ingenious and simple. Congress appropriates a fixed sum each year for the activities of the war and navy departments. The various divisions of these departments duly report having turned over specific allotments to the other branches of the services. But there the accounting ceases and the setup of funds starts.

Excess Goes Into Slush Fund.

The army hospital fund has been found by the controller general's office to be one of the most important. The surgeon in charge of each hospital fixes the subsistence charge of the soldier entering, always putting it a few cents above what it actually costs. The excess goes into the slush fund, over which the surgeon has sole control. When this operation is repeated in scores of army hospitals throughout the country, the sums run into staggering figures, the total of which is still unknown to the controller general.

Walter Reed hospital offers an example. When the fund in that hospital runs past $10,000, the balance usually is turned over to the surgeon general and it is said that the surplus at one time represented the $500,000 in stocks and bonds deposited in the Riggs National bank. What the depression wave has done to the value of these securities is another unanswered question.

Investigators were sent to West Point to look into the cadet fund there. They found that every cadet is required to sign a roll acknowledging receipt in advance of his $780 yearly for pay, clothing and personal comforts, aside from rations. With the full complement of 1,374 cadets at the academy, this means a total of $1,071,720, all of which is deposited in a bank in the little town of Highland Falls.

Never Get Full Allowance.

The controller's investigators were told that a cadet never is given his full allowance. Enough is retained in the bank with which to buy his complete outfit as an officer upon graduation. The academy officials refused.

FORMER CROWN PRINCE PICKED TO GET THRONE

Hitler and Aid of Von Papen in Pact.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—Former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm has come to terms with Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense in the Von Papen cabinet, and Adolf Hitler regarding the future restoration of the Hohenzollern monarchy, the Neue Montag's Zeitung asserts tonight.

The former crown prince, according to the newspaper, recently conferred with Hitler and his chiefs of the National Socialist party in Munich. Under the agreement reported to have been reached, Hitler will be permitted temporarily to occupy the post of the president of Germany. When the moment is ripe he will make way for the Hohenzollern to ascend to the throne.

Former Kaiser Wilhelm opposes this plan. He recently declared that while he is alive no other Hohenzollern shall be considered for the head of Germany.

Political Violence Continues.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Deaths, injuries, and further window smashing were reported overnight as Germany's political violence continued.

In the Berlin suburb of Lichtenberg a man wanted by police barricaded himself in his home and fired wildly, wounding two women passersby. Finally he killed his wife and himself when the police were about to use tear gas.

Seven civilians and three policemen were wounded by bullets in an affray following a rifle club festival at Froendenberg, Westphalia.

Special Commissioner Disis, upon his arrival at Koenigsberg to investigate the situation there, found that Kurt Kotzan, Republican reichsbanner leader at Loetzen, had been shot dead in a street after an altercation with a group of Adolf Hitler's National Socialists while on the way home from his office.

The windows of six Berlin branches of the Scherl company, publishers of the Lokal Anzeiger and other Nationalist newspapers, were smashed by rocks wrapped in copies of the communist paper, Rote Fahne.

Hand Grenade Hurled.

At Ratibor a window in the plant of the Catholic centrist paper Ober-Schlesische Rundschau was shattered by the explosion of a hand grenade.

Windows of a branch office here of the Ullstein company, publishers of the Vossische Zeitung and other democratic newspapers, also were smashed. Three National Socialists were arrested.

Men of the "iron front" organization fought communists at Kassel. Five persons were injured, two seriously. One National Socialist was shot in the neck when a Nazi meeting place was fired upon at Bunzlau.

SOVIETS ARE ANGRY

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 7.—Chancellor Franz von Papen's warnings against the bolshevik menace and Adolf Hitler's demands that the German communist party be outlawed have evoked protests from the soviet press which is threatening Germany, with reprisals should the present German-Russian relations be affected by Germany's new political course.

Moscow writers, who are instructed by the commissariat of foreign affairs how to handle foreign events, are hinting that Russia's reply to the anti-soviet program of the new Berlin government will result in a close alliance with Poland and open recognition of Poland's western frontiers, including the disputed Danzig corridor.

See Move to End Treaty.

Moscow also interprets the Lausanne conference on reparations as an attempt by France and England to persuade Germany to abandon the Rapallo treaty and join preparations for a war against Russia which the foreign commissar believes is inevitable. Angered over the speech of Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense, demanding that Germany be permitted to restore her armaments, the Krasnaija Gazette publishes an article on Germany's present military strength.

Despite the Versailles treaty, Germany is far from being defenseless, the Gazette charges, altering that she has hidden enough arms to completely equip an army of 1,500,000.

OASIS OR MIRAGE?

Woman Held Up, Buys Boy Robber's Gun

A boy about 16 years old walked up to the ticket agent's cage on the north platform of the Rapid Transit station at Van Buren and State streets last night and shoved what appeared to be a gun through the small window opening. "I am a robber," he announced. Miss Peggy Holmes of 7347 Vincennes avenue, the cashier, looked up and pretended not to notice the gun.

"What did you say, buddy?" she parried.

Bandit Proclaims Self.

"I said I'm a robber," repeated the boy. "I need money."

Miss Holmes eyed the self-proclaimed bandit carefully. For a moment she wondered whether or not she should risk her life further; perhaps in nervousness the boy might fire. Then she detected a tear.

"I can't give you this money," she said. "There's $40 here but it belongs to the company. Why do you need money?"

"My father's out of work and my mother is sick," he answered. "We're hungry."

Bandit Sells His Gun.

"Robbery's no way to get money," said Miss Holmes. "But I have a proposition. I'll buy that gun you're pointing at me."

"Okay," agreed the young bandit. They quibbled a moment about the price, but agreed on $1. Miss Holmes handed over a dollar of her own and the 16 year old bandit handed over the weapon.

Miss Holmes watched him board a train and after a few minutes' wait notified police and surrendered the gun. The weapon turned out to be a well made toy that looked like a revolver.

Storm Blows Down Tent; 125 Worshipers in Panic

Pottstown, Pa., Aug. 7.—(AP)—More than 125 worshipers were thrown into a panic tonight when the tent of an evangelical service at Limerick, four miles east of here, was blown down during an electrical storm. Only two persons were known to be injured.

Boston-Portland Sea Trip Abandoned After 109 Yrs.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Eastern Steamship Lines Inc. announced today it would discontinue on Aug. 31 the service between Boston and Portland, Me., which has been maintained for 109 years.

DAVID S. ROSE SERIOUSLY ILL; LEG AMPUTATED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—David Stuart Rose, five times Democratic mayor of Milwaukee, for half a century a colorful figure in the politics of the city, is seriously ill tonight in Milwaukee general hospital. He is 75 years old.

His right leg was amputated at the knee Friday after gangrene had appeared following the removal of a toe a week ago. There had been the appearance of blood poisoning and the toe was cut off to prevent the further spread of the infection. He was able to leave the hospital, but returned a week ago in preparation for the operation.

Rose was born in Darlington, Wis., and returned to that city several years ago to practice law.

Winnetka Girl, 13, Hurt in Fall from Horse

Mary Louise McKisson, 13 years old, 490 Hawthorn lane, Winnetka, suffered concussion of the brain yesterday when she fell from a horse she was riding in a lane two miles west of Winnetka. She was taken to the Evanston hospital. Attorney Nye F. Morehouse, 399 Elder lane, Winnetka, and two of his children were riding with her.

Libby Holman Expected to Give Up Today

Winston-Salem, N. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Libby Holman, Broadway singer of blues songs, will surrender tomorrow to face an indictment for the murder of her husband, Smith Reynolds, and will stake her hope of avoiding incarceration in jail on immediate habeas corpus proceedings.

Counsel for the dark haired musical revue favorite made this announcement today after conferring with her father, Alfred Holman, Cincinnati attorney, but withheld all information concerning her present whereabouts, and the time it is planned for her to give herself up.

William Graves of Winston-Salem, who is associated with Benet Polikoff, another local attorney in the defense, said Mrs. Reynolds would surrender here.

Satisfied with Promise.

Sheriff Transou Scott, who instigated the investigation into the mysterious fatal shooting of the 20 year old heir to one-fourth of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions, said he was satisfied with Holman's promise to deliver his daughter into custody without further delay.

Defense attorneys appeared optimistic over the prospect of obtaining the privilege of bail for their client, especially since her co-defendant, Albert [Ab] Walker, 19 year old chum of young Reynolds, was released in $25,000 bond yesterday after habeas corpus proceedings at which the state announced it did not have evidence to support a first degree murder charge against him.

Place Is Undetermined.

Just where the young widow's effort to obtain bail would take place remained undetermined today.

Mrs. Reynolds' attorneys pointed out they could ask for a habeas corpus writ from any Superior court judge.

HEAD OF FRANCE WILL HELP CUT WHEAT ON FARM

MERCY-LE-HAUT, France, Aug. 7.—(AP)—President Albert Lebrun arrived today for a vacation at his birthplace here in time, his brother said, to help cut wheat. His brother, Gabriel Lebrun, was interviewed while he was busy harvesting.

"You tell the world that I am glad Albert is coming," he said. "He is arriving in the nick of time. I expect that tomorrow morning he will help me cut wheat."

French Square Is Blown Up; Bretons Jailed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RENNES, France, Aug. 7.—While all Brittany was preparing to take part in a great celebration today marking the 400th anniversary of its union with France, this old capital of Brittany was rocked by an explosion. The blast announced the sudden coming to life of the long smoldering autonomy movement, which is headed by a group of Bretons who are clinging to their native language and customs like the Sinn Feiners of Ireland.

PREMIER HERRIOT. [Acme Photo.]

The explosion reduced to dust the huge bronze bas-relief on the city hall, which symbolizes the annexation in 1532. It also greatly damaged one of the most picturesque central squares in the French provinces.

Wreckage Litters Square.

Every window on the flag decked square was broken. Bits of bronze, shattered glass and paving stones, thrown up by the shock, littered the space. The Municipal theater of Rennes, which is known as the "Venice of France," was badly damaged, as were twelve nearby cafés.

The separatists, who never had been taken seriously heretofore, timed the explosion carefully. It occurred just before Premier Herriot and a trainload of cabinet ministers and state officials arrived at Vannes, 79 miles away, to occupy the stage at the ceremonies for which thousands of Brittany peasants and townspeople had gathered.

Baffled by the perfection of the job—there was no sign of a bomb or clew to the identity of the perpetrators—the police scoured Brittany for the perpetrators. Two alleged sympathizers of the separatists were arrested by police tonight and grilled. It was not established that they had anything to do with the explosion.

Risked Death Penalty.

The perpetrators of the blast face the death penalty, since the city hall was inhabited. Only the absence of the occupants prevented a loss of life.

Although no time bombs were found, several holes more than a foot deep were discovered drilled in the base of the monument. Authorities believe six sticks of dynamite were used.

The concierge of the city hall was thrown out of bed by the explosion. He ran into the square, but was unable to see anything except a thick cloud of dust. Police dashed out of the station only 100 feet away equally baffled. It was not until the air cleared that it was discovered that the monument was missing—completely annihilated.

The bas-relief contained 15 statues. It was the work of Jean Boucher, noted French sculptor, and represented the marriage in 1491 of the Duchess Anne of Brittany and King Charles VIII., which led to the annexation of Brittany by France.

Disliked Celebrations.

The autonomists for a long time have been discontented with the celebrations scheduled for the fourth centenary. They believed that Brittany should not invite French officials to celebrate the duchy's surrender of its sovereignty. Many decided to boycott the fêtes.

In 1911, when the destroyed monument was dedicated, there was a similar boycott.

Indignation is running high tonight in this city of 83,000 inhabitants. Hundreds are flocking here from the surrounding country to view the débris.

Premier Denounces Perpetrators.

VANNES, France, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The explosion at Rennes, which destroyed the monument to Franco-Breton union and marred Premier Herriot's celebration of the fourth centenary of the event here today was denounced by the French leader as stupid and criminal.

"It denotes in those who committed it perfect idiocy and complete debasement of soul and heart," the premier said. "Today's manifestation, however, affords striking proof of how much Brittany is attached to France."

Dedicate Shaft at Verdun.

[Copyright, 1932, By the New York Times.]

VERDUN, Aug. 7.—One of the monuments erected to the memory of those killed in the world war was dedicated at Douamont, just outside of Verdun, today by President Lebrun while two marshals, 101 generals, and veterans from every regiment, prelates of the church, Boy Scouts and many thousands of civilians from every province of France looked on.

President Lebrun not only paid honor to the 400,000 dead but drew the lesson that France must bend every effort toward establishing international peace.

2 OTHERS HURT FIGHTING BLAZE; ORDER INQUIRY

Comrades Risk Lives to Save Fighters.

Two firemen were killed and two others seriously injured early last evening when a four story wall collapsed on them as they were fighting a stubborn fire in the Herrmann warehouse at Branch and Cherry streets, on Goose Island. The dead:

LIEUT. VICTOR STRUBBE, 1435 Glenlake avenue.

The injured are Firemen Frank Narucki, 1132 North Winchester avenue, and Jacob Pozdal, 3227 North Karlov avenue. Their injuries were reported to be serious.

Third Serious Fire of Day.

This fire was the third of the day that caused deaths or severe injuries in the Chicago area. In the early morning six men lost their lives in a rooming house fire in Waukegan. In Cicero three firemen were hurt fighting a blaze at 1634 South 52d avenue. On Thursday several firemen were injured in a $1,500,000 fire that consumed the Quincy grain elevator and the Omaha Packing company plant near 22d and Halsted streets.

All the casualties at the warehouse fire yesterday were members of engine company No. 30. Also responding to the alarm were members of engine company No. 4. The latter entered the building to attack the flames while Lieut. Strubbe and his men climbed outside fire escapes with a line of hose.

Floors Collapse.

Narucki was standing at the fourth floor level and the lieutenant, Murphy and Pozdal at the third when, without warning, the floors near them collapsed. The collapse forced the wall outward. Narucki was hurled clear and was injured by the fall. The others were buried under tons of débris.

Other firemen dug them out. Lieut. Strubbe and Murphy died as they were being taken to hospitals. At the Alexian Brothers' hospital it was said late last night Pozdal's condition was critical. Narucki is expected to recover.

Recall Previous Fires.

The flames were quickly brought under control. Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan asserted that a previous fire in the building on May 23 had made the structure unsafe and that the owners had been told to move all goods out of it.

"Baled cotton has been smoldering inside for ten weeks," he said. "We informed the company the fire could not be put out unless the cotton was carried out. Firemen have been called there one or twice a week and the building commissioner's office condemned the structure."

Division Chief Charles Heaney corroborated his superior. He said that he called the managers of the Herrmann Warehouse company and told them the commodities should be moved out, but he was told this could not be done until an adjustment of the loss had been made by insurance companies.

Officials May Face Action.

Fire Attorney Thomas Sheehan announced that if negligence on the part of the company could be shown, action would be taken against the officials.

Pipeman Murphy was 42 years old. His three sons are left orphans with his death. Their mother died about a year ago and the children, from 10 to 15 years old, have been living with Murphy's 70 year old mother, Mrs. Mary Murphy. The fireman, his family said, had been despondent over his wife's death and the fact that slow city pay days had made it hard to meet his bills.

Lieut. Strubbe was a bachelor, 43 years old, and a veteran of many years' service. Pozdal and Narucki are married and each has three children.

FIND SIX BODIES

Waukegan firemen, after fighting flames which attacked a laborers' rooming house for six hours yesterday, removed from the ruins the bodies of six men who had been trapped and killed. The fire was in the Maywood hotel, a large frame and sheetiron structure beside the North Western railroad tracks at Greenwood avenue, on the northern outskirts of the city. The damage was estimated at $20,000. The victims were:

JOHN KOZEL, 55 years old, a dishwasher in the hotel.

ALBERT CZARNIECKI, 48 years old, a carpenter employed on a farm west of Zion, Ill., owned by Anthony Durka, the hotel proprietor.

FELIX SALAMANDRE, 56 years old, also a farm laborer.

The hotel housed, besides the family and employes of Durka, about thirty laborers in nearby industrial plants. Durka first discovered the fire when he was awakened by smoke. The blaze is believed to have started either from a water heater in the basement, or from a cigaret tossed into rubbish by one of the guests during a party Saturday night.

Durka led his wife, Mary, and their six children to safety. After they had escaped, Billy, 11 years old, the eldest of the children, broke away from his parents and dashed back into the burning building. He returned safely with a book of wild west stories, explaining that he had left one of the stories unfinished and wanted to see how it came out.

Harold Pillifant of Waukegan, a Lake county supervisor, hauled Charles Piccard, one of the roomers, through a window to safety. When Piccard had been revived from the effects of smoke he, too, reëntered the building. He aroused and assisted to safety John Turk and Adam Lazovik, who had been sleeping in a small room which firemen overlooked in their rescue work.

3 FIREMEN HURT

Three Cicero firemen were hurt early yesterday, one of them critically, when a heavy wooden beam broke and fell on them, pinning them beneath the debris which it carried down with it as they were fighting a fire in the plant of the R. T. Feltus Lumber company, 1634 South 52d avenue, Cicero. Damage by the fire was estimated at $25,000.

Other firemen dragged the injured men to safety. Edward Vacha, 37 years old, 5343 West 23rd place, Cicero, was most seriously hurt. Both his legs were broken, as well as one of his vertebrae. Lieut. James Run, 2527 52d avenue, Cicero, received a broken ankle, and Michael Sheehan, 1452 South Austin boulevard, Berwyn, a broken leg. Chief Fred Hahn of the Cicero department was cut by glass.

DOCTOR SLAIN BY BROTHER OF MAN HE KILLED

North Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Dr. Clyde S. Roath, 53 year old physician awaiting a second trial for the slaying of Patrolman Luther W. Lindsey, was shot and killed here today.

Patrolman Jim Lindsey, a brother of the slain officer, was ordered held on a charge of murder by Prosecuting Attorney Carl E. Bailey after Dr. Roath in a dying statement had named him as his assailant.

Mrs. C. A. Cothran told police she heard a disturbance outside her home and a man say "You killed my brother and now I'm going to kill you." She then heard a shot, but did not see the person who fired it, she said.

Dr. Roath was sentenced to life imprisonment for slaying Luther Lindsey, but won a reversal of the conviction in the State Supreme court. Lindsey was shot a year ago as he sat in his car with Mrs. Mary Griffin, a middle-aged divorcee employed in Dr. Roath's office.

Mrs. Griffin was tried as an accomplice in the slaying but was acquitted.

Print of Shoe Heel Leads to Capture of Slayer

The imprint of his shoe heel led to the capture last night of Joe McCain, 2125 Maypole avenue, 26 year old Negro, as the murderer of Benjamin Hanson, 40, of 2461 Pershing road, an oil station attendant at 2618 Warren boulevard. Hanson was shot and killed at the station early yesterday when he resisted robbery. Sergt. George Rowder inspected the grounds and found the heel mark, which indicated the killer limped. Last night Rowder and his squad saw McCain at Lake street and Western avenue. He was limping. The police seized him. He confessed the killing.

Son of Silk Merchant Injured by Street Car

Bruce Hillman, 8 years old, 4747 Drexel boulevard, was seriously injured late yesterday when he was struck by a surface car at 47th street and Drexel boulevard. He was taken to the Michael Reese hospital, where it was said he had suffered a concussion of the brain. He is the son of Benjamin Hillman, silk merchant.

STATE PREPARES POLLAK EVIDENCE FOR GRAND JURY

Gun Widow's Father May Be Set Free Today.

Freedom for her father and indictment for herself is the prospect confronting young Mrs. Dorothy Pollak, latest and prettiest of Chicago's succession of husband slayers. The preliminaries over, prosecutors plan to take witnesses before the grand jury tomorrow to ask true bills for the murder of the middle aged alcohol dealer and money lender, Joseph Pollak, who was shot to death by his wife on July 27.

SIMON MYSZA.

This move will mark the opening of the most significant phase of the legal process that will determine whether the shot that killed Pollak in his home at 1936 Garfield boulevard was fired impulsively, in the heat of fury, or deliberately, as the state contends. It should reveal new chapters of the enigmatic life of the dead man through records discovered in the last few days. It will result eventually in a decision as to whether his self-made widow is to pay the penalty for his death, or walk forth free as her predecessors frequently have done.

Father May Be Freed Today.

A probability that Simon Mysza, Mrs. Pollak's father, will be released today from the county jail where he has been held was seen in the admission in Felony court Saturday by Assistant State's Attorney Harry Gabel that Mysza could not be detained legally on the current charge against him. That charge is "accessory after the crime of murder." It was made by the coroner's jury which held Mrs. Pollak to the grand jury on a charge of murder. The statute, however, provides expressly that blood relatives of a defendant cannot be so held.

Attorney W. W. O'Brien, representing Mrs. Pollak and Mysza, announced when they were arraigned in the Felony court that he would ask a writ of habeas corpus this morning for Mysza, who is in ill health.

Prosecutors Gabel and Frank Mast have been interested in Mysza's knowledge of what happened in the Pollak apartment just before the fatal shot, although he now contends he was not present and knows nothing.

Called Witness by Interpreter.

An interpreter questioning Mysza the day after the crime asserted he said he had witnessed the quarrel between Pollak and his wife and its sudden end. Other witnesses have reported to the assistant state's attorneys that Mysza accused his daughter in the Polish language of having killed her husband in cold blood.

Examination of the third bank account known to have been used by Pollak, although under an alias, will also occupy the state today. This account, in the name of "Frank Baroch," was found in the People's National bank at 1542 West 47th street, which is now in the hands of receivers.

A closed account through which Pollak had handled half a million dollars in three years has been revealed in the Depositors State bank at 47th and Ashland, which is also in receivership. Until recently Pollak had had an account under the name of Frank Hrodek at the Stockyards National bank. Large sums had been deposited in the latter account, but the balance was slight.

Deposit Boxes Give No Clews.

No safe deposit boxes in any of the three institutions has yielded any information of aid in the investigation. A box held by Pollak in the Depositors State bank had been cleared out seven months ago.

Assistant State's Attorney Mast said yesterday that there is a possibility that Pollak had put much of his property in his wife's name, to deceive the collector of internal revenue and to evade payment of taxes on his correct income.

Mast said he expects a report today from his investigators "which will be of interest to the jury." He refused to amplify the remark.

ORRIE ROBINSON SOUGHT.

FIRES ON WIFE AT BEER PARTY AND KILLS FRIEND

Three Held for Tragedy at Lily Lake.

Arthur Deesbach, 45 years old, a steamfitter, held a small home brew party Saturday evening in his cottage at Lily lake, in McHenry county. Early yesterday, for some reason, probably engendered by the brew, according to the authorities, he got a pistol and took three shots at his wife, Olive.

It was not until deputy sheriffs aroused him and arrested him eight hours later that he learned that one of his bullets had killed his friend, Nicholas N. Weber, 60 years old.

Forget Cause of Quarrel.

Weber, a storekeeper at Spring Grove, in the northeast part of McHenry county, arrived at the Deesbach cottage shortly before the shooting. He said he found the Deesbachs and Mrs. Elva Settee, 43 years old, who lived with them, drinking home brew, and joined the party.

When authorities questioned them later no one could remember the cause of the quarrel between Deesbach and his wife. Before he died, however, Weber said that Deesbach got a small automatic pistol and opened fire on her. Mrs. Deesbach was uninjured, but one of the bullets struck Weber in the abdomen.

Dying Man Walks Block.

Weber staggered out of the cottage and walked to a filling station a block away. The attendant there placed him in an outaomobile and took him to St. Therese's hospital. Weber died there four hours later, after he had made a statement to Sheriff Tiffany of Lake county.

Sheriff Tiffany met McHenry county officers at Woodstock and went with them to the Deesbach cottage, where they arrested the Deesbachs and Mrs. Settee. All three asserted that they were unaware that Weber had been wounded. They were locked up at Woodstock and questioned by State's Attorney V. S. Lumley of McHenry county.

Lumber Plant Flames Lure Wild Ducks to Death

Kalispell, Mont., Aug. 7.—(AP)—A great flock of wild ducks circled over a fire which destroyed part of the Kalispell Lumber company plant here, finally plunging into the flames and perishing. The birds apparently were attracted by the light.

To Recall Aviatrix

Miami, Fla., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Jessie M. Keith Miller, Australian aviatrix, will again take the witness stand in Circuit court Monday morning when the second week of the trial of Capt. W. N. Lancaster, charged with the murder of Haden Clarke at the home of the aviatrix on April 21, starts.

State's Attorney Vernon Hawthorne will call her and, it is believed, will ask her to go over point by point the story she told in the six hours and twenty minutes she spent on the stand last Wednesday and Thursday. Hawthorne appears confident he can shake the testimony she gave at that time.

Whether the defense will question the aviatrix when Hawthorne finishes with her has not yet been decided by defense attorneys James Carson and James Lathero. Hawthorne hopes the state will be able to rest its case tomorrow except for what witnesses it may call in rebuttal and allow the defense to start placing its witnesses on the stand when court opens Tuesday morning.

MATCH CHEWING BETRAYS KILLER OF ELDERLY MAN

Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Chewed-off match ends today served state troopers as a clew and led to the arrest of Elmer Rabideau, 19, as the slayer of Samuel Bradley, 70 year old retired farmer of Cannon's Corners, 20 miles from here.

The match ends were found beside the victim's body. Evidently some one had been chewing matches nervously while looking for Bradley's valuables after shooting him through the head.

The troopers took young Rabideau, a neighbor, into custody. They denied him cigarettes, but didn't take his matches from him. He produced one after another and chewed away the ends. When they produced similar ones they found beside Bradley's body, the troopers said, Rabideau confessed.

Drowning of Chicagoan Puzzles Racine Officials

Racine, Wis., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Puzzled by the condition of the body of Nelse Sorles, Chicago steel worker, when it was recovered from Eagle lake today, Racine county authorities tonight started an investigation of the drowning. Sorles drowned while on a fishing trip alone in a rowboat, a party of friends said. He had been celebrating his 42d birthday. Authorities discovered a large lump on his head and found that one of his shoes was missing.

FATAL POWDER FOUND IN BODY OF MRS. O'BRIEN

Slaying Charge Delayed Until Inquest Today.

Amytal, a strong sedative, was found in the stomach of Mrs. Vera Spafford O'Brien, who died under mysterious circumstances last Monday in her home at 4043 Melrose street. This, it was learned yesterday, will be the report of Dr. Clarence Muhlberger, coroner's physician, when the inquest is held at 11 o'clock this morning.

DR. W. A. O'BRIEN.

Dr. William A. O'Brien, a radiologist, still insisted yesterday in his cell at the Albany Park police station, where he is being held pending the inquest, that his wife committed suicide or died accidentally from an overdose of sleeping powder.

Death Cause in Doubt.

A sufficient quantity of amytal was found in Mrs. O'Brien's stomach to cause death, Dr. Muhlberger found, but investigators said it is not certain that she died from this cause. Her mouth had been burned by ether, chloroform or some other anesthetic, according to Dr. Muhlberger, and it was believed possible that she died from an overdose of this.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne said Dr. O'Brien would not be booked on a murder charge before the inquest, which is to be held four hours before a writ of habeas corpus is returnable in Judge James J. Kelley's court. Whether O'Brien will be booked after the inquest will depend upon the finding of the coroner's jury, Mr. Ditchburne said.

Note Is Chief State Evidence.

In the absence of a motive, the state's principal evidence against Dr. O'Brien is the positive assertion of J. Fordyce Wood, handwriting expert, that Mrs. O'Brien did not write the supposed suicide note found beside her body. Wood also will testify that the handwriting bears a resemblance to that of Dr. O'Brien.

A nurse, Helen [Patsy] Bruno, formerly employed at the Belmont hospital and with whom Dr. O'Brien lived before his marriage, was still being sought by police, although there were reports that she is in Honolulu.

TWO MEN FOUND MURDERED; RUM WAR IS BLAMED

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The bodies of two men, believed either murdered in Long Island bootlegging warfare or killed by an escaped maniac, were found in a dense thicket on a summer camp site north of Great River, L. I., today.

Apparently the bodies had been taken to the scene by motor and then dragged through dense underbrush to the place where they were found. Decomposition made it impossible to determine definitely whether the men had been shot.

Suffolk County Coroner Thomas Silliman immediately began an autopsy at Central Islip, L. I. The spot where the bodies were found is not a great distance from the large state insane asylum. Except for summer shacks here and there, the entire area is woodland and scrub.

The bodies were those of a very well dressed man weighing about 180 pounds and of a 160 pound man dressed only in overalls and shoes.

STONECUTTER KILLS SELF.

Harry Badham, 46 years old, 7205 Bennett avenue, an unemployed stonecutter, killed himself in the Archer Wood cemetery, 80th street and Keane avenue, with a razor. He left a note saying he had been ill four years.

STATE CURBS 'BOUNTY RACKET'; SAVES MONEY

Madison, Wis., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The state government has put a stop to the "bounty racket" in Wisconsin and has saved $50,000 this year by changing the fees paid for predatory animals and making a careful check upon pelts presented for collections, it was announced today by Paul D. Kelleter, conservation director.

A raise in the bounty for wolf cubs from $4 to $10 and a decrease for mature wolves from $30 to $20 was effective in abolishing wolf "farming" in various parts of northern Wisconsin, where residents reared wolves to maturity on household garbage so that a higher price could be claimed in bounty.

In previous years bounties were paid on pelts which bore a fair resemblance to a wolf. A close check up this year revealed that German shephard, collie, and airedale and even fox hides had been dyed and were presented for bounty collection.

JAPAN PREPARES FOR RECOGNITION OF MANCHOUKUO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 8 [Monday.]—Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto today was installed as commander of the Kwangtung army and Japanese ambassador to Manchoukuo, Japanese-supported state in Manchuria. He will proceed immediately to Manchuria, thus effecting the first step in Japan's proposed recognition of Manchoukuo.

Gen. Honjo's appointment as supreme war councilor also was announced. The government soon will publish a statement explaining that the dispatching of Gen. Muto will lead to the signing of a treaty of formal recognition of Manchoukuo.

Boy, His Uncle's Wife, $6,000 and Auto Missing

Cragin police were asked last night to search for Mrs. Laura Maniscalco, 25 years old, of 2054 North Laramie avenue, and Paul Provenzano, 19, of 1119 Woodbine avenue, Oak Park, nephew of Mrs. Maniscalco's husband, Frank, who disappeared from their homes Saturday night. Police were told that $6,000 and an automobile belonging to Provenzano's mother disappeared at the same time.

THREE WOMEN DIE IN CRASH ON DUNES ROAD

Auto Collisions Claim Five Lives in Day; 20 Hurt.

Three women members of an Indiana party bound for an outing in Chicago were killed and five other persons were injured in a head on collision between two automobiles on the Dunes highway three miles west of Michigan City yesterday. The accident was one of a series of holiday crashes in the Chicago area which brought death to five persons and injuries to twenty more.

The three women killed were: Mrs. Joseph Zusman, 40 years old, and her daughter, Minnie, 20 years old, both of South Bend; and Mrs. Charles Ziker, 38 years old, of Mishawaka. Another daughter of Mrs. Zusman, Leona, was taken unconscious to a Michigan City hospital. Mrs. Ziker's husband, Charles, and their son, Seymour, 7 years old, were also injured, as was Morton Chaxton of South Bend.

Driver of Other Car Held.

All were riding in an automobile which was struck by a car driven by E. Bryant Hanbey, 40 years old, 2860 East 76th street, Chicago. Hanbey, who suffered a broken leg, was held in technical custody by the Michigan City police on a charge of driving while intoxicated. The police said he would be turned over to the authorities of Porter county, where the accident occurred.

Henry Volepps, 32 years old, 1535 Clarinda avenue, was killed last evening and nine other persons were injured, one probably fatally, in a head on collision of two automobiles on Milwaukee avenue, north of Glenview road.

Nine Are Injured.

Helen Kobas, 18 years old, who lived with her family at the same address as Volepps, was taken to the Des Plaines hospital in an unconscious condition. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cassimir Kobas, suffered fractured collar bones, and their two sons, Steffie, 7 years old, and Harry, 13 years old, were cut and bruised. Joseph Michalik, 32 years old, 1537 Clarinda avenue, driver of the car in which the Kobas family and Volepps were riding, received minor hurts.

Tandy W. Platt, 29 years old, 4355 Altgeld street, driver of the other car, asserted that Michalik swerved over to the wrong side of the four lane road and hit his car. Platt, his wife, Alice, 28 years old, and their son, Charles, 3 years old, received minor hurts.

Douglas Plummer, 23 years old, of Hammond, was instantly killed, and two La Porte young women, Josephine Kaska, 20 years old, and Helen Kellogg, 24 years old, suffered broken backs when an automobile carrying them and four friends to a picnic left the road and struck a telephone pole four miles west of La Porte.

Robert Sweitzer, 21 years old, of Hammond, driver of the car, told police that he was forced from the pavement on a curve by a car going in the opposite direction. He and two young men and a young woman who composed the remainder of the party suffered minor hurts.

Three Deaths in County.

The death of Volepps and two other persons increased the Cook county motor fatality toll to 689 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

Bernard Fall, 5 years old, 3034 Aberdeen street. Died last night in the Auburn Park hospital of injuries he received earlier in the day when he was run over by a truck in the alley behind his home. George Katter, 7336 Union avenue, the driver, said the accident was unavoidable.

An unidentified Negro, about 35 years old. Struck last night in front of 1131 Madison street by a truck driven by Robert Messmer, 33 years old, 3611 Sterling road, Downers Grove. Messmer took him to the county hospital, where he died. Witnesses said the Negro appeared to have been drinking and stepped off the curb into the path of the truck.

Theresa Bradley, 19 years old, who lived on a farm west of Waukegan, died yesterday in St. Therese's hospital, Waukegan, of a fractured skull incurred Saturday when the automobile she was driving struck another car at Green Bay road and Washington street, near her home. Stanley Hamilton of North Manchester, Ind., driver of the other car, was not held.

Elgin Man Dies of Injuries.

Andrew V. Magnus, 60 years old, 204 Wellington avenue, Elgin, died there yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital of injuries received Friday in an automobile accident. He was seated in a parked car on the Grant highway 15 miles west of Elgin when the car was struck by an automobile driven by John Camey, an Australian, who is touring in the United States.

John Balek, 35 years old, 10538 South Maplewood avenue, a motorcycle policeman, suffered internal injuries yesterday when his motorcycle struck a safety island at 70th street and Ashland avenue while he was chasing a speeder.

Divorce to Pave Way for Stars' Marriage

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK.

Wife to Get $100,000

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—George Jessel and his estranged wife, Florence Courtney, will confer with their lawyers tomorrow to arrange a property settlement that will precede their divorce, the actor admitted upon his arrival with Norma Talmadge from Chicago today.

Jessel said that Miss Courtney, who sings with her sister in vaudeville, has agreed to accept $100,000, to be paid over a five year period. In addition he will give her his two Rolls-Royce cars.

Asked about his romance with Norma Talmadge, with whom he is now making stage appearances, Jessel said:

"I can't very well marry Miss Talmadge until I am freed and until she gets a divorce from her husband, Joseph M. Schenck."

Both Miss Talmadge and Jessel have apartments at the Hotel Dorset.

Jessel expects that, after tomorrow's parley, Miss Courtney, who is visiting her mother here, will leave for Reno to sue him on grounds of incompatability. They have been divorced twice previously, but remarried.

CONDUCTOR SHOT, KILLED IN FIGHT WITH POLICEMAN

Thomas J. Mulhaney, 35 years old, of 5429 Bishop street, a street car conductor, was shot and fatally wounded last night in a rough and tumble fight with Policeman William Foley, 55, of the vehicle bureau. Foley, in civilian attire, was walking to his home at 5522 Morgan street when Mulhaney halted him. Mulhaney had been drinking and causing a disturbance, police said. Foley placed Mulhaney under arrest and the fight followed. The shooting occurred, Foley said, when Mulhaney tried to grab his police revolver. Mulhaney was shot in the mouth and died at the German Deaconess hospital.

POLICE LOOKING FOR 4 PAIRS OF A. W. O. L. PANTS

Four youths went swimming yesterday afternoon at 41st street and the outer drive. When they emerged they found themselves in a predicament. Their shoes, sox, shirts and underwear were where they had left them on the beach. But four pairs of pants were missing.

Keeping on their bathing suits and donning the clothing that was left, the four trooped over to the Hyde Park police station and asked Desk Sergt. Jesse Grimth to hedp find the trousers. He promised to do his best.

$8,000 IN RUGS ARE STOLEN FROM B. J. GRIGSBY HOME

Burglars broke into the home of B. J. Grigsby, 601 North Prospect avenue, Park Ridge, Saturday or yesterday, and stole three oriental rugs valued at $8,000. Mr. Grigsby is president of the Grigsby-Grunow company.

The theft was discovered by Harry Barrett, 529 North Prospect avenue, a neighbor, who noticed a broken glass in the rear door of the Grigsby home. He notified police, and they reached Mr. Grigsby at his summer home in Barrington.

After inspecting the house, Mr. Grigsby said that the rugs were the only objects taken.

PASTOR, 52, AND BRIDE, 19, HELD IN POISON CASE

Former Wife of Minister Takes Capsule, Dies.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 7.—(AP)—County Attorney Philip K. Oldham said tonight S. A. Berrie, Muskogee minister, had admitted a love affair with his 19 year old bride before the death from poison of his first wife.

Both Berrie and his girl wife admitted they had been in love prior to the death of Berrie's first wife, and that Berrie had written passionate verse to her, Oldham said.

The county attorney said both had denied any knowledge of the alleged poisoning, although Berrie said his wife, who, he said, was jealous and irritable, had threatened suicide.

No charges were filed, the couple being held technically "for investigation," pending the grand jury hearing tomorrow.

Dies at Church Lecture.

The pastor is head of a tabernacle he founded here in May after the Cherokee presbytery accused him of "teaching doctrines contrary to the Presbyterian faith." He married Ida Bess Bright May 17, two months after the death of his first wife.

She was a teacher in his tabernacle Sunday school.

County Attorney Oldham said he learned the first Mrs. Berrie swallowed a capsule—presumably containing a heart depressant she habitually carried—shortly before she attended a church lecture at which she died. She was 51 years old and had been in poor health.

The body was exhumed last week at the request of Mrs. Clem Trotter, a sister of the dead woman. The state chemist reported the presence of poison sufficient to be fatal.

Find Passionate Verses.

Attorney Oldham said he would present in evidence passionate verses and notes discovered in the minister's bookcase. Among the verses allegedly in Berrie's handwriting was the following:

"Could I just hold you in my embrace,
And kiss your rosy lips
And look into your baby face
And like the bee that honey sips
The joys that life doth give.
To me no other one can be;
For you alone I live.
O, why can't we be free?"

Berrie formerly held pastorates at Tulare, Cal.; Ralls, Tex.; Fayetteville, Ark.; Raemer, Tenn., and Searcy, Ark., whence he came to Muskogee.

DIES OF FIGHT INJURIES.

Joseph Bartuchi, 45 years old, 1722 Burlington street, died late Saturday at the People's hospital of a skull fracture suffered in a fight a week ago. Stephen Erjny, 34 years old, of the same address, was arrested and charged with assaulting Bartuchi.

USES PLANE TO COLLECT DEBT FROM FLYERS

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Otto Hillig, passenger last year on the trans-Atlantic flight of the Bellanca monoplane Liberty, ended today a week of seeking Roger Q. Williams and Miss Elvy Kalep, who intend to cross the ocean again in the same plane.

Hillig, who sold them the plane, said as he rushed into Floyd Bennett field at the end of his search that he had followed the flyers to Old Orchard beach, Maine, and back again in an effort to collect a past due payment on the plane.

Hillig, his lawyer, and Williams conferred in a hangar and shortly thereafter the pursuers left. They apparently were satisfied they would receive a $500 payment on the amount due. Williams said that the conference was of a "private nature" and that everything was "adjusted."

He and Miss Kalep are planning to fly soon for Greece.

WIFE DROPS PLEA TO KEEP PICCARD FROM HIS FLIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 7.—Mme. Auguste Piccard and five little Piccards arrived tonight to see their father off on his second trip into the stratosphere. Mme. Piccard gave her assurance that she would not prevent the flight which she opposes. She had refused to let him risk his life in the stratosphere again, but changed her mind when she saw how disappointed he was.

Prof. Piccard, who ascended more than 50,000 feet last year, said tonight he would not take off until Wednesday. He had previously planned to hop tomorrow.

The balloonist and Max Cosyn, young electrical engineer, tested and adjusted many instruments. Piccard supervised the construction of a wooden starting platform. Barbed wire, policemen, and dogs guarded him from the inquisitive.

however, to furnish detailed accounting of payments out of this $1,071,730 fund.

Strong objections are to be made to congress against the military academy being permitted to hide this vast sum away without offering a public accounting for proper auditing. While the controller's office did not impute dishonesty in handling this and other funds, it declared the opportunity for its uses exists as long as it remains out of control of any but the academy officials.

Still another army fund, one which is maintained for the deposit of the pay of soldiers while they are in hospitals, particularly those suffering from mental diseases. One case called was that of a man with 25 years service who was sent to Washington from the Canal Zone suffering from a mental disorder. Later, he was sent to an insane asylum where his reason was restored.

Pay Turned Over to Mother.

Upon inquiring about his pay he was told it had been put in the particular fund for that purpose and later turned over to his mother. It happened that the soldier made no objection to this. But it was pointed out that if he had protested against his money being given outright to his mother he might have been able to hold the government liable for the entire sum.

Walter Reed hospital deposits this fund for its patients in the little state bank in Takoma Park, Md., just across the line from Washington. Last year deposits totaled $40,000. The maximum daily balance was $6,000. Although the bank is not a national bank, the maximum security demanded was a bond of $2,000. If the bank should fail the treasury would be obliged to make up the difference.

The subsistence fund for Walter Reed also was deposited in the Takoma Park bank. In 1930 it aggregated $20,923, drawing 2 per cent interest. In a savings account, for the same purpose and in the same bank, was $10,000 drawing 4 per cent interest. The bank was bonded to the hospital for only $10,000.

Not Deposited in Treasury.

"These funds should be deposited in the treasury where there would be no question about their safety," said George A. Ninas, an expert in the controller general's office who has handled considerable of this investigation. "Of course, the reason they are not turned over to the treasury for safe keeping is that those in charge of them do not want us to get our hands on them."

The navy maintains a fund specifically set aside for investigations by its intelligence bureau. Because of the secret nature of this work, congress agreed that the secretary of the navy should decide whether this fund should be accounted for. In so far as such a secret subject could be investigated it was found that this fund has grown to considerable proportions from year to year without a full accounting even being made.

Aside from this fund and one that is created by gate receipts for football games played by the navy, the navy department opens all of its special funds to auditing by the controller general's office. In addition to those numerated, there are, however, many funds hidden away in the army that are to be subjects of inquiry by the controller general if he can get congress to order the books opened.

Navy May Urge Additional Safeguards Be Put In St. Lawrence Waterway Pact

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—A naval recommendation for the addition of safeguards to the St. Lawrence seaway treaty stipulating that Great Britain and Newfoundland join with Canada in guaranteeing the United States complete freedom for its shipping in the British controlled Atlantic approaches to the waterway is expected to be the outcome of a special study begun by the navy department today.

The purpose of the study is to determine the effect construction of the billion dollar St. Lawrence waterway and the expected diversion of American commerce over that route would have upon American naval strategy in the future and the fleet's ability to afford adequate protection to this country's commercial ships. The inquiry also is expected to determine just how far the treaty as now written protects American ships from interference while operating in the approaches to the St. Lawrence waterway.

Vital Question Overlooked.

While naval officials declined to comment, all indications were that the vital question of affording adequate protection to American shipping moving seaward from the St. Lawrence had been overlooked by the state department in concluding the treaty. At all events, no language in the treaty could be found which specifically guaranteed that in event of war in which the United States was a neutral and Great Britain a belligerent American goods would be free from interference as they moved through the St. Lawrence gulf.

The launching of the naval study had the immediate effect of drawing attention to the hitherto overlooked circumstances that American ships using the canal would have to pass to sea through waters controlled by Canada, Newfoundland and Great Britain rather than by the United States. American shipping which today goes to sea through an American port and through American territorial waters would face the hazards, in event of international trouble of leaving and entering the United States through a port that at present is controlled completely by foreign powers.

While the navy department in its study appeared interested only in the way the diversion of commerce would affect its task in defending American neutral shipping in event of another war there were strong indications today that senators opposed to the treaty would utilize any facts dug up by the navy as ammunition against the treaty.

In pointing out some of the political and physical difficulties which would face the American fleet in protecting commerce moving in and out of the St. Lawrence Capt. Dudley W. Knox, U. S. N., retired, today in an interview urged that steps be taken at once to protect American commerce using that route.

Influence on Naval Strategy.

"We should remember," he said today, "that Canada and Britain are both among our greatest commercial competitors. We are even now witness to important negotiations in Ottawa looking to the improvement of trade between them which necessarily would be largely to the detriment of our own commerce. Whatever is possible to be done now should be done, to provide against the very human tendency for our trade competitors to take advantage of the future situation which will place them in almost complete control over one of our main arteries of commerce."

Asked regarding the effect of the St. Lawrence on naval strategy Capt. Knox, one of the navy's ablest writers, said:

"The projected navigational improvements in the St. Lawrence river under the recently negotiated treaty, seem certain to have a profound influence upon the American seaborne commerce and naval strategy of the future. A large part of the products from our middle west which now move for export through American seaports are sure to be diverted to the St. Lawrence estuary to debouch on the high seas at exits far removed from American naval or other control and protection.

"While doubtless under the new treaty whose details are not yet at hand Canada will guarantee free and unhampered transit through her waters for American goods bound overseas, our problem of protection is far more complicated than this. It obviously involves our relationships with Great Britain upon whose navy Canada relies for naval protection despite her new political independence from the mother country. How far is the royal navy, having the complete freedom of Canadian waters and possessed of an important naval base at Halifax, to be bound by Canadian agreements with us?

Question of Newfoundland.

"Then there is the question of Newfoundland, so situated geographically as to command the St. Lawrence exit and so constituted politically as to be independent of both Canada and Great Britain. What Canada is willing to concede or do may be easily nullified by either Great Britain or Newfoundland or both.

"Thus we have a very intricate and peculiar three cornered problem respecting the security of what promises to be one of our main commercial exits to the high seas, from which the American navy can be readily blocked off by the British navy based on Halifax or Newfoundland."

Capt. Knox was of the opinion that American shipping using the St. Lawrence would experience considerable difficulty in the event of a war in which this country was a neutral. He called attention to the long distances American cruisers would have to travel to perform patrol duty off the St. Lawrence gulf.

Infringe Neutral Rights.

"Before we had entered the world war our merchant ships were frequently interferred with by the belligerent navies, even close to American ports," said Capt. Knox. "There were diversions into out of the way and unsought harbors for long and expensive examinations and other interruptions and delays which seriously infringed neutral rights and placed a severe financial burden upon our commerce, without involving us in war.

"As a neutral in the future we have to expect similarly provoking and burdensome restraints upon our ocean trade. Owing to the geographical features of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, this can be done with much greater facility there than under any of the conditions existing during the world war. And our ability to keep such harassments within bounds will be correspondingly less for our commerce using the St. Lawrence route.

"The solution of our embarrassments over the protection of our future commerce using the St. Lawrence artery is not easy. A clear recognition of them at this time, however, is an indispensable prelude to arrangements fundamentally satisfactory to us and best calculated to avoid serious friction with our neighbors when they may be sorely tempted under the stress of war to interfere with neutral American trade. The least that should be insisted at the present stage is that England and Newfoundland should join with Canada in guaranteeing us complete freedom for our shipping in the approaches of the great inland seaway which we are to participate in constructing."

HOME IN AURORA ROBBED OF $50,000 VIOLIN AND GEMS

Mrs. Elizabeth Nadelhoffer, 857 9th avenue, Aurora, a wealthy widow, reported to authorities there yesterday that a Stradivarius violin valued at $50,000 was stolen from her home some time Saturday night.

According to Mrs. Nadelhoffer, who is a noted amateur musician, the instrument was purchased by relatives in Italy about fifteen years ago and presented to her. She asserted they paid at least $50,000 for it. The thieves who took it also stole a diamond lavaliere valued at between $900 and $900.

The Chicago police were asked to watch pawn shops for the violin. It was in a case, and two bows of special make, said to have cost $150 each, were packed in it. The violin had the initials "E. N." in gold inlay on it.

COST OF BOARD AT UNIVERSITY IN INDIANA CUT

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—A cut in living costs which is estimated will save Indiana university students $273,000 during the coming year was announced here today following conferences between President W. L. Bryan and managers and proprietors of dormitories and rooming houses.

Room and board in the university dormitories will be lowered from $10.50 and $10 weekly rates of last year to $8 per week for this year. Rooms will be provided in residence halls for girls for $2 per week. Bloomington landladies will reduce their rates $1 per week per room. Fraternities and sororities likewise will inaugurate a new low rate living scale, it was announced.

DUFFY PRAISES ROOSEVELT FOR ENEMIES MADE

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt should be respected for the enemies he has made, Declared F. Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac, Democratic candidate for United States senator, at the county Democratic picnic here today.

"His record is replete with instances showing that he championed the cause of 'the forgotten man'," said Mr. Duffy.

"In his personal, as well as public life, Roosevelt has triumphed over seemingly insurmountable difficulties. Even today, political foes are sponsoring a damnable propaganda alleging that Roosevelt is in poor health physically.

"Unable to find anything in his record which will bear attack, his enemies have turned to a handicap which he suffered. Infantile paralysis years ago left its mark upon him. Through diligent care he has regained his health completely. Recently he was examined by a board of physicians when he applied for $550,000 in life insurance. He was found thoroughly sound and insurance companies offered to insure him for upwards of a million dollars. Can that indicate phrysical weakness?"

CAPTURE YOUTH WHO ESCAPED PATROL WAGON

Samuel Igloe, 21 years old, 3722 Emerald avenue, who escaped from a patrol wagon two weeks ago while being taken to court on a charge of automobile theft, was rearrested yesterday in a stolen car. With him was James Vergenal, 3610 Wallace street.

Policemen Thomas St. Lawrence and William Loftis, of the Woodlawn station, seized the pair at 63d street and Kimbark avenue after a short chase. In the car, which was stolen several weeks ago from Sherman Brandt, 3935 Diversey avenue, the policemen found 20 skeleton keys designed to fit several makes of automobiles.

The arrests resulted in another police inquiry. Detectives going to Vergenal's home learned that his cousin, Helen Kazaitis, 15 years old, a housemaid employed by Mrs. Philip Levy, 3145 Greenleaf avenue, died yesterday en route to the county hospital. Police said they were told the girl might have died from the effects of an operation.

Clothes Line Breaks Baby's Fall; Saves Life

TWO CANDIDATES OPEN CAMPAIGNS FOR NEXT 2 WEEKS

Roosevelt and Hoover Both to Speak.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt, rival candidates for the presidency in the November elections, are scheduled to come to oratorical grips in campaign addresses to be delivered during the next thirteen days.

President Hoover will start the Republican machine into high gear for what threatens to be a spectacular campaign next Thursday night when he delivers his acceptance speech during notification day exercises which will bring thousands of Republican leaders to the national capital.

A few days later, on Aug. 20, Gov. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee, will deliver at Columbus, O., a formal address answering the arguments put forth by Mr. Hoover during the notification day ceremonies. The New York governor also will outline more clearly the position he will take on the major issues of the campaign.

Then the Battle Is On.

With these two formal campaign utterances the battle for the presidency will be formally on. From then to November when millions of American voters will go to the polls to decide whether to replace the man in the White House or to give him another four year term the spotlight of campaign publicity will burn brightly on both candidates.

Just as the tide of prohibition sentiment dominated both major conventions at Chicago so prohibition seems destined to supercede all other issues during the final twelve weeks of the campaign.

Although President Hoover is reported to have subordinated prohibition in his acceptance speech to economic issues with special reference to his program for winning back prosperity after thirty-seven months of depression it is the remarks that the President will make on the prohibition question which will command the greatest attention throughout the country.

Saloon as an Issue.

Advisers close to the President said today that the acceptance speech as now written will dwell with particular emphasis upon the saloon in an attempt to make its return an issue between the two parties.

The reports are that the President intends to reassure the drys that the Republican plan for dealing with the 18th amendment will make the return of the saloon impossible. At the same time he is expected to charge that the Democratic plank by permitting a popular vote on direct repeal leaves the door wide open for the saloon to return.

All indications tonight were that President Hoover will take over the prohibition plank adopted by the Republican party at Chicago, a plank that offers a vote on modification of the eighteenth amendment but no vote on its outright repeal. It is probable that while he will assert the right of the American people to another vote on the eighteenth amendment, he will qualify this utterance by stating that the vote should be only on the question of whether the amendment should be superceded by some other form of handling of the prohibition problem.

Signal for Alignment.

Under all circumstances the Hoover and Roosevel speeches are expected to be the signal for a general alignment of wet and dry forces back of one or the other of the candidates.

The Columbus speech to be made by Gov. Roosevelt, it is believed here, will be colored largely by the stand taken by President Hoover Thursday night on such subjects as prohibition, war debts, the depression, foreign relations, and other major issues. Republican leaders here believe that the Columbus speech will in many ways take the place of the formal acceptance speech which Gov. Roosevelt foreswore as an economy move immediately after his nomination by his party convention in Chicago.

BURDEN OF PROOF IN WALKER CASE TO BE UP TO HIM

Must Disprove Charge of Unfitness for Office.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Jimmy Walker, the dapper mayor of New York, will find the burden of proof put upon him when the public hearing of charges of his unfitness for office is opened next Thursday afternoon by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The governor, who motored back to Albany tonight after enjoying forty-eight hours of sport and relaxation at his Hyde Park estates, refused to make any statement concerning the Walker case.

Warrant Public Hearing.

But the governor obviously considered the charges against Mayor Walker sufficiently strong to cause him to order a public hearing. A public trial of the charges and the procedure to be followed, it was learned, will put the responsibility upon the wise-cracking Jimmy Walker.

When the hearing opens, Gov. Roosevelt will make a short statement advising the mayor that his formal answer to the charges brought by Samuel Seabury, chief counsel for a legislative investigating committee, is unsufficient to acquit him of the accusations. The mayor will be invited to present his defense. The governor has free power to remove him from office.

Governor to Ask Questions.

The governor will have a number of specific questions for the mayor, which were not satisfactorily answered by Walker in his formal statement to the governor.

Then the mayor will make a demand for permission to cross-examine certain witnesses who accused him of accepting gifts of money and securities in exchange for public favors.

The governor is desirous of cleaning up the entire matter before he leaves for Columbus, O., on Aug. 19, to make his first major political address in his campaign for the presidency.

CARD PARTY AMBUSHED.

James Rogo, 39 years old, 906 Forquer street, and Jessie Ortis, 32 years old, 1301 Newberry avenue, were wounded early yesterday when a volley of shots was fired through a window into Rogo's flat. Rogo was host at a card party there. Both men were taken to the county hospital.

HOOVER'S SPEECH WRITING HALTED BY HEAT WAVE

Skyland, Va., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Because of the record breaking heat wave which invaded the high altitudes of his mountain camp, President Hoover today devoted himself entirely to rest and delayed work on his acceptance speech to be delivered next Thursday night.

Aids at the President's Rapidan camp, high in the Virginia Blue Ridge mountains, said he was giving considerable thought to completion of his address but that actual work upon it would not be considered until his return to the White House tomorrow.

Despite a temperature of 83 degrees near noon, a new high for the Rapidan camp, Mr. Hoover took a brief stroll over mountain trails before luncheon.

The chief executive intends to rise shortly after dawn tomorrow to breakfast and leave the camp by six o'clock. He has found that a departure at this hour will place him at his desk in the executive mansion by 9:30 a. m.

Warns Hoover to Stay Dry or There'll Be Borah Party

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, Methodist dry leader, declared here today that unless President Hoover, in his acceptance message, places his personal stamp of approval on the 18th amendment and the Volstead act a "William E. Borah party" will spring up within 24 hours.

"With such a leader," he said, "the decent people of the United States will have somewhere to go."

BUSINESS IMPROVES WHEN GARNER GOES FISHING, SNELL SAYS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Representative Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.], minority leader of the house, today asserted that there has "been a steady business upturn since Speaker John Garner returned to Texas to try his fantastic schemes on the fishes instead of the nation."

The Snell attack on the Democratic vice presidential nominee was prompted by the statement of Representative Sam Rayburn [Dem., Tex.], Mr. Garner's campaign manager, that the people of the country want new leadership.

"Fortunately for the country, it has not had the leadership Mr. Rayburn has in mind," said Mr. Snell. "He refers to Democratic leadership which thus far has advanced only two plans for getting the nation out of the depression:

"By Presidential Candidate Roosevelt, the planting of a billion trees.

"By Vice Presidential Candidate Garner, the planting of a billion dollars of tax money in useless postoffices.

"With the adjournment of congress there has come a restoration of the only additional element necessary for the improvement of the general situation—confidence. This was made possible because of the removal of the uncertainty existing as long as Speaker Garner was in control of the Democratic house of representatives in Washington and was able to threaten the country with huge pork barrel measures, money inflation bills and a federal government pawn broking business through indiscriminate loans of the taxpayers' money to anybody desiring a bit of easy cash."

COOLIDGE WILL NOT SEE HOOVER GET NOTIFICATION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Calvin Coolidge is going to pass up President Hoover's formal notification ceremony here next Thursday night.

The former President, of course, was invited, but he has decided it is Mr. Hoover's show and will not be present.

Republican leaders do not regard the decision as significant.

Mr. Coolidge expressly declared for the renomination of President Hoover, and his support of the nominee is not questioned.

The decision is seen as one of many Mr. Coolidge has been called upon to make as to just what part a former President plays in official life.

WALKER SCALP IN MEDICAL FEE CASES DEMANDED

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Revocation of the medical licenses of Dr. William H. Walker, brother of the mayor, and four physicians with whom he is accused of splitting $216,000 fees in city cases, was demanded by the city affairs committee today.

In addition, the committee requested the attorney general to launch an investigation into the affairs of Dr. Walker, Dr. Alfred Cassasse, Dr. Edward L. Brennan, Dr. Harris Feinberg, and Dr. Thomas J. O'Mara with a view to criminal prosecution.

The committee declared the five doctors had obtained a virtual monopoly on the compensation business of the city for the last four years. Half of the $216,000 went to Dr. Walker, who had rendered no apparent service whatever, it was charged.

TEACHERS WILL GET PAY CHECKS BY MAIL TODAY

Chicago school employes today will receive by mail checks for a total of $3,244,000. This represents payment for services during the last half of March. The board of education is still $13,400,000 in arrears on its pay rolls for 1932 and $5,000,000 in arrears for 1931.

Sharing in the distribution of cash today will be 14,000 teachers and 3,000 other workers.

Tax anticipation warrants, 1931 series, have been issued to teachers for their unpaid salaries during the last week at the City State Bank building. About 800 applications were made for them and $500,000 worth of warrants have been given out.

'LOST' TALK IN CONGRESS COSTS NATION $135,000

3,386 Pages of It Appear in Record Appendix.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Oratorical overflow published in the appendix of the Congressional Record during the last congress cost American taxpayers $135,000.

During the eight months, the government printing office published 3,386 pages of appendix to the regular daily edition of the printed Record of congressional proceedings. As the official estimate of the cost per page is $40, the total cost of the appendix amounted to a minimum of $135,000 for the session.

If to this cost is added the expense of printing extra copies of franking them the initial printing cost would be greatly increased.

As operated last session, the appendix of the Record served as dumping ground for undelivered speeches and as a sort of free forum for the nation. Originally its purpose was that of furnishing a place where senators and congressmen could have printed remnants of speeches begun but unfinished because of lack of time. In recent years this congressional privilege has been expanded until all sorts of articles appear.

Serves Three-Fold Purpose.

Today the appendix serves a three-fold purpose: First, it provides a limbo for those speeches and remnants of speeches which time or other limitations prevent members from delivering; second, it serves as a permanent storehouse for radio addresses, memorial addresses, and the like, which members may make away from the scene of their legislative duties and which would, were it not for the appendix, go unpublished; third, it presents members with an opportunity to have printed, free of charge, poems, essays, and other literary endeavors sent them by constituents.

An actual count today discloses the following cost for each month in the last session: December, $10,640; January, $14,500; February, $13,360; March, $13,480; April, $17,760; May, $18,800; June, $22,040; July, $24,760.

Feb. 29 Representative Sol Bloom [Dem., N. Y., director of the George Washington bicentennial commission, inserted seven separate speeches in the appendix, all dealing with George Washington. To print them all cost $310.

Prints Guide to Washington.

At a cost of $280 Representative John W. Cochran [Dem., Mo.] inserted into the appendix a history and guide book to the city of Washington.

Representative Kent E. Keller [Dem., Ill.] inserted on Feb. 29 a sixteen and one-half page document setting forth the nature of the depression, its cause and "cures." It cost $460.

"The Wholesomeness and Food Value of Margarine" was a full page insertion made by Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.] on March 2. Two days later Representative William L. Nelson [Dem., Mo.] had printed an article written by himself twenty years previous entitled, "Babies and Daddies." On May 25, Senator Samuel Shortridge [Rep., Cal.] inserted into the appendix the oration with which one of his constituents won the national oratorical contest. It cost $1,840 to print an article by Senator Tasker L. Oddie [Rep., Nev.] entitled, "Prohibition of Soviet Imports."

It cost $360 to print on July 16 the assertions of Representative Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] and Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.] that the session of congress just ended had saved a lot of money.

After the session closed members of congress went right on for several days filling $40 page after $40 page with words.

Effort to Stop It Fails.

Representative W. P. Lambertson [Rep., Kas.] drew fire late in the session when he protested against the practice of filling the appendix after congress had adjourned. Representative Bertrand H. Snell had sought permission for each member to have five legislative days in which to "extend" his remarks in the Record.

But after a few moments of heckling, Mr. Lambertson decided to "let tradition have its way" and yielded to the "desire of my minority leader, Mr. Snell and our speaker."

Legion Dedicates 6th District Country Club

The clubhouse of the Sixth District Country club of the American Legion was dedicated yesterday in the forest preserves at Harms road and Lake avenue, just west of Wilmette. Among the speakers were Col. Robert Isham Randolph and Homer J. Byrd, county commissioner. The Legion plans to use the 36 acres of club grounds as a recreation center for members' children.

Floods and Cholera Kill Hundreds of Manchurians

HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Hundreds of lives have been lost and famine next winter faces tens of thousands of persons as result of floods which today submerged the cities of Hailin, Ilan, Mudandzan and half of Harbin. Railroads were paralyzed and rowboats furnished the only means of travel. Cholera menaced the homeless, taking 53 lives at Tsitsihar.

UKRAINIANS WIN IN SMALL MIXED CHORUS CONTEST

The Ukrainian mixed chorus, under the direction of George Benetzky, was awarded first prize in the small mixed chorus division of a choral contest held yesterday afternoon at the Cook county fair, North avenue at River road. This chorus won first prize for two years in the Chicagoland music festival. The La Porte, Ind., Woman's chorus, directed by Lynn Sackett, gold medal winners in the woman's division of the 1931 Chicagoland festival, won first place in the women's choruses of not less than 25 voices. Other winners follow:

Ladies' choruses of not less than 25 voices—Second place, Cecilia chorus of South Chicago Y. M. C. A.; third, Greig Ladies' chorus.

Ladies' chorus of not less than 60 voices—First, Calumet Women's Glee club, Hammond; second, Eastern Star chorus of Illinois; third, Nurses' chorus of Wesley Memorial hospital.

Mixed choruses of not less than 25 voices—Second place, Orpheus choir of Hammond; third, Rogers Park Congregational choir.

Male choruses of not less than 25 voices—First, Irving Park Y. M. C. A. Glee club; second, Illinois Central Railway Male chorus; third, Hawthorne Male chorus, of the Western Electric company.

The contest was for county fair prizes totaling $1,800. Carl Craven, Chicago vocal teacher, who is one of the leaders of the community singing at the Chicagoland festivals, conducted the contest yesterday. The judges were Harry T. Fitzsimons, music publisher; Dr. J. Lewis Browne, supervisor of music in the public schools, and Glenn Dillard Gunn, music critic.

HORNER WILL VISIT 15 MORE DOWNSTATE COUNTIES THIS WEEK

Leaving Springfield this morning, Judge Henry Horner, Democratic governorship nominee, will visit fifteen more downstate counties this week in pursuance of his "get acquainted" policy.

He will start out in Macoupin county with stops at Carlinville and other nearby points and will spend tonight at Carrollton, Greene county. Tomorrow he will spend in Greene, Calhoun, and Jersey counties, among his stops being Jerseyville and Hardin. On Wednesday he will be in Christian and Fayette counties and will be a guest of honor at the Christian county fair at Taylorville.

He will spend that night in Vandalia and will devote Thursday to Effingham, Jasper, and Crawford counties, with stops at Effingham, Newton, and Robinson. Friday will be spent along the southeastern state boundary in Lawrence, Richland, Edwards, and Wabash counties. Hamilton and Washington counties will see him on Saturday and his week-end will be spent at Mount Vernon, Gov. Emmerson's home town.

Stimson to Outline Peace Policy Under Paris Pact

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson will outline the government's policy in preserving peace under the pact of Paris at a dinner here tomorrow of the council on foreign relations, the council announced today. The council is a non-partisan organization devoted to the study of international relations. John W. Davis is president.

100 MORE BONUS MARCHERS TREK INTO 'CAMP' HERE

Begin Arriving Soon After 300 Leave.

One hundred footsore members of the Bonus Expeditionary forces trekked into the bivouac at 17 West Pearson street yesterday almost on the heels of an evacuating force of 300, who folded their belongings and resumed their homeward journey westward Saturday night. Free transportation was provided for the departing veterans by three railroads after a conference with Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works.

COL. A. A. SPRAGUE.

About 100 members of the bonus army had remained in the vacant house. These claimed Chicago as their home. Authorities said no effort would be made to dislodge them, as the homeless veterans would merely scatter to relief shelters.

Feed New Arrivals.

As the remaining veterans were stretching themselves in the quarters made more roomy by the departure of the 300, the new arrivals began to file into the house.

They had left the east in groups, some hitch-hiking their way west and others "riding the rods" on trains. Some had walked much of the way. They reported that other groups who are traveling in the same manner will be reaching Chicago during the next few days.

After they were fed and assigned space, a number of yesterday's arrivals had their feet treated by Dr. Frank Furch, 58 East Wabash avenue, who made a visit to the B. E. F. quarters.

Promised Fare Home.

City officials will seek transportation for the veterans as they arrive. The veterans told Col. Sprague on Saturday that they had been promised transportation to their homes from Johnstown, Pa., by officials of that town. It was learned that the railroads had been guaranteed one cent a mile for the fare of each man only to Chicago.

Veterans left in groups Saturday night on the Chicago and North Western, Santa Fe, and Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroads. Four roads offered transportation, which was not needed. They were the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, Rock Island, Great Western, and Illinois Central railroads. The last group left early yesterday.

At the headquarters it was reported the men did not lack fresh meat, but had no refrigeration to keep it. There was need of sugar, coffee, and milk.

FEAR OF LOSING SIGHT LEADS GIRL TO END HER LIFE

Rosemary Johnson, 23 years old, who was killed in a fall from the eighth floor of a hotel in Dallas, Tex., on Saturday, formerly lived in Chicago. Her last address here was 6417 Kenwood avenue. She was a former University of Illinois co-ed.

A note was found in her hotel room, expressing the fear that she was losing her sight. The note also revealed financial difficulties. The girl was identified by Mrs. Edward P. Bode of Fort Worth, who arranged to bury the body.

Miss Johnson was the daughter of Mrs. Maud Patier Johnson, socially prominent in Cairo, Ill. She left the University of Illinois in 1927. In December, 1930, Miss Johnson filed a suit for $25,000 damages at Monticello, Ill., against William Lodge III., a son of a wealthy contractor, also a former Illinois student. The charge was breach of promise. The case was settled out of court in October, 1931.

CANADA GOES TO MAT TODAY WITH BRITAIN ON TRADE

Future of Dominion Is at Stake.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 7.—The big battle of the British imperial economic conference is set for tomorrow. On its result will rest the future of Canada—whether she will develop as an imperial appendage of Britain or be drawn into closer and closer economic and political relations with the United States.

The position of the other dominions has lost interest for the time being, and all the spectators and delegates are concentrating on the dramatic struggle between Canada and Britain for the best of the trade bargain. Canada may be said to have the support of South Africa, although this dominion is more or less disinterested. Britain has the backing of Australia and New Zealand, whichhav e arrived at the general basis of agreement with the mother country and which is expected to result in something useful to both parties.

Prepare for Struggle.

Both parties to the controversy are resting today and preparing for tomorrow's fight. The British delegation held a meeting and formally received the report of its experts on the Canadian trade offer which has been rejected. The gist of that report is that the offer is not only inadequate but insultingly so, inasmuch as it seems to assume that the British cannot add, subtract nor divide and that they know nothing about international trade.

Premier R. B. Bennett's figure promised Britain an immediate trade gain of about 55 million dollars annually. The British experts after the closest examination, cannot see more than 20 million dollars, and that is an outside figure. What they really see in it is from 10 to 12 million dollars.

"This offer is hardly worth the trip to Canada," a leading British delegate exclaimed.

In return Mr. Bennett is asking the British to put a tariff on wheat, meat and dairy products so that Canada may have a preferential rate or free entry.

Difficult for Britain.

This is the most difficult thing a British government can be asked to do because of Britain's traditional policy of cheap food for the masses. This policy has made her apparently low wages for labor almost as high in real purchasing power as those of countries where the actual money rate is much higher.

Moreover, it seems to the British that Mr. Bennett is asking for a definite promise from Stanley Baldwin and his British associates that taxes on food shall be imposed. Mr. Bennett may be able to commit the Canadian parliament nine months ahead of the next budget to increased taxation along specific lines, but no British politician can make such a promise. The utmost a Briton can do is to promise that if he is in power nine months from now he will include food taxes in the next budget and will ask parliament to approve them.

What even a Tory British parliament may do on the question of food taxes none can predict with certainty. These considerations explain why the British do not like Mr. Bennett and why Mr. Bennett does not like the British. This may also explain in the future why Britain lost Canada.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Announcement that the colonial office would appoint a commission to examine possibilities of closer union between Trinidad and the windward and leeward islands or some other group in the West Indies today drew favorable comment from the Sunday Observer.

"Signs of the times all point to closer union between the West Indies," the newspaper said.

"The question of confederation is not merely one of combined bargaining power in obtaining proper access for their products to the British market," it continued. "Before long Canada will be as closely concerned in the West Indies as Great Britain herself, and the colonies must speak one voice if they are to determine their economic future."

The commission is expected to leave for the West Indies during the fall to examine on the spot what opportunities exist for confederation of the islands.

BOLIVIAN PLANE SHOT DOWN; WAR MOVES RENEWED

More Paraguayan Troops Leave for Chaco Area.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Two Bolivian aviators were reported captured today when their plane was shot down and destroyed within the Paraguayan lines in the Gran Chaco.

With announcement of that development, the conflict over the disputed Chaco territory, which seemed on the road to a possible solution owing to the attitude of neutral American countries, received a setback.

The fact that the plane was reported to have fallen southeast of Fort General Aquino, which is 20 miles east of Fort Chanar, one of the southeast Bolivian forts, gave consistence to rumors circulated lately that Bolivians are continuing to reconnoiter the Paraguayan forts.

Map Reply to Note.

Although there was no official comment on the situation, it was stated by a usually reliable source that the government is sending a new note to the neutral powers, possibly tonight.

The army staff said the Bolivian plane was shot down at 6 o'clock last night. The pilot and an observer, Lieutenants Elias del Monte and Armando Saavedra Boitia, were captured, the announcement said.

Military leaders throughout Paraguay, meanwhile, hastened preparations for possible war with Bolivia. There were reports that both countries were reinforcing their military strength at the various Chaco forts. Announcement was also made of a change in Paraguayan military leaders. Gen. Ayala, chief of staff, resigned and was replaced provisionally by Maj. Arturo Bray.

More Troops Leave.

A considerable group of Paraguay, although parifistic and not vociferous in the present controversy, was reported to view with dissatisfaction the present trend of diplomacy in connection with the Chaco question, including Paraguay's unreserved acceptance of the Pan-American proposal for arbitration of the differences on the basis of the positions held by the armed forces of the two nations in the Chaco territory on June 1.

A guarded but definite viewpoint was finding expression that with the army now well prepared to meet any aggression, the Paraguayans would be able to send approximately 20,000 men into the Chaco.

Ask New Bolivian Cabinet.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Both branches of congress have sent a petition to President Daniel Salamanca asking for the organization of a concentration cabinet to handle the dispute with Paraguay. Congress met in secret session with the present cabinet tonight. Some 20,000 school children, celebrating a public holiday, paraded today to the foot of the Bolivar monument in Venezuela square, where they sang patriotic songs.

Ratify Neutrality Pact.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru ratified a pact today binding the signers to maintain the strictest neutrality in event of war between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Gran Chaco boundary dispute.

The pact, suggested by Argentina, is complementary to the declaration of the nineteen neutral American nations last week that territorial changes resulting from warfare would not be recognized.

REBELS IN BRAZIL ASK THE WORLD FOR RECOGNITION

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Brazilian constitutionalist rebel leaders today handed to the foreign consuls at Sao Paulo notes asking that their respective nations recognize that a state of belligerency exists next Tuesday when the Sao Paulo rebellion is a month old, said reports received here.

The purpose is to obtain at least a partial reopening of cables and ports closed because the foreign governments and companies complied with a notification of closure from the Brazilian federal government.

The rebels contended that international law authorized the proposed procedure, but international lawyers here, while admitting that an ingenious point had been raised, said they felt the contention lacked merit.

Davila to Wage War on Reds as Price for Chilean Rule

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALPARAISO, Chile, Aug. 7.—Carlos Davila, erstwhile ambassador in Washington, who is now the self-appointed provisional president of Chile, is displaying all the astuteness that distinguished him in the newspaper world to cling to his political power.

He ejected a group of hostile army officers from the Moneda palace recently and told them that they must either support his government or let in the Reds who, he said, were "hammering at the door." Half an hour afterward he received from the barracks a soldierly resolution to support his régime.

Despite his general unpopularity and his declared antagonism to office holding, Davila insists upon handling the reins of government himself. That his position may be recognized, the censorship general has ordered Chilean newspapers to print his name always in full—Don Carlos Davila—prefixed with "his excellency" and suffixed with "president of the republic." Editors were warned that "serious consequences" would visit newspapers infringing this order.

Entered Pact with Army.

Davila entered a "gentlemen's agreement" with the army to drop the word "Socialism" from his political vocabulary and make war on the communists. The soldiers agreed to drop their idol, former President Carlos Ibañez, and generally support the new régime. The soldiers also received an increase in pay. Ibañez, who has already left the country in accordance with the compact, is expected to receive a diplomatic mission to Europe.

Davila's newly acquired power, however, is based principally on a decree law which was drafted by army lawyers and promulgated with his signature. It is known as the "law relating to the defense of the republic and to offenses against the internal security of the state," and it represents a complete victory for the military viewpoint regarding radical agitators.

The new law, effective at once, renders every offender against public order subject to the jurisdiction of military courts. Civil courts are abolished for trials of a political character. They are to be succeeded by garrison juries in Santiago and every provincial center under the presidency of the senior military officer. Forty-eight hours is the maximum time permitted for hearing a case and for delivery and execution of sentence. The defense will be given twenty-four hours for arranging its case, but no appeal is allowed.

The same law warns provincial governors and mayors that their power has been superseded by the garrison commanders, with whom they are called upon to coöperate. The governors, who, since Chile's declaration of independence from Spain, have always been civilians, were told also that it was their duty to inform the military of any subversive activity that comes to their notice.

Military Takes Command.

In promulgating the law the government issued a statement that "the administration's generous policy in behalf of the poor and destitute is being disturbed and obstructed by anarchic elements to the prejudice of the general welfare and progress of the country."

In addition, it said: "No public post can be filled by persons affiliated to bodies with subversive tendencies, and any such at present in office must resign, such bodies being outlawed." This means that in the future the military authorities must be consulted before any public appointment can be made.

This, it is considered here, is the price that his excellency, Don Carlos Davila, president of the republic, has to pay to retain office. The army, it is stated, has decided, once and for all, that the communist peril must be crushed. This decision was expedited by a barrack mutiny, it is reported, when documents were discovered proving that soldiers and workers' committees had been formed in the ranks. Sixty were killed before discipline was reëstablished.

Wife of Lloyd George Is Writing Her Memoirs

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Alone almost among Great Britain's war time leaders, David Lloyd George never has been persuaded to write his memoirs. Dame Margaret Lloyd George, however, according to the news of the world, has for some time been preparing her reminiscences, which should take the reader behind some secret doors. Now that her fractured arm is recovering, Dame Margaret is making good progress on the book. She was married to the former prime minister in 1888.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 7.—Two thousand communist soldiers have been slain in northern Kwangtung in an attempt to advance southward a government announcement claims.

The 19th route army operating in Fukien also announces important advances and reports the reds are losing heavily. In northern Hupeh the communists are scoring advances however and are again menacing the city of Macheng.

The Chinese claim Mukden is practically encircled by Chinese irregulars living on the tall crops of millet, and have the city virtually in a state of siege. The Japanese are entrenching and stringing electrified wire. Gunfire is heard incessantly on the outskirts and Japanese reinforcements are hastening from Kaopangtze. The Chinese also claim that the capture of Changwu is imminent.

14 Year Old Frisco Girl Found Beaten to Death

San Francisco, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The mutilated body of a young girl, identified as that of Dina Sideres, 14, was found in a vacant lot here today. The child had been beaten to death, her body wrapped in burlap sacks and apparently tossed from a motorcar. Mrs. Lola Sideres, mother of the girl, said she had been missing since Saturday night. Mrs. Sideres, a lodging house keeper, supplied police the names of lodgers to be questioned.

BANKER DOUBTS HE CAN IDENTIFY HIS 2 KIDNAPERS

Is Dazed and Weak After Escaping Bonds.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 7.—[Special.] Dazed and exhausted, John B. Colegrove, the ex-banker of Taylorville, who was kidnaped by two men late Friday, wandered into Springfield early this morning after spending 24 hours in a weed patch north of Springfield where his abductors threw him, bound and gagged. He managed to release himself about midnight. He doubted that he would be able to identify his kidnapers.

JOHN B. COLEGROVE.

Charges of murder preferred against two Springfield men held in the Christian county jail at Taylorville, will now be changed to kidnaping and assault to kill and to rob. One of them, James Gammaitoni, was a depositor in the Colegrove State bank. He lost $6,000 when the institution closed three years ago and has since attempted to shoot the banker. Held with Gammaitoni is Amelio Buzzoti, an unemployed laborer, who lived with his alleged accomplice in a suburb of Springfield. They deny the charge.

Condition Is Serious.

Colegrove will recover, Dr. William Vanwormer believes. He is suffering from exhaustion and the strain of lying bound and with his mouth taped in the weed patch for an entire day and night during which he contracted a slight cold. The former banker is 67 years old and the physician is striving to prevent pneumonia from developing.

The patient has as yet told no coherent story of his abduction and his ordeal in freeing himself, but he was able to give State's Attorney Harry Grundy of Taylorville a fairly connected account.

The meeting between the two in St. John's hospital this morning was dramatic for only a few weeks ago Grundy finished prosecuting Colegrove for accepting deposits in his bank while knowing that it was insolvent. Mr. Colegrove has appealed a one to three year prison sentence, given him following conviction upon this charge.

Story Told Prosecutor.

This is the story Mr. Colegrove told the prosecutor:

"I reached my home in Taylorville about 9:30 o'clock Friday evening. Going in, I removed my hat and struck a match to light the lamp for I am not able to afford electric lights. It flared and I saw two men leaping at me across the room. The taller of them hit me on the head and as I fell both jumped on me and threw a blanket around my head. I struggled and they hit me again and carried me to a car at the side of the house.

"We rode and rode, going fast and one of them bound my arms and feet with rope. I tried to talk and he kicked me in the shins and put tape across my mouth. I think we went through some town and finally they stopped the car, removed the blanket and put a towel around my head. Then they carried me to the weed patch and dropped me. I couldn't get loose and I rolled about the patch all the rest of the night and all yesterday. In the afternoon, it began to rain and I caught cold.

"Maybe the rain loosened the rope for about midnight, I think it was, I was able to free one arm and get up. I took the tape and rope off and walked through the patch to a cornfield and finally I found a railroad. I thought I was going toward Springfield but I went the wrong way for about an hour then I saw I was wrong and I turned back."

Mr. Colegrove went to the home of a friend, Frank Lowe, a banker, arriving there about 3:30 o'clock. The police were called and he was taken to a hospital.

While Colegrove said that he would not be able to identify the men who kidnaped him, Prosecutor Grundy is relying upon a mass of circumstantial evidence to convict Gammaitoni and Buzzoti. They were found wearing blood stained clothing late Friday. Gammaitoni's auto was sprinkled with blood. A blanket from Colegrove's home was found in the back seat and in Gammaitoni's room the banker's purse had been secreted in a cigar box.

FIND MILWAUKEE SCHOOLGIRL HELD A PRISONER HERE

Sergt. Martin McGuire and his detective squad, arresting two Negroes early yesterday at 47th street and South Park way, found in their company a 17 year old Milwaukee girl who had been missing from her home since February. The girl asserted that one of the Negroes, Carl Lester, 224 East 43d street, had kept her a prisoner in disorderly houses at that and other addresses for several months.

The girl, whose name is being withheld because of her youth, ran away from home after a quarrel with her parents over her absence from school. She came to Chicago and obtained work on the south side as a waitress. She charged that she was taken to a flat by a white man, the head of a glass company, and kept there by him for a week. She lost her job, and while looking for another, met a Negro on an "L" platform.

She was seeking to find an address where she hoped to find work. Under the pretense of guiding her there, she said, the Negro took her to an apartment. The women inmates there beat her and forced her to consort with Negroes and Chinese, she said.

Her clothing was taken from her, and except for such early morning automobile rides with Lester, who took her earnings, she was held a prisoner in various flats, she charged. Police raided one of these flats, at 4855 Vincennes avenue, and arrested two Negresses, Hattie Boyd and Hattie Jones. They, Lester and Collins Fox, 4521 Calumet avenue, who was in the automobile with Lester and the girl, were held at the detective bureau. Police are seeking the glass company official and the Negro who first enticed the girl to the flat.

REFERENDUM ON MINERS' $5 PAY STILL IN DOUBT

Incomplete Vote Shows 14,435 Yes, 18,302 No.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 7.—(AP)—A trend toward defeat for the proposed $5 miners' basic wage scale was manifest tonight as ballots were counted in the second referendum held by Illinois union miners on the proposition.

Balloting was close and the outcome still was in doubt as reports were received from 128 of the 240 locals in the state.

The vote stood:

Start Official Count Today.

Tellers tomorrow will start their official count of votes and the outcome will be announced within two days.

A similar proposal to fix the basic wage at $5 met decisive defeat in a referendum three weeks ago. Balloting was heavier in the second vote taken yesterday, and John L. Lewis, International Miners' union president, and John H. Walker, district president, expressed hope the scale would be approved.

If $5 Scale Is Rejected.

Several slight changes were made in the basic wage proposal after its defeat three weeks ago, and Lewis and Walker, former foes in union affairs, united in a campaign for adoption of the new scale.

Union officials said ratification was the only means of bringing work back to the idle in the coal fields. Several members expressed the opinion, however, if they fought the scale the operators would be forced to return to the previous wage.

W. Y. Wildman, manager of the Illinois coal traffic bureau and a leader among operators, warned "Illinois is in for a lot of trouble if the $5 scale is rejected." He mentioned mine riots in Indiana, and stated operators were unable to pay the old rate here.

Hotel Guest Is Killed in Shaft of Elevator

Harry Englehart, 34 years old, 824 West 50th place, a guest, was fatally injured yesterday in a fall down an elevator shaft in the Reo hotel, 6252 Stewart avenue. He apparently was caught and pulled into the shaft when he attempted to operate the elevator, an old fashioned cable controlled type. He died at St. Bernard's hospital. Half an hour after the accident a woman called the Englewood station and asked the condition of Englehart, but hung up when police asked her name.

ENVISAGES LOSS TO CITY IN NEW GARAGE FEE PLAN

Ald. O'Grady Raps Pending Amendment.

A proposed amendment to the public garage ordinance which is pending before the city council was criticised yesterday by Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th]. He said the measure would cause the city to lose considerable revenue each year if the aldermen adopted it. His earlier objections caused the council to delay action on the amendment until Sept. 28, the date of the next council meeting.

The principal change proposed in the amendment is to fix a maximum license fee for a garage for the storage of cars at $350. Under the present ordinance the garages pay the city at the rate of $1 for each car capacity with a minimum fee of $25, but no maximum fee. The amendment also proposes a change in the method of determining the car capacity of garages.

Sees Loss For City.

"It is plain that the city would lose revenue if the amendment is aproved," said Ald. O'Grady. "Under the present ordinance a 1,000-car capacity garage would pay a license fee of $1,000, but under the proposed amendment would have to pay only $350.

"Also, under the present ordinance the car capacity is figured on the gross interior floor area of the garage and by allowing two hundred square feet of such floor area for each automobile. The amendment proposes to exempt from the gross interior floor area the elevator shafts, ramps, waiting rooms for the public, and space enclosed by partitions which is actually used for offices and wash rooms. This would tend to reduce fees."

Another Change Proposed.

A further change contemplated in the amendment relates to the operation of a filling station business in a garage. Now, the garages can have gasoline tanks of a capacity not exceeding 1,065 gallons if they pay a $50 garage license fee, without obtaining additional licenses. The amendment increases this allowance to 3,000 gallons.

The amendment has been recommended to the council by the finance committee. It was deferred and published, but objections by Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] and Ald. O'Grady to calling it up for passage have kept the amendment from being put into force.

AMERICAN SURGEON FLIES TO VENEZUELA TO TREAT OFFICIAL

Miami, Fla., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Dr. Fred Albee, noted New York bone surgeon, founder and past president of the Pan-American Medical association, left today aboard a Pan-American Airways plane for Caracas, Venezuela, to operate on a government official.

"I am going to Caracas through request of the secretary of state of Venezuela to perform an operation. I don't know yet who the patient is but I presume it is some one important in the Venezuelan government circles. I believe it will be for an injury resulting from an automobile accident."

Dr. Albee expects to arrive at Caracas Tuesday, operate immediately, and depart Wednesday by plane for Miami again, arriving here Friday.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

SOVIET OR DEMOCRACY?

Congress abandoned party government in its recent session, broke down party lines and did away with party discipline. The logic of that should appeal to the voters. It is to ignore in congressional elections what the congressmen themselves chose to ignore, party affiliations. What divided the congressmen when they scuttled their party connections and responsibilities was the expenditure of public money. That is the issue which their constituents should accept just as it has been handed to them by the men they elected.

Republicans and Democrats in congress divided upon money bills and theories back of them, fusing not as party men, but as supporters of one of two theories—one that taxes and appropriations should redistribute wealth in the United States; the other that government will ruin the country if it does not confine itself to its original constitutional purposes.

Thus, without any party declarations in the matter, a fundamental issue as great as any which has arisen in the United States was plainly presented. In the one direction is sovietism by necessity, in the other is the old scheme of the American republic. The government cannot regulate all activities by its commissars and expropriate wealth by its taxes without accepting the inherent consequence, which is communism.

The question boils down for popular view to taxes. The congressmen who have voted for wasteful appropriations, extended government enterprise and confiscatory taxation have voted for the American soviet. Their opponents have voted for the reëstablishment of the American form of government. It does not distinguish the one from the other to call one Republican and another Democrat. They will be so labeled when they run for reëlection, but the label does not identify. This classification has ceased to mean anything. It should be disregarded by voters who wish to take a hand in the decision the country soon will be called upon to make.

The National Organization for Reduction of Public Expenditures will put all congressional candidates on record as to this issue by questions, the answers to which will reveal the candidate's position. The candidate who refuses to answer plainly will invite the logical inferences. When this information has been given the voters they will know how they are voting. It cannot be apparent in the party names and no voter should be satisfied by merely the political affiliation of a candidate. Such distinctions ceased to have meaning or importance this year in Washington.

SEABURY AND WALKER.

Samuel Seabury's counterblast to Mayor Walker's answer to the charges of the Seabury report can hardly fail to destroy any vestiges of doubt that may have remained in minds not locked up from the beginning of the exposure. But it was hardly needed for a disinterested judgment. Walker's answer to Seabury was conclusive against its author. Our own interest in it arises from its resemblance to the line of defense with which the public of Chicago and Illinois were made familiar during the régimes of Thompson at the city hall and Small at Springfield. Walker relied upon a counter-attack upon the motives of his critics and the pose of political martyrdom. Behind this emotional smoke screen the facts charged were left unanswered. Seabury was accused of a partisan plot to destroy Walker and the only answer to Seabury's facts was a general assertion of innocence. Walker, for example, declares that he voted for the Equitable franchise because he believed and believes it to be in the best interests of the city. That is a statement that is incapable of disproof. It does not explain why Walker received the letter of credit from an Equitable promoter.

What a majority of the voters of New York City will conclude from this exchange only the future will reveal. Facts and their analysis do not often make a lasting impression upon the public mind. If they did Len Small's and Thompson's political career would have ended long ago and Walker's would now be permanently finished.

NO AMERICAN RIGHT INVOLVED.

An American citizen named Harold Isaacs is editing a publication in Shanghai called the China Forum. He has recently been informed by the American consul general that unless he ceases attacks upon the Nanking government and lending support to the Chinese communist movement our government will not protect him from the processes of the Chinese courts.

Meanwhile Isaacs' father has interested the International Committee for Political Prisoners and has asked Representative La Guardia to appeal to our state department on his behalf.

We can see no excuse for such action. It does not come within any reasonable interpretation of the rights or privileges of extraterritoriality. Isaacs has chosen to enter Chinese politics and no foreigner has a right to be protected by his government from the operation of Chinese laws relating to such activities. The issue is not for us one of freedom of the press. We have no right to impose that principle upon China. All that we have a right to do for Isaacs is to demand a fair application of Chinese law to his case. Extraterritoriality was created to protect merchants and other foreigners properly engaged in China upon their own affairs from the operation of Chinese laws and peculiar administrative conditions. When it was established there could hardly have been any important intercourse between China and other peoples without it. But it does not exist for the purpose of protecting foreigners who engage in China's internal political affairs.

THE OTTAWA CONFERENCE AND THE SEAWAY.

If Canada expects the United States to pay its two-thirds share of the cost of completing the St. Lawrence seaway, Canada's action at the imperial trade conference in Ottawa needs a lot of explaining.

Canada's first objective is the driving of American wheat and other farm products out of the British market. So far as this country is concerned the principal use which the seaway can have lies in cheapening the cost of our grain exports. The most careful student of the probable traffic in grain, Mr. Edwin G. Nourse, estimates that 77,000,000 bushels, or 2,067,000 tons, of our grains of all kinds would be exported through the seaway and that the Canadian grain exports using the seaway would total 4,360,000 tons, more than twice as much. Mr. Nourse's estimate of Canadian grain exports is substantially identical with the figure reached by Prof. Lesslie Thomson of McGill university, the Canadian authority in the field. If the calculations are even approximately correct, it follows that the waterway would be of much greater importance to Canadian than to American farmers under existing circumstances, although that fact is not reflected in the distribution of the costs of the waterway; but if, in addition, Canada is successful in her effort to destroy a foreign market for American wheat, our principal reason for joining Canada in constructing the waterway has vanished. What sense can there be in joining to build a waterway on which to carry wheat to Liverpool when Canada is making every effort to prevent our exporting wheat to Liverpool?

In order to increase Britain's wheat purchases in Canada, Canada has offered to buy manufactures more freely from Britain. What Canada intends to buy from Britain are manufactures which are now bought chiefly in this country. That is a second reason presented by the Ottawa conference for refusing to invest the money of the American taxpayer in the seaway. The United States might reasonably expect to use the seaway for trade between the lake ports and eastern Canada, but Canada now proposes to kill off as much of that trade as it possibly can.

In sum, if the Ottawa conference succeeds at all in achieving the objectives which both Canada and Great Britain have professed to be their goals, the seaway treaty invites an investment on the part of the United States in the promotion of British imperial trade at the expense of American trade.

WAR CLOUDS SOUTH.

It is not apparent that Mr. Stimson's doctrine of nonrecognition has interfered much with Japanese plans in Manchuria, where it was first applied, although it may be fairly said of the doctrine that its whole effect might not be registered at once. Mr. Stimson now addresses it to Bolivia and Paraguay with the support and coöperation of the other American republics. The American nations will not accept any territorial changes of other than peaceable origin.

The American secretary who stepped into Manchuria by himself and never succeeded in getting a whole hearted indorsement of his action by the other powers has provided himself with the company of the other American republics in this new instance, avoiding the appearance of special responsibility for the United States. Furthermore, it cannot appear even to the two nations threatening war as unreasonable that their neighbors should wish not to add a war to the other complications of life in this hemisphere. South America is in fragile enough political health without further disturbance.

The wilderness of the Gran Chaco does not seem a material justification for an increase in human excitement, struggle and distress, but it contains the emotional question of national aggrandizement. Mr. Stimson might in a private note either to Bolivia or to Paraguay or to both call attention to the fact that he has run the Canadian boundary down to Chicago without exciting the bellicosities. An appeal might be taken to the Latin pride not to become unreasonably primitive.

"EDUCATING" SLOW DRIVERS.

[New Orleans Times-Picayune.]

Indiana state police squads patrolled three "Dunes" highways leading to the Michigan line and Chicago last Sunday, when these roads were congested by Sunday and week-end traffic. They made 57 arrests—not for speeding, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE explains, but for slow driving or "loitering" in the lanes marked for rapid driving. The purpose of their drive was to reform the laggard and inconsiderate motorists who were "balling up" the traffic and increasing its hazards. "The slow drivers," explained the squad commander, "are as great a menace on the narrow pavements as those who zigzag from one side to the other. On the 40 foot pavement the slow driver hugging the center line or astride the lane marker is the worst pest of all, aggravating others to the reckless maneuver of swinging to the left side of the highway. Our effort is to educate the thoughtless and selfish slow-poke as well as the reckless speeder."

In nearly all cases, it is noted, these Dunes highway arrests resulted in $1 fines plus cost bill, averaging $10.50. The "lessons" were expensive enough to be effective. But we dare say that many of the victims bitterly resent their instruction and hold to the opinion that their slow driving should have earned them decorations as the only "safe and sane" motorists on the highway. That delusion prevails, at least among the great majority of slow drivers elsewhere. Nothing else can explain the obstinate refusals to pull over into the slow lane and let those behind them pass.

That practice unquestionably has caused many accidents. Despairing of getting past the "slow-poke" in any other way, the exasperated motorists behind finally pass him on the wrong side or swing to the left and take the chance of collision with cars traveling in the opposite direction. Yet the idea that he may be a menace to travel seldom or never occurs to the "slow-poke." A judicious use of the Indiana plan for educating him might promote highway safety in other states.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Bert J.C.

MARKET LETTER.

AT THE URGENT request, almost insistence, of many former clients The Wake-Line is reviving our weekly market letters, which were discontinued, along with those of many other financial commentators, at the time of the Wall street débacle of 1929. This demand, no doubt, is in response to current activity, with a rising trend, on the bourse. It simply proves that market players are gluttons for punishment.

Looking back, however, those who followed our conservative counsel did not fare badly in the crash. Our basic principle, oft reiterated, and to which we shall adhere in these letters, is, "Always buy stocks at a price lower than that at which you sell them." Many profited by this advice, so we feel that those who did not have only themselves to blame.

Readers should understand that we do not believe the average person can profit by continually trading in speculative stocks on margin. What goes up must come down, as dissipation of the "new era" theory proved. The end is just as certain as that turf axiom, "All horse players must die broke." Like the "take" in the mutuels, the house percentage at roulette, and the "kitty" in poker, the market "kitty" of brokerage commissions, interest charges, and transfer taxes will get you. To this is added that intangible handicap, which gamblers recognize, of doing the picking or guessing, with limited capital against unlimited capital. Then, if you do happen to win, Uncle Sam takes a goodly portion of the profits in income taxes. When you lose, it's your money gone, not Uncle Sam's.

In fact, horses possess some advantages over stocks. You know how much you lose. The horses have no margin clerks to send special delivery letters reading: "Your account is in urgent need of $200. Please send at once that amount or collateral of equivalent value."

With this explanation of our position, we look at current quotations. The July rise, continued this month, has placed securities in a position where they may go either up or down from this level. Therefore we urge extra caution right now. Business, as yet, has not shown marked improvement, although there are flickerings. Unemployment, relatives and dependents have improved slightly but still are major problems. Sentiment also is better, but take sentiment alone over to your uncle at the pawnshop and see how much you can get on it. Permanent trend, however, probably is upward.

Moderate recession from this point might be a "healthy reaction," if, indeed, the market is moving too fast. So, if you must speculate, we suggest "buying on the dips and selling on the rallies." That will leave you your hat, coat, and trousers, even if your shirt happens to wander. Individual stocks will be discussed in subsequent letters.

TENTH OLYMPIAD.

The ancients held in great respect,
To honor Greek and Roman,
Athletes considered masculine—
In fact, no place for women.
But times have changed, athletics, too,
In this turbulent era,
Amidst Achilles, Hercules,
You'll find Diana, Helen, Clara.
Hurrah, bravo, hoch, owa, banzai,
All glory to athletics,
In a land dry, no beer and wine,
But plenty of cosmetics,
A toast to sport! Jump, wrestle, race,
Never mind cats, cruises, blisters,
The kitchen is no more the place
For our athletic sisters. S. R.

FEAR—FOR AND AGAINST.

IN his "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Frank Buck indulges in some reflections on animal behavior in addition to telling some of his adventures with wild animals which he has transported from Asia and Africa to America. One of his observations relates to the universality of fear among wild animals. He writes:

"Kipling has two jungle or animal stories in which he deals with fear among animals. In one he has a group of domesticated animals, including elephants, born wild but tamed, discussing fear, each from his standpoint. In another he discusses the behavior of animals when even a greater motive than fear has caused them to suspend all killing at the water hole and the disappearance of fear and the birth of community spirit in consequence. One story is entitled 'How Fear Came'; the title implying that fear is not an instinct inborn and in evidence from the beginning of life."

It may be that fear is acquired, since very young wild animals are rather foolishly fearless, but the probability is strongly the other way. Watson has shown that fear of falling is present in babies from soon after birth. However, that is said by some to be based on the working of certain automatic balancing apparatus in the ear and special muscle sense functioning.

If fear is not universal it is not far from being so. If it does not begin with life and continue to its end it very nearly does. There must be some reason for a motive that is so general. It must serve some useful purpose. It does. Were it not for fear few wild animals would have survived. The list would be almost limited to elephants and a few other large grass eaters and possibly lions and a few other meat eaters. Meat eaters are more dependent on strife for food and existence and therefore the survival is more precarious. In man fear is responsible for the safety movement and even for the science of medicine. It is a dominating influence of every religion that has found favor.

But fear is harmful as well as helpful. Many mental disorders are the result of fear. There are forms of insanity in which the fear picture is the most outstanding feature. The paranoiac who kills to escape those who are pursuing him, according to his delusions, acts under a fear impulse. Far more harmful are the minor mental maladies which result from fear such as worry, anxiety, the phobias, restless sleep, bad dreams, nightmare, sleep walking, and much of neurasthenia and many neuroses. The person with low blood pressure is generally a bag of miscellaneous fears.

A great need of medicine is a scientific study of fear and a developed art of treating it. For fear is not only almost universal and all embracing, but it colors our thinking and molds our opinions when we little think of its doing so. But there is consolation in knowing that we are op the mend. Wild animals are more fearful than are we, and so was primitive man.

SENSITIZED TO COLD.

V. C. W. writes: Last winter I had a condition which I thought was chilblains. When I was exposed to cold my symptoms appeared. A cold wind would cause it. So would a change of 10 degrees in temperature. Suddenly my feet and legs would swell. Medium sized white spots would appear and these would itch. What can I do?

REPLY.

You appear to be sensitized to cold. Use this summer season to try to overcome this. Take one or two cold baths a day. Start with tepid water. Gradually drop the temperature until you are exposing your skin momentarily to cool, or even cold water. Follow with vigorous rubbing. As the treatment progresses plunge into cold water and then in warm, back and forth. If you have a shower, alternate the warm and cold water.

BAGS UNDER THE EYES.

C. A. K. writes: I am troubled with heavy bags under my eyes. The optician tells me my eyes are perfect. The doctor tells me my organs are all right. I usually get seven hours sleep each night and, as my work is light, I consider that sufficient. The only explanation I have received is that my tear ducts are abnormal.

REPLY.

There are several causes of puffiness under the eyes. If it has not lasted long there is a possibility of trichinosis. Bright's disease sometimes causes this symptom, at a time when there is no general dropsy. Heart disease and anemia cause it. If all of these are ruled out, we think of local acidosis as the cause. If that be the explanation, change some of your habits; get more sleep, sleep in a better ventilated room, take a cold shower and a good rub on arisin, swim more, get more exercise, live a more active life.

ARTHRITIS.

Mrs. L. S. writes: 1. Is there any cure for arthritis?

2. Does grapefruit or any other citrus fruit make it worse?

3. What are the causes of this condition?

REPLY.

1. There are many cases of arthritis. Some kinds are curable.

2. No.

3. Among the causes are: Various infections of what is called the focal type, a streptococcus, sometimes called rheumatic streptococcus; gonococcus, gout, and perhaps others.

YOU MAY NEED TRUSS.

A. G. writes: I am 17 years old. A year ago a doctor said I was ruptured. I wore a truss for about two months and then I discarded it because I was not in pain.

1. Is an operation for the rupture necessary?

2. What would be the effect of my health later if I did not have an operation?

REPLY.

1. In some cases it is. In nine cases out of ten operation is a matter of choice.

2. Probably you will need to wear a truss. You may not be able to do much heavy labor. Strangulation is a possibility. That is about the catalogue of disadvantages and dangers from an unoperated rupture.

MAY NEED WARMER WATER.

S. G. writes: After a cold (about 60 degrees) bath of moderate duration I experience the following unpleasant reactions: Rapid and unpleasantly strong heartbeat, sometimes slight pain in heart region, heavy feeling in the legs, distended blood vessels. Can you tell me why this is so? I am 25, in fairly good health, except for a slightly toxic goiter and some hypertension.

REPLY.

It is possible that these unpleasant sensations result from overstimulation of your thyroid by cold. This being true, you had better limit yourself to warmer baths, say 80 to 85 degrees.

STATIONARY ENGINEER.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please tell me when and where examinations for stationary engineer's license are held? Also what education or experience is required? Is a license required to qualify as fireman on stationary engine? R. H. O.

I submit the following provision from the city ordinance regarding qualifications of applicants: "An applicant for a license as engineer or water tender shall be at least 21 years of age, temperate, of good habits; he shall have had at least two years' practical experience as a fireman, engineer, or machinist in the operation or construction of steam engines or boilers; all of which must be vouched for in writing by two citizens of Chicago." Application blanks and such other information as may be requested can be obtained at the offices of the board, room 1008 City Hall.

VACANT BUILDING.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—The vacant building next door to my home has been broken into time and again by men and boys who have torn out everything of value. They have also started fires and we are afraid something serious may happen. What should I do about this? J. O. B.

One of our inspectors reports that the two story brick building referred to is vacant and partly open. We have notified the agent to replace all broken glass or board up all window openings.

A BIT VAGUE.

Homewood, Ill., Aug. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A has given B $1,000 on a note. 2. Being unable to collect he had paid a lawyer $25 to put a lien on B's building. Now the building is in the hands of receivers. 3. A's lawyer claims that it will cost him $25 more to change the lien. Is this the proper way to handle the business? L. S.

1. We assume that you mean that A is the lender rather than that he has given the $1,000 by way of payment.

2. We assume that you mean a judgment lien. You do not state whether anything was actually done.

3. If B's title has been taken away from him then it would not be practicable for one of B's creditors to reach such title. It seems probable that there are material facts which you have not placed before us.

MURDER AND MANSLAUGHTER.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Would you please explain the difference between a murder and manslaughter charge? If a person is injured or wounded and dies several weeks later, is this manslaughter? D. K.

Section 358 of the criminal code reads in part as follows: "Murder is the unlawful killing of a human being, in the peace of the people, with malice aforethought, either expressed or implied." Section 361 of the same act reads in part as follows: "Manslaughter is the unlawful killing of a human being without malice, express or implied, and without any mixture of deliberation whatever."

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 8, 1916.

PETROGRAD. — The official communication from general headquarters reads: "On the Stokhod, in the region of Zarecze, our troops delivered an assault, and, without firing a single shot, drove the enemy out of a section of his trenches, which we occupied. We took twelve officers, 200 men, and one machine gun. Our success also developed further in the northern sector of the territory we captured on the Sereth. In this sector reserve troops especially distinguished themselves, being animated by the general high spirits of the troops which rushed the enemy."

LONDON.—Continued successes by the allied armies on the west front were reported. The French troops stormed and captured a line of German trenches between Hemwood and the Somme, according to the official statement by the Paris war office. The French also made some progress south of Thiaumont work, north of Verdun. They repulsed numerous German attacks on the Verdun front. Five attempts of the Germans to capture the new British trenches north of Pozieres failed. During two of these they entered the positions, but were driven out with heavy losses.

ROME.—Italian troops have captured strong Austrian positions commanding communication between the Travenanzes valley and the Sare torrent in the Gader valley in the Tofana region, says an official communication. Several Austrian attacks on the slopes of Monte Zebio, on the Sette Communi plateau, were checked by Italian artillery.

DETROIT.—Charles E. Hughes, in the first set speech of his transcontinental trip, assailed the Wilson administration vigorously for its foreign policy, its Mexican policy, for appointing men whom he termed inexperienced to diplomatic posts, and for what he characterized as "a raid upon the civil service of the United States." Mr. Hughes left for Chicago, where he speaks tomorrow.

NEW YORK.—Indications were that a nation-wide strike on the steam railways of the country will be averted by arbitration under federal auspices. A member of President Wilson's cabinet—William B. Wilson, secretary of labor—was here all day. The report persisted that Mr. Wilson is seeking to persuade the four great brotherhoods to consent to arbitration.

NEW YORK.—Richard T. Crane Jr. of Chicago sent the following telegram to Mayor Mitchel from the Waumbek hotel, Jefferson, N. H.: "The great distress and suffering caused by infantile paralysis leads me to believe that some one of the numerous able physicians who are studying this disease may be able to find some cure, or at least some means of prevention. In order partly to recompense them and to help in concentrating their efforts on this subject, I will be glad to contribute $25,000 to the individual who may offer the best cure or solution of this great affliction within the next year. This is to be decided by a majority vote of the trustees of the American Medical association."

CITY OF CHICAGO BONDS.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—The security market of the country does not know that government in Chicago and Cook county is divided into numerous governing bodies. They, of course, have been taking into consideration the numerous defaults on bonds and interest of Cook county, the sanitary district and the west park commission whenever they have been approached to purchase securities of the municipal governments of Chicago. Not knowing anything of the separation of governments, even when approached on city of Chicago securities, they have placed the municipal corporation of Chicago in the same category with the defaulting branches of government, and city of Chicago securities are therefore suffering.

The city of Chicago has never defaulted, during its hundred years of history, on the payment of principal and interest on any of its bonded indebtedness. The governmental officials of the city of Chicago have gone to great extremes to prevent any such default. Therefore, anything that could be done to eliminate the municipal corporation of Chicago from the classification of defaulting municipal corporations, in our opinion, in all fairness should be done.

In THE TRIBUNE'S platform for Chicago, the second item reads, "Pay the defaulted bonds." We have received numerous statements from different parts of the country, asking us if the city of Chicago has defaulted on its bonds, when they have seen this plank in THE TRIBUNE'S platform. It indicates the fact that the security market is of the opinion that the city of Chicago has defaulted on its full faith and credit obligations.

Permit me, therefore, to suggest that the second plank of the platform be amended to read, "Pay defaulted sanitary district, Cook county and west park bonds," and that a sixth plank be inserted for the purpose of establishing to the world at large the fact that the city of Chicago has met all of its full faith and credit obligations and is maintaining its credit standing, which should be 100 per cent or better, in comparison with other large cities of this country.

It is suggested that this plank might read, "Make known to the world the fact that the city of Chicago has never defaulted on the payment of any of its funded debt." V. S. PETTERSON,
Deputy Controller, City of Chicago.

NORTHERN LIGHTS.

Pretty Lake, Plymouth, Ind., Aug. 3.—On the eve of Aug. 2 the northern lights were seen above Pretty lake in Indiana. The lights went on and off as if worked mechanically. A great black shadow crossed the lighted sky again and again. The sky would stay lit for almost five minutes and then go out. This kept up for hours. Crowds gathered on the shore to watch this beautiful happening.

HISSES AT THE MOVIES.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—On Saturday I arrived in your city for a visit and that night attended a movie with my wife at the Chicago theater, where I received a most unpleasant shock.

During the war I spent nine months in this city [Great Lakes naval training camp] at which time your citizens and all gobs were at fever heat of patriotism—and rightly so. It was, therefore, a shock to hear the audience hiss soldiers of the U. S. army when merely performing their duty under orders when they aided in evacuating the bonus bums.

Regardless of the personal opinion of the hissers in the audience. I still believe that the uniform of the U. S. army deserves more respect than that shown. Further, as an ex-service man. I see no reason for sympathizing with the veterans in the picture. They went there uninvited; voluntarily, with no promise held out to them. It is my belief that they are the riffraff of the army and navy and no doubt many are not even veterans. H. R. HONNYARD.

A 100 PER CENT RECORD.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—If, as Herbert Hoover emphasizes, only one-half of the bonus seekers at Washington are veterans, how did the police and army manage a 100 per cent killing record of the true half and a zero of the other?

A. H. WADDINGTON, M. D.

COMMUNISTS AND THE B. E. F.

New York, Aug. 3.—THE TRIBUNE is to be commended for exposing Red activities in America. As a member of the B. E. F. I seen how the Workers Ex-Servicemen's league [communists] stirred up trouble in the B. E. F. area, and then sneaked away and let our veterans get the blame for their dirty work. The communist group, pretending they wanted the bonus, done all they could to spoil our chances, thinking our men would join the Reds if dissapointed and help them overthrow our government. Real American veterans do not listen to "soap box spouters of Moscow." A. HEGEL.

A BLOT.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—The present administration is doomed. It committed suicide last week when it startled the world with a display of brutality not unlike that of the czars of yesteryears. As Macbeth saw the image of the murdered Banquo, so will Hoover see the image of the dead veterans as he meets political death at the polls next November. No amount of stock market rallies can erase the blot the administration has so firmly imprinted on itself.

SEYMOUR S. SMITH.

A WORLD GONE NUTTY.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Of all great men in Germany they choose as their leader a man who under cover of diplomatic immunity did his best to foment trouble in the United States and an ex-paperhanger from a different country.

EAST DECLARES COSMIC HOLIDAY FOR SUN ECLIPSE

Tourists Invited to See 60 Second Show.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—New England is planning a cosmic holiday on the last day of August and has invited the world to come and see a total eclipse of the sun. The show will last only sixty seconds, but there will not be another like it in this country until 1954.

Consequently the promoters of vacationland are exploiting the solar tions throughout the country are plastered with posters inviting tourists to come and see the sun hide its face. Thousands of visitors are expected during the last week of the month and the thrifty New England housewives are tidying up their spare rooms and canning an extra supply of preserves in anticipation of an influx of amateur astronomers.

Zone 100 Miles Wide.

The zone of totality of the eclipse cuts a swath about 100 miles wide diagonally across the center of this vacation mecca. The southern margin reaches from where Cape Cod bends northwest across the corner of Massachusetts through the White mountain region of New Hampshire and leaves Vermont where Lake Champlain merges into Canada. The northern margin of the eclipse travels across southeastern Maine from a beginning high up in Canada.

The eclipse will begin in the region totality at about 2:15 p. m. E. S. T. and continue until approximately 4:35 p. m. E. S. T., varying some ten minutes, depending on locality. It will speed in nine minutes from Montreal to Cape Cod and the limit of totality within its path will be slightly more than sixty seconds.

[At Chicago the eclipse, which will be 79 per cent, will begin at 2:07 p. m. Chicago time and end at 3:29.]

Darker Than Midnight.

During the period of totality the darkness will be more complete than at midnight, as there will be no light from the moon and stars only will be visible in the sky. Outside the zone of totality for the length and breadth of the United States the sun will be seen in varying degrees of eclipse.

The last total eclipse visible in the United States took place Oct. 28, 1930, and lasted only one and one-half seconds, being visible over a tiny area six-tenths of a mile wide, about 200 miles northeast of San Francisco to central Idaho.

The eclipse this year being of major importance and about the only certain thing in an upset world, every possible preparation is being made to welcome it. Pamphlets concerning the eclipse are being distributed by the various New England chambers of commerce and in addition to vacationists scientific groups are heading toward Maine from the leading universities of America, Europe, England, China, and Japan.

Astronomers Set Up Instruments.

Giant cameras will be set up near Fryeburg, Maine, and Conway, N. H., and other astronomical instruments are being brought from distant scientific laboratories. Dr. Clyde Fisher of the American Museum of Natural History and a party of scientists will follow the path of the eclipse across northern Maine in an airplane.

Near Lemington, Me., on the center line of the eclipse, an expedition from Dearborn observatory of Northwestern university will establish its base. The expedition will use captive balloons containing cameras and aerological instruments to record the marvels of the eclipse.

The Harvary observatory will be located in Fryburg, Me., and will make photometric studies of the corona. The University of Michigan will be represented as will the Crocker eclipse expedition from Lick observatory at the University of California. There will be other expeditions in New Hampshire from Ohio Wesleyan, the Case School of Applied Science, Deering observatory, the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia and the Mount Wilson observatory of Pasadena, Cal.

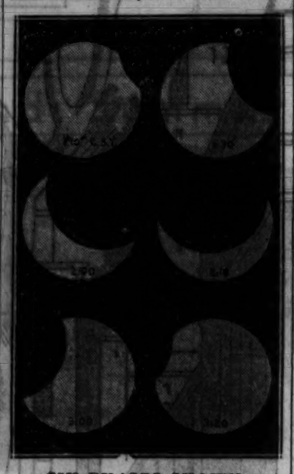
Foreign Scientists Coming.

The Japanese scientists will cooperate with Harvard and the English visitors who sailed last week on the "astronomers' liner" will observe the eclipse in the wilds north of Quebec. They are bringing a whole shipload of equipment, including a huge telescope which was used with great success in the eclipse in England in 1927.

The navy has set up a base in Maine for observation of the eclipse and will use a 65-foot telescope from a tower near Limerick, Me. Army and navy planes will be sent into the air during the period of darkness.

The percentage of eclipse for various points in the United States as estimated by the naval observatory is approximately: New York City, 90 per cent; Chicago, 79; Boston, 99; San Francisco, 15; New Orleans, 52; Philadelphia, 89; Washington, 80.

City to See Eclipse



SIX PHASES SHOWN.

Diagram prepared at the Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago, illustrating the solar eclipse on Aug. 31, as it will appear in the Chicago region. The six figures show the appearance of the sun, the time being indicated [central standard] for each of the six phases illustrated as the disc of the moon obscures the sun. The beginning of the eclipse in Chicago is at approximately 1:05, central standard time, and the end at 3:27, C. S. T. At the nearest approach to totality in Chicago, four-fifths of the sun's disc will be obscured.

JOHN BAIN FACES GRILLING TODAY ON BOND DEALS

Raber and Banker to Resume Battle of Wits.

Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber and his assistants were preparing yesterday for a renewal today of their cross-examination of John Bain, south ·rk commissioner, whose twelve bank crashed last summer. Bain will go back on the witness stand in the court of Judge John M. O'Connor, where he engaged Friday in an angry battle of wits with Prosecutor Raber. The latter had sought to lead Bain into admissions of criminal acts in conduct of the banks' affairs.

Bain is under indictment on charges of conspiracy, along with his sons, John H. and Robert A. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher. Judge O'Connor is hearing the case without a jury.

Bain's alleged manipulation of his numerous real estate holding companies and trusts, resulting in eventual loss to the depositors in his banks through granting of excessive loans on the properties, is expected to play a large part in the court battle today. Prosecutor Raber brought his examination of Bain on Friday to a close by quizzing the witness regarding the affairs of one of these corporations, the Caledonia company.

Prosecution witnesses testified that the company, of which Howard W. Elmore, sanitary district trustee, was president, borrowed $250,000 from the Bain banks to pay off the stockholders of the Caledonia company. Bain, it is alleged, received $50,000 of this. The prosecutor demanded of Bain why, as head of the banks, he authorized the loans when the assets of the Caledonia company had been pronounced worthless.

A similar transaction in the case of another Bain company, the Drexel-Western corporation, is scheduled to be put up to Bain for explanation today. The prosecution has charged that the interest of Bain and other stockholders in this company was reduced from $540,000 to $17,000 by the device of marketing to the public through the Bain banks the so-called gold bonds of the corporation.

Borrows from Banks.

The Caledonia company and the Drexel-Western corporation were later taken over by John Bain, Inc. That corporation not only sold to the public its "gold bonds," now defaulted, but likewise, the prosecution charges, borrowed a total of $993,572 from the banks, largely on unsecured notes now regarded as "desperate."

Another deal on which Bain is to be questioned is the floating of a loan on Normandy Hall, an apartment building at 79th street and Evans avenue, of which Bain was one of the owners. L. K. Boysen, manager of the real estate loan department of the First Union Trust and Savings bank, testified that when Bain approached that bank for a mortgage loan on that property in November, 1928, he appraised it as worth $327,000 and said that the bank would loan no more than $200,000 on it.

Value of Property Shrinks.

Another witness testified that the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company refused to loan more than $225,000 on the same property. Harry S. Cutmore, who at the time the loan was sought was director of appraisals for the board of assessors, testified that the building and land were worth $327,375 in 1929, and that they had shrunk in value to $255,005 by the time the Bain banks closed.

Bain is to be asked how he obtained an appraisal valuing the Normandy Hall property at $762,000, on which the Bain banks sold a bond issue of $575,000.

FARM BELL FOILS BANDIT.

Logansport, Ind., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Evading the lone bandit who invaded her home last night and threatened to torture her, Mrs. Crena Maudelin, 72, rang the farm bell. The bandit, after getting $4 in cash, fled, eluding a half dozen farm neighbors attracted by the old time rural alarm.

IDENTIFY WOMAN PICKPOCKET AS A PAROLED THIEF

Records at the police bureau of identification yesterday disclosed that a woman arrested in a loop store on Saturday as she was trying to take money from a customer's purse is Dorothy Kerwin, 40 years old, who has served terms in state penitentiaries as a pickpocket.

When she was taken into custody Mrs. Kerwin asserted that her name was Mary Doe. Her reason for refusing to tell her real name became apparent after finger prints directed attention to her previous record.

She was sentenced to Joliet penitentiary in 1923 and was paroled on June 21 of this year. If she is convicted today in the Municipal court on the new charge she will have to go back and serve the remainder of a ten year term. Previously Mrs. Kerwin served a term in the Waupun prison in Wisconsin.

Wood Carving Company Official Hangs Himself

Ambrose Karowsky, 33 years old, hanged himself yesterday in a vacant apartment of the building in which he lived at 6125 North Washtenaw avenue. He was secretary of the American Wood Carving company at 2337 Greenview avenue.

Woman, 35, Leaps in Lake but Witness Saves Her

Mrs. Margarita Uitz, 35 years old, 2109 West North avenue, leaped into the lake last evening in an apparent effort to commit suicide. Montague Hakes, 2810 Sheridan road, dived in and rescued her. At the West Chicago avenue police station Mrs. Uitz said that she had worked for years as a maid and was estranged from her husband. Police found in her purse a bankbook showing $2,600 on deposit in a loop bank.

THIEVES INSPIRE A NEAR RIOT AT SHRINERS' PICNIC

Crowd Tries to Mob Five Suspects.

Burlington, Wis., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—A crowd of irate Shriners tried to mob five alleged Chicago pickpockets who were arrested during a Shrine picnic at Brown's lake near here today. Police prevented violence, however, and the only injury was suffered by one of the crowd who poked his fist through a patrol wagon window in trying to hit a prisoner.

About 8,000 Shriners, their relatives and friends were attending the picnic. They came from Chicago, Rockford, Sterling, Milwaukee, Racine, Waukesha and other communities and cities in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. Among them were Capt. Ira McDowell, a supervising captain of the Chicago force, and Sergt. L. A. McAltin of the Oak Park police.

Find Their Pockets Picked.

At the height of the celebration several of the Shriners discovered that their wallets had been taken or their pockets picked of loose bills. Officials of the picnic immediately sounded a warning over the amplifying system, telling the picnickers to beware of pickpockets.

Capt. Arthur Luehman of the Milwaukee police, Capt. McDowell and Sergt. McAltin joined in a search for the thieves. Capt. McDowell circulated among the crowd and pointed out men whom he suspected. They were arrested. In a short time the five suspects were in custody.

A crowd of angry Shriners and their friends gathered around the prisoners, threatening violence. Many of the throng demanded that the men be turned over to them.

Smashes Patrol Window.

Police, however, put the prisoners into a patrol wagon. As they were about to drive away a band of men surrounded the vehicle. One shattered a window with his fist. Another window also was broken.

The five were taken to police headquarters here, and then to Racine. All denied being pickpockets. They are Theodore Rossman, Frank Brown, Daniel Daly, John Cummings and Michael Frankes.

Among those robbed and their losses were Drew Head, 451 Wrightwood avenue, $16; L. Haugenland, 2906 Kostner avenue, $15, and Harry Gardner, $100, all of Chicago.

RUSSIAN RAILWAY SYSTEM IN CHAOS; AUTO IN INFANCY

Transportation Barometer of Soviet Progress.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 7.—The Russian transportation system, wavering on the verge of a breakdown for years, is being carefully watched by foreign diplomats in Moscow. The railways are regarded as a barometer of soviet commerce and industry, and so far they have shown no sign of improvement—an indication that the economic development of Russia is not what it is cracked up to be.

The soviet commissariat of communications is now the "goat" in Russia. Industries complain they do not receive raw materials regularly enough to prevent shutdowns. Cities are complaining that they do not receive provisions and fuel. Milk, vegetables, fruits and fish arrive spoiled. Like stock arrives starved and dying.

Villages complain they do not receive manufactured products. What ever shipments they do receive are the wrong ones. Silk stockings are unpacked instead of barrels of herring. There are women's slippers instead of boots; canned fruits instead of fertilizer.

Building projects do not receive proper materials. Instead of planks pit props are delivered, and instead of brick and cement carloads of coke and fertilizer are on the sidings.

Mass of Complaints.

"Multiply these incidents by several thousand," says Economic Life, "and the mass of complaints arriving in Moscow daily is duplicated."

The efforts of the council of commissars to instill efficiency into soviet transportation have not improved the situation. For more than two years the railroads have been functioning under administrations entirely independent of the workers. Superintendents are held personally responsible for the management by the government. Railroad employés now are all paid by piece work, and bonuses of extra rations and money are offered for efficiency.

Even these measures have not resulted in the roads fulfilling their daily program of loading and unloading cars. During the second quarter of this year the number of loaded cars averaged between 48,000 and 54,000. The program called for 64,000 cars.

Auto Transportation in Infancy.

Auto transportation is still in its infancy in Russia. During the first six months of this year 8,161 autos were manufactured, although Russia's three giant auto plants are equipped to turn out 220,000 machines annually. Skilled mechanics are missing just as in all branches of industry. Engineers trained by the soviet technical schools are incompetent and spread chaos instead of order. No one is capable of repairing autos.

Transportation is also handicapped by the lack of horses. Thousands of horses have starved for want of fodder, or have been killed for food. Decree after decree has been issued by the executive committee of the communist party, attempting to protect horses and enlarge horse breeding. But the number of horses is increasing in only a few districts. Russia is again negotiating with the Baltic states to make large purchases of horses for both city hauling and for collectivized farms, where they were used as food.

Water transportation is no better off. Beginning with the tugs hauling timber rafts and ending with the surviving vessels of the Volga river fleet, all of the trusts and organizations operating the vessels admit their inability to transport the passengers and tonnage assigned to them.

BRITAIN TO JUNK MINE LAYERS FOR 40 FLYING BOATS

Planes Do Same Work on Wider Range.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Fresh departures from accepted British naval strategy are contained in an order for forty high powered flying boats chosen for greater speed, wider range of operation, increased safety, and cheaper operation over thirty marine mine layers which will be scrapped in their favor.

Tests of aerial mine layers proved highly successful. Southampton, Britain's greatest port, and Portsmouth, nearby naval base, both were screened by mine fields in recent tests around the Isle of Wight. This proved the worth of the new craft to the admiralty and the boats were ordered.

Eight Mines to a Plane.

The seaplanes are equipped with three engines of combined 2,550 horse power and have a cruising range fully loaded of 1,500 miles. Each boat is fitted with four mine chutes, two on each side, and carries four machine guns. Wireless is included in the equipment, but no bombs are carried because of their weight.

Eight mines make up the load of each boat. Four are carried in the projection chutes and four more in the magazine amidships.

The flying boat's mechanism for sowing mines is identically the same as in a marine mine layer, for the craft does its work while taxi-ing on the water. The mines always are lowered in pairs, one to starboard and one to port, so as not to upset the balance of the plane.

Carries Four Explosives.

The mine itself contains four high explosives. Twelve detonating points project from each mine. Two-thirds of the space within is filled with air, and each mine, with a tail like a fish at the lower portion, is filled with tearing or splintering metal on the bottom, which acts as ballast.

The present admiralty order has gone to the Blackburn company, which has done numerous contracts for the government. The engines to be used are Rolls-Royce. Two squadrons of these aerial mine layers will be attached to the Mediterranean, China, and East Indies bases. The ordinary marine layer will continue to be responsible for British coastal defense.

San Francisco to Open Municipal Opera House

San Francisco, Aug. 7. — (AP) — San Francisco's new six million dollar opera house, the first and only municipally owned opera house in the United States, will be formally dedicated next month as a war memorial and will be opened Saturday evening, October 15, with performance of Puccini's lyrich drama, "Tosca."

CRUSHED TO DEATH BY TRUCK.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Henry Reese, 46, a drayman, was crushed to death today as he was repairing a tire on his truck in a filling station yard. Another truck backed into Reese, crushing him against his own automobile.

2 Aviators Die as Plane Crashes in Thunderstorm

Houston, Texas, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Doyle Kennedy and Harry L. Reed, Houston mechanics, were killed by the crash of an airplane today after collapse of a wing as they flew beneath a lightning lighted cloudbank near Little York, Texas.

The plane fell 500 feet to earth. Max Jones of Houston, the owner, who witnessed the accident, said he believed a bolt of lightning ripped off the wing.

Wings Lock; Girl Hurt.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Mildred Kauffman, 25 year old Kansas City aviatrix, was influred probably fatally, and Russell Shaw, her passenger, received a severe head injury when Miss Kauffman's plane locked wings with another at an altitude of 75 feet above Fairfax airport here tonight. Miss Kauffman suffered a broken neck. Miss Kauffman, a licensed transport pilot, established a world record for women in St. Louis Feb. 21, 1930, by looping 46 times. She has participated in many air races.

Killed by Plane's Propeller.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 7.—Frederic Baylis Brown, 50, one of Canada's leading consulting engineers, was killed today when struck by the propeller of a seaplane on which he was about to embark near his summer home at Lac Quareau, Que.

Plane Falls; Two Die.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—One man was killed instantly and another fatally injured in an airplane crash here today.

Harvey Apple, 27, pilot, was dead when spectators reached the wreckage of the plane. Millard Shutt, 24, a passenger, died in a hospital three hours later.

The wives of the two men, both of whom lived here, witnessed the accident, which occurred at the airport.

Wisconsin Man Killed.

Rice Lake, Wis., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—William M. Kosholiek, 22, of Stevens Point was killed today when the Buhl monoplane he was flying crashed in a field near Cameron. He was dead when spectators lifted him from the wreckage. He was identified by Archie Towle, a Wausau pilot who saw the wreckage and landed to offer assistance. Kosholiek was on his way to an air meet here and descended at Cameron for gasoline. He arose but was flying a low altitude when a gust of wind struck the plane, snapped a wing, and the machine fell.

GIRL KILLED IN CRASH.

SPRINGHILL, Nova Scotia, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Marjorie Horton, 19 year old Springhill girl, was killed instantly today when a plane piloted by Tom Carr of St. John crashed at North Wallace near here. Carr was burned slightly when he pulled the girl's body out of the blazing plane.

SAYS KENTUCKY TO BE CARRIED FOR ROOSEVELT

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—A "sweeping victory" for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket in Kentucky was predicted today by Ury Woodson, who for 24 years was Democratic national committeeman from Kentucky and for eight years secretary of the national committee. Woodson is here on private business.

"Reports from many counties, especially those where the extensive coal mining interests are," he said, "indicate that nearly half of the Republican vote will go to the Democratic ticket.

WOMAN BEATEN; PUTS BLAME ON BROTHER-IN-LAW

Pana, Ill., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles Dahler, 30, of Near Ohlman, was beaten while alone in her home this morning, while her husband and two small children were in Ohlman attending Sunday school. She accuses her brother-in-law, Joseph Niesman, who lives near the Dahler home.

She dragged herself to the home of John Vitts, half a mile distant. Farmers captured Niesman, who was identified by Mrs. Dahler. He was hurried to the Montgomery county jail to prevent violence by excited neighbors of the Dahlers. Mrs. Dahler is in a critical condition tonight.

Carrie Bruns, 18, sister of Mrs. Dahler, then assistant postmistress at Ohlman, was found dead near that village on a state highway the night of Jan. 4, 1929. The mystery of her death has never been solved. She had been seen alive in Ohlman one hour before her body was found.

Spend Summer in Wisconsin

Mrs. J. Earling Fitch with her children, Brier Anderton and Charles Anderton. Mrs. Fitch, Mr. Fitch, and the children are spending the summer at Oconomowoc with Mr. Fitch's mother, Mrs. Frederick C. Thwaits and Mr. Thwaits of Milwaukee. Mrs. Fitch, the former Mrs. Jane Wright Anderton of Chicago, was married to Mr. Fitch on April 30 at Antibes in France. They will return to Europe early in October.

The Neckline Gets Emphasis in New Styles

Sleeves and Shoulders Are Important, Too.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

DRESS designers are the most capricious artists imaginable. Each season they go into huddles and long conferences about emphasizing certain portions of a dress and with a startling and rather disturbing perversity, always emphasize a waistline or neckline or hemline that was neglected and ignored the season before. This policy always dates a frock in no uncertain manner.

We have learned to look for such high lighted accents each new season, and this year, the watchful shop hound doesn't need any help in discovering that sleeves and shoulders and necklines are emphasized with strong and dashing vigor.

Your fall silhouette will have to be flat in front, and just as flat in back. Whatever curve you have will be the curved hipline as viewed from the front elevation. Your necklines are going to look high and tight and severe enough to choke you. And the way the 1932 sleeves have puffed and swollen is something to write reams about!

If you are one of the well informed shoppers you probably are obsessed with trends and influences and significant signs . . . if you shop just for the sheer joy of shopping and finding new and good looking clothes the same things will please you.

Whether you know that the Edwardian influence is raging as royally and arrogantly as the genial namesake used to reign, or whether you merely enjoy these first new things that are glamorously gathered around the best dressed shoulders, they are the newest and most fashionable hints available.

Some very unusual thin wool and crinkled crêpe daytime dresses have been unpacked, and they are honies . . . wool dresses with sleeves that are tricky and full. Most of the material is used around the very wide and deep arm hold. Intricate insets provide even more fullness, especially when the insets are used high above the elbow.

Some of the models have sleeves that are quaintly and amusingly copied direct from the famous leg-o-mutton creations of the frivolous nineties.

After all this extravagance in the size of sleeves the designers suddenly became frugal and economical. They conceived the brilliant idea of plenty of white collars and bibs and cuff effects that could be detached whenever they ceased to interest . . . the great indoor recreation of changing the collar and cuff is again among us. The knowing collar collector can now practice magic with a few stitches and various collars and scarfs or new metal costume jewelry.

New lusterless black crinkled crêpe dresses are ready for the first few cool days . . . good looking things with plenty of personality in the sleeves and neckline. Belts are wrapped snug and high around your flattened ribs. Sleeves are the leg-o-mutton type and the high round simple necklines are charming with just a suggestion of eclesiastical demureness in the white tab or big collars of either white pique or silk crêpe.

New Residence of Reeds Will Be Open Soon

Family Hopes to Move by End of Week.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. KERSEY COATES REED and Miss Mary Reed have hopes of moving into their new house in Lake Forest by the end of this week but John Reed has no such faith in the promises of contractors and those who are putting the finishing touches to the beautiful house.

When asked if he and his mother and sister were to move in a week, he replied: "They've promised it would be a week since June and we're not in the house yet, so I doubt it."

The family is living in the tennis house on the estate during these trying times of getting the house into condition for occupancy, and, although the tennis house is most attractive and comfortable enough in cool weather, it was not built to be lived in during hot weather, and so Mrs. Reed and her children are not anxious to spend another hot spell in it. Mrs. Reed's mother, Mrs. John G. Shedd, is with her other daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, in Lake Forest, just now.

Elizabeth Bunting, whose name belongs on the list of debutantes for the coming season, although she says she isn't going to have a formal debut, gave a beach party last night at Nirvana, her parents' residence in Lake Bluff, that was one of a series of small, informal parties that she will have in place of one large debut function.

The 30 guests assembled on the beach at Nirvana for a swim and then cooked their own supper and decided they never had tasted such luscious "hot dogs." Miss Bunting, who was graduated from Holton Arms in Washington in June, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Bunting. She plans to continue her studies at Northwestern or Chicago university next year.

David Pecks Give Luncheon.

The David Pecks yesterday gave another of their delightful Sunday luncheons at their residence in Lake Forest. They are the owners of one of those chic sandwich and drink wagons that most of us have seen only in illustrations in smart eastern magazines, and judging by the ease with which Mrs. Peck entertains, such a wagon must be a great help to a hostess.

Everything to eat and to drink is on the wagon and it is wheeled into the ward and then the party is on, with no more fuss or bother. This isn't an advertisement for these new "hurdy-gurdy" wagons but aren't they a grand invention, and isn't it strange no one ever thought of them before?

Miss Marie Smith and her fiancé, Hyde Gillette, spent the week-end in Wisconsin with his parents, the Edwin F. Gillettes of Pasadena, Cal., who have a summer place on Lake Beulah. The Smith-Gillette wedding is scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 7, at the residence of Miss Smith's mother, Mrs. Kinney Smith of 10 East Schiller street.

The next day, Thursday, Sept. 8, Miss Florence Noyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest High Noyes, is to become the bride of George Senseney, formerly of St. Louis, at St. Chrysostom's church.

Mrs. Robert P. Lamont and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Saltzman, motored up to Lake Geneva yesterday from Lake Forest for a day's visit with the Kellogg Fairbanks. Mrs. Lamont and Mrs. Saltzman had been in Lake Forest for two days with the Theodore W. Robinsons on their way from Washington to their summer place at Land o'Lakes, Wis., where they expect to remain about a month.

The Vincent Healys of 220 East Walton place spent the week-end in Lake Forest as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps, and their 5 year old son, Tommy, was with the J. Russell Forgans out there for Saturday and Sunday.

Lobdells Drive to Estes Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Lobdell, who have been spending the summer at the Exmoor club in Highland Park, departed last week to motor to their summer place at Estes Park, Colo., where their daughter, Mrs. Adeline Lobdell Atwater, went earlier in the season. The Lobdells took with them their 8 year old grandson, Edwin, son of the Charles W. Lobdells of Hubbard Woods.

Mrs. Harrison Tyler Todd of Schenectady, N. Y., a bride of last September, is here for a fortnight's visit with her family, the William R. Ruffners, in Highland Park. Owing to the recent death of her grandmother, Mrs. John I. Underwood, there will be only the most informal sort of entertaining for the former Marianna Ruffner. Miss Virginia Ruffner will drive her sister home.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren E. Taft of 220 East Walton place, who went abroad several weeks ago, are expected to return about Sept. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Eliphalet W. Cramer of 12 Scott street are spending the latter part of the summer at the Chicago Golf club in Wheaton, coming into town only occasionally for a day or two.

Mme. Antonin Barthelemy sailed Saturday for her home in France after a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eames MacVeagh of 900 North Michigan avenue. The MacVeaghs are staying close to home this summer but hope to take a trip next month. When they go away they probably will be accompanied by Mr. MacVeagh's father, Franklin MacVeagh, who is staying at the University club this summer instead of going to his lovely summer place at Dublin, N. H., as is his custom.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Wendell Clark of 1448 Lake Shore drive will return today from a visit with Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler at Harbor Point. Mrs. Clark went north a week ago and Dr. Clark joined her for the week-end.

Prof. Douglas Asks New Party of Progressives

Outlines His Program for Farmers and Labor.

"The Coming of a New Party," by Paul H. Douglas. [Whittlesey-House.]

PAUL H. DOUGLAS, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, author of "Real Wages in the United States" and vice chairman of the League for Independent Political Action, makes a plea in "The Coming of a New Party" for a reorganization of politics. John Dewey, the philosopher, says of the book: "If I knew any way to make this book compulsory reading for all citizens, especially for all young men and women whose political minds are not closed to facts and ideas, I would gladly do so . . ."

PAUL DOUGLAS.

The first chapter of the book, entitled "The Breakdown of the Old Order," which should from the logical standpoint be the most convincing and effective in the book, is the least impressive. It reveals the main sources of failures and corruption in the existing political system, though it fails to give a broad philosophical and historical examination of political action.

Nevertheless, few readers assume of their own accord that politics in the United States is always and entirely what it should be. The second chapter plunges into the evils resulting from mismanaged and materialistically minded government. In "The Immediate Needs of Labor" Prof. Douglas urges social insurance, protective legislation and effective organization. In the following chapter the author, devoting himself to the plight of the farmer, raps the tariff and its disastrous effect on the farmer and disposes of the proposal, and the theory as well, that export dumping can serve as a relief measure for the farmer. He suggests reduction of the tariff on manufactured goods as the most effective remedy for the farmer's economic distress. The author also urges the lowering of the tax on farmers' land, adding "What is needed, therefore, is the taxation of incomes, inheritances, and corporation profits by the states."

In the final chapter in this section of the book Prof. Douglas lists the many ways in which he declares the government could further, politically and economically, the interests and the happiness of the individual citizens.

The second section, called "Tactics," presents the difficulties of "working within the parties" for a reform that will give immediate attention to the needs of the farmer and the laborer. He examines the arguments offered by those who advocate reform, but who reason that the reform can be accomplished by "boring from within." Prof. Douglas states that the Republican party by its very nature is antagonistic to the farmer and labor interests, but says, "The Republican party has a definite place and a real function to perform. It represents the conservative forces and the propertied classes. There is room for one such party. But there is not room for two. The probabilities are, therefore, that the Democratic party will ultimately go down before the rise of a vigorous party of the farmers and workers in much the same way that the Liberal party in England has dwindled as the Labor party has grown."

He arrives at this conclusion after examining the principles of the Democratic party, which he considers almost identical to those of the Republicans.

The ideal of this new party, which will in some states be a second instead of a third party [because Prof. Douglas points out that there are many states, in the east and south particularly, which are controlled by a single party], is to combine the liberal and progressive elements of the now existing Democratic party and to absorb the various political organizations that have grown up as protests.

This new party which he thinks is to take the place of a decadent and anachronistic party is to be called either "The People's Party" or "The Farmer-Labor Party." The word "socialism" must be avoided in connection with the party, he says; first, because of the opprobrium always heaped upon it, and, second, because the new party would not adhere to many of the Marxian principles. Communists would be denied membership in this new party, he says, because their reform aims are based on violence.

Remaining in Town

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Field II., are spending the summer in town with occasional weekend visits to Lake Forest, but they are not minding a summer in the city at all, for their apartment at 3300 Sheridan road overlooks the lake and is "delightfully cool and pleasant," according to Mrs. Field. This picture was taken at a recent sports event.

Airs of Garbo Arouse Ire of Others on Ship

BY GRACE ROBINSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard M. S. Gripsholm, at Sea, Aug 7.—Greta Garbo may be the beloved of movie fans in a million towns and hamlets but her airs of exclusiveness have not endeared the silent Swede to her fellow passengers on this merry motor ship. To put it bluntly, they are getting downright angry.

Two New York physicians who were requested to move their lolling chairs from the boat deck so that the great one could stroll about in lonely splendor stubbornly refused to budge. They held their places despite the pleadings of ship's officers and let it be known they were no longer Garbo enthusiasts.

Since this ship pulled out from New York, Garbo has consistently and pointedly snubbed the other passengers, many of whom consider their social position does not entitle them to a snubbing from any body short of royalty.

THE CAST.

Karl	John Gilbert
Albert	Paul Lukas
Anna	Virginia Bruce
Countess	Hedda Hopper
Baron	Reginald Owen
Baroness	Olga Baclanova
Sophie	Bodil Rosing
Otto	Otto Hoffman
Francoise	Lucien Littlefield
Antoinette	Marion Lessing

By Anna Nangel.

John Gilbert, the man who won high acclaim from the movie going public in "The Merry Widow," "The Big Parade" and a number of other silent pictures and saw his popularity but not his salary fade with the advent of the talkies, has another come-back picture. [There have been several, you know.] And this one isn't bad, either!

He is said to have written "Downstairs," and to have had a hand in the direction of it. His fiancée, Virginia Bruce, is the leading lady of the film. It seems to be an all-Gilbert offering.

But in this film John isn't the charming suave hero he was in his palmy days. He's still charming and suave, but he's no hero. He's a cad of the first water. You can't admire him a bit. In fact, one of the things that sustains interest in the film is your desire to see some one give the dastardly villain his just deserts. He's the type of man who robs old ladies, blackmails wealthy ones, makes love to young matrons, and in general, is a conniving wretch. And, I might add without malice, Mr. Gilbert is entirely convincing as such.

The film opens with the wedding festivities of Anna and Albert, servants in the castle of a baron somewhere in Austria, although said baron [Reginald Owen] has a most decided English accent, and the baroness is played by the Russia charmer, Olga Baclanova. The bride and bridegroom are much in love, and have great respect and admiration for their employers. All this is changed by the entrance of the rascally Karl, the new chauffeur. He throws monkey wrenches into a number of things until he finally gets his in no uncertain manner.

The cast is competent enough, with Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Owen taking the honors. Miss Bruce is appealing, and Paul Lukas does his usual good work, although I hope he lets his mustache grow again.

The scenery and photography are all effective, particularly the glimpses of life "downstairs" in a baronial castle. You see the huge kitchens with roaring ovens, great quantities of meats, pastrys, etc., and the cavernous, dusty old wine cellar. You'll be interested in that spot for more reasons than one.

It's all nicely done, and to say the least, it's "different."

Annual Art and Gift Ware Show Opens Today

The annual show of art and gift wares and novelties will open today in the Merchandise Mart, to continue until Saturday. Wholesalers of gift articles from all parts of the country will show their wares to retail buyers. Most of the gifts, officials of the show said, show the trend of the times in that they are of a practical nature, in place of the useless knicknacks popular a few years ago.

Cool, Crisp Salad for Noon Meal Keeps Calorie Count 'Way Down

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

With apologies to our esteemed cooking editor, who knows her salads better than I, I would like to talk salads to the ladies today for the sake of their silhouettes—and for a couple of other beauty reasons.

I looked around a restaurant the other noontime. The place is frequented chiefly by shoppers and business girls. They were ordering a sandwich and a piece of pie [or some other starch dessert] or a sandwich and ice cream, or perhaps just a sandwich. Rarely a glass of milk was ordered. Rarely a salid, as the main dish.

It may be, of course, that the sandwich measures up better according to the luncheon allowance—the kind of crisp, tasty salad you want when you order, I mean. But it seems to me that there could be more systematizing of this noon-day food helping. Especially if you are eager to keep or get weight down. And salads are grand to eat, too. It's about the only way many women ever have of getting uncooked fresh green vegetables and fresh fruits into their systems.

It's not merely the weight feature by which a woman profits on a hearty salad helping once a day. The salad material supplies that bulky content needed to scrub out the intestinal tract. Too, in lettuce and tomatoes and radish and celery and other salad ingredients there are vitamins that are good for you. They offer food that has to be chewed on, getting the teeth in for a bit of needed exercise, too.

The home woman who can do her own ordering certainly can make that noonday meal of hers a salad health meal. What is better on a hot summer day than a bowl of salad into which you've put a variety of fresh vegetables? Take a crisp roll along with this, and a glass of milk and you feel better the rest of the day for it.

OUR SECRET AMBITION

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Pierce determines to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow, friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralizing influence of Doria. He decides to sail himself. On the boat Doria meets David Dorrance, who wants to intrest Pierce in a business deal. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Alen, Gold's half brother, slows away on the boat. Pierce overhears Gip threatening Gold and, unknown to her, arranges to get Gip third class passage. Doria invites a good looking youth from steerage to dine with her and give an exhibition tango. The youth is Gip Alen. Barney again takes Gip in hand and arranges to give him a six months' tryout in his Texas lumber camp. Gold accepts Dorrance's offer of a position as his secretary on the Havana trip. On their arrival in New York he sends her to a small hotel near Washington square. In the evening he takes her out to dine and dance in a colored night club in Harlem. Doria expects Pierce to call and has ordered dinner to be served in her hotel suite. Dr. Elverton calls before Pierce. Pierce arrives in search of Gold.

INSTALLMENT XXXVII.

THE ONE GIRL.

"You're a brute to me, Barney!" I'd looked forward to this evening so much——"

"With no reason, surely, my dear Doria."

"I'd such lots to ask you. I wanted to ask if you knew what had become of my lovely dancing boy——"

At her old simple game of trying to rouse jealousy! He could have smiled and did not. And because he was at heart a very modest man, her persistence faintly shamed as well as vexed him.

"Who sent him?"

"It doesn't matter now if she knows," he thought, and answered her briefly: "I did."

"You sent him!"

And suddenly she asked archly—with the archness that never suited her: "Why?"

"To darn well get him out of my way."

With this simple truth Pierce did what he had not meant to do; he restored delight in him to Doria; restored expectation.

Elverton did not take the little expressive hands; he took her instead by the shoulders and shook her.

She had seen, and winced from, his gesture of boredom before. He made that gesture now. She added hurriedly: "Mr. Dorrance is going!"

"Is he?" said Pierce. It was more an exclamation than a question.

She hung on to his coat lapels: "Barney, you're such a darling, but so difficult. I knew that night on the boat that you were very angry with me——"

"I was."

Then he saw exactly how her thoughts ran. "Good-by," he said again.

"But you certainly go to all lengths to keep poachers off your preserves, don't you darling?"

She was giggling; her eyes shone. "You can go now," she said, "if you're going to call me in the morning."

Tomorrow was another day. He would have to take her to lunch—couldn't hesitate. She shut the door on him triumphantly and returned to Elverton.

"He's awfully kind really," she said. Her voice was soft. It crooned. "He hates any one to guess him."

She made a gesture with her little flashing hands; flashing nail varnish of flame color; flashing diamonds in platinum. "He's doing all that—looking after that girl—to please me, Barney is. But he's so stubborn he'd never say so. And O! he's so jealous!"

Elverton did not take the little expressive hands; he took her instead by the shoulders and shook her.

"Stop fooling."

"Fooling Barney?"

"Fooling yourself."

Her lips quivered and parted, and he looked at them.

"This is my evening, after all. I'm dining here with you; or rather, you're dining up here with me if you prefer it to downstairs." Visions returned of a glamorous evening among many lights, music, and laughter; this pretty thing by his side; the sort of evening whose faintly colored counterpart he had perhaps enjoyed rarely as a very young man indeed; not since. But whether in the restaurant downstairs, or in this room so quiet, this evening was to be his. He was going to foot the bill.

"This is mine."

He might have kissed Doria's quivering mouth, but just then the waiter knocked again. All was ready. The waiter began to serve them.

* * * * *

Barney did not wait to telephone the Tree hotel. He was instantly back in his car, on his way there, angry with himself for the simply silly way he had let Doria Hathaway dupe him. Her feelings toward him troubled him little, faintly shamed as he felt by her open expression of them.

So many women had pursued, so many women had preyed on him.

Then, as he glimpsed a girl to whom he wanted to talk, a girl aloof and different, this one girl eluded him. She avoided and escaped him.

She was forever going out of reach.

"Forever." What a fool word! It was even now less than two weeks since he had first seen her running out of that murky London doorway, uncovered head shining like a crown of gold. "Forever!" he said to himself grimly: "I haven't begun yet."

But he had the feeling that he was beginning now. As his car rushed along, the mood in which he went into conflict, the mood with which he tackled big business, ruthless affairs in which defeat and victory were balanced equally within sight, fell upon him. The mood had taken him through many a fight; men knew it. Wasn't it too mighty and devastating a temper in which to pursue the lovely illusion he pursued now? However that might be, it rode him.

The Tree hotel. He strode in. "Is Miss Franklyn, just arrived from London, in?" It was a demure hotel of few excitements, and the desk clerk, the hall porter, the elevator boy, had all had leisure and inclination to notice beauty. All were able to inform him, with the vision of a girl in scarlet and yellow orchids in their eyes: "The lady has gone out."

"Do you know where?"

"No." A gentleman had called for her. It would be Dorrance? "A Mr. Dorrance?" he asked briefly.

They looked at him carefully.

"Miss Franklyn and Mr. Dorrance are friends of mine and I want to meet them this evening." Then the desk clerk said: "Yes." The gentleman's name, he remembered, had been Dorrance.

But they did not know where the couple had gone.

"I'll telephone," Pierce said.

He knew—addresses having been exchanged in the course of business—that Dorrance had gone to the Plaza. He called the hotel and asked urgently for Dorrance's whereabouts. "It is important that I should locate him at once." But he had to go personally to the great hotel—where they knew him well—to elicit that a clerk had booked a dinner table for Mr. Dorrance at the Ritz-Carlton for that evening; and a supper table at the Rose Wreath club in Harlem.

When Barney walked into the scent laden, sweet laden, smoke laden Harlem restaurant, he knew perfectly well what he was going to do next; and he would have brooked no arguing, even with himself. Hadn't even Dorrance enough instinctive good taste not to set a white rose on a muck heap? He himself did not know this particular haunt, but the manager ran to bow to the creditable figure that the new arrival cut. Here was one of New York's elect—no mistaking it!

"A table, sar? Are you alone?"

"I'm joining friends. Mr. Dorrance . . ."

"This way, sar."

When he seated himself at their table, Gold and Dorrance were dancing. Or, rather, they were swaying to the music among the other closely packed couples. Searching for them in the mêlée, he found the girl's white face, red lips, shock of golden hair. He was infuriated. The limitations of class held him within the boundary of good manners, but did nothing to subdue the nausea of his rage. If he had been a low-lifer, a tough—and he wished he were—he would have broken things up; any things; all things. He would have got through these dancing people to his woman, seized her, carried her off; told her . . .

Or better still, he would have had a go at Dorrance, who had brought her here.

As it was, he sat still, while the ebony manager poured him a glass of champagne, which he did not touch till Dorrance's wandering eyes found him.

Roscoe Ates Works on Four Films in Week

Studio Record Is Set by Busy Session.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 7.—The busiest week in his "and perhaps any other film actor's life" demands Roscoe Ates' time and attention on four films simultaneously, starting tomorrow. He's cast for a character rôle with Constance Bennett in "Rockabye." He's finishing one of those parts of a good natured but futile wealth seeker with Bill Boyd in "Youkon." He's cast with his comedy side-kick, Hugh Herbert, and with Jerry Mandy in a broad comedy rôle in the short burlesque, "Shampoo the Magician," and on top of all that he begins work in a serious rôle with Mitzi Green in "Little Orphan Annie."

When John Miljan won his court fight to adopt the two sons of his present wife and her former husband, Creighton Hale, the Los Angeles judge granted the two boys the right to assume new names. The younger boy, Robert Lowe Hale, chose to become Robert Lowe Miljan, but the older boy, formerly Creighton Hale Jr., rechristened himself Richard Miljan. The Richard, he explained, was for Richard Wallace, the film director, a close friend.

No girl in Hollywood has as many princely boy friends as Lily Damita. And no princely boy friends get such galvanic jolts out of their Hollywood experiences as Lily's.

In September, 1928, it was Prince George of Great Britain, young brother of the prince of Wales. Here as junior officer on a British ship, Prince George sneaked off the ship at Santa Barbara, and motored to Hollywood, where Doug Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, delighted to play host to his highness, were more than a bit surprised at his request [amounting to a command, under the etiquette of entertaining a prince] to invite Lily to Pickfair.

Lily came, and the prince saw her home, and saw more of her for a couple days until the prince's senior officer located him, chased him aboard ship in a huff, and put to sea while Lily pouted.

Six months later it was Prince Louis Ferdinand Hohenzollern, second son of the former German crown prince. Working in an automobile assembly plant here, Prince Louis remade luscious Lily's acquaintance, and the first thing he knew he was seeing so much of Lily, and there were so many photographs being taken of the couple that he was hardly surprised to read of his engagement to the actress announced in the Los Angeles newspapers one morning.

Prince Louis said that a gentleman could hardly deny an engagement announcement, and Lily seemed very loathe to deny it, and after making Lily a present of his first check as an American auto mechanic, to be framed, Prince Louis was suddenly ordered by cable to take passage at once for Buenos Aires and put the rest of his automobiles together there.

At about the time of this Hohenzollern experience Miss Damita was also seen once or twice in the company of Duke Louis of Allambrosa, but it wasn't until just before the Olympic games that Prince Ferdinand von Liechtenstein, here with the Austrian team for the international games, pasted another figurative coat of arms on the vacant space in Lily's trophy room.

How One Man Lost 22 Pounds

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—my first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now I feel like a new man."

To use fat SAFELY and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast. Avoid fatty meats and starches.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle at any drugstore in the world and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. All good druggists will be glad to supply you.

Present Pageants Depicting Work of Bible Associations

The open air auditorium at the Methodist camp meeting grounds at Des Plaines was crowded with 2,500 persons of all Protestant faiths last night to learn of the work of the American and Chicago Bible societies through a series of pageants. The service was opened with responsive Scripture readings in which 11 languages were used. More than 100 younger people from seven congregations presented pageants depicting the work of the Bible societies in various parts of the world.

Or if the forgetful gods that grant wishes have tarried in the country to keep cool, and if we cannot flip our finny selves about in some sun speckled stream and in that way forget the weather, we still insist on fish. And the most crisply refreshing way to bring them into prominence these sun kissed days is against a background of shimmering, refreshing gelatin.

For debate it as you will, foods do seem to have special affinities for each other, and I know of few combinations more completely delightful than the firmly yielding texture of gelatin combined with any of the wide variety of flavorful fish morsels always available at your grocer's if not at your own over-the-hill camping stream.

For instance, sparkling little crabmeat appetizers to pique hot weather appetites. Tid-bits of shrimp glorifying tremulous aspics to bring happy relief at the soup course. A melt-in-the-mouth tuna jellied loaf which can turn the simplest luncheon into a most partified affair. Quivering cucumber-salmon salads that fairly shiver with coolness, a most tantalizing array of sandwiches, and even chilly frozen delicacies call for our deep consideration and claim as their secret of goodness—gelatin and sea foods.

SHRIMP JELLY EN CANAPE.

3 tablespoons cold water.
2 tablespoons catsup.
1-3 cup mayonnaise.
1 cup minced shrimp.
1-3 cup each minced celery and chopped, stuffed olives.
Juice of one-half lemon.

Soak the gelatin in cold water about five minutes, then melt it over hot water. Stir in the catsup and mayonnaise and let half set. Now add the rest of the ingredients and turn at once into a large, shallow pan which has been rinsed with cold water. Chill. To serve, spread the jelly mixture over crackers or on thin bread rounds which have been lightly toasted on one side. Top each canapé with a wee sprig of parsley and serve on individual plates.

TUNA COCKTAIL.

This cocktail is best served in small individual molds which may be bought inexpensively. To prepare it, soak one tablespoon of gelatin in one-fourth cup of cold water for five minutes. Dissolve in one cup of undiluted, clear tomato soup—one of the canned varieties. Cool and then add a half cup of lemon juice, three tablespoons of peppery sauce, one tablespoon of finely minced parsley, and one cup of flaked tuna fish. Turn the cocktail mixture into molds rinsed with cold water and chill. Serve garnished with lettuce and thin wedges of lemon sprinkled with paprika.

Bishop Sheil to Confirm 300 at Outdoor Mission

The Rev. Francis Shea, pastor of St. Celestine's church, Elmwood Park, announced last night that the outdoor mission which has been held for the last week would be continued for another week, including and ending next Monday night. The services are held in an outdoor area at 76th court and Wellington avenue. Tonight 300 persons will be confirmed by Bishop Bernard Sheil.

Strategy, Tact Valuable Aids to Any Marriage

Clever Wife Never Lays Down the Law.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What's your idea about the right and wrong of this husband behavior?

Mrs. X., we'll call her, and her husband had planned a certain week-end holiday. Their small child took sick. By going away time she was better, but not well enough to be taken along. Recuperating, as it were.

Mr. X. asked to run along alone and have a good time with friends originally included in the week-end party.

"After being with my sick child two weeks I should have to stay at home and let my husband go off alone. Don't you think the husband should share the trials of the home, as well as the pleasures?

"Last summer another situation arose that supplied the same question. He wanted to go on his vacation and leave me behind. Isn't he a very self-centered man? Should I give in to his whims? Not giving in causes discord, of course."

It's just too bad that marriage doesn't begin with silver and golden anniversaries and work back. Women (and men) would have lived to learn that the institution isn't run on rules. That it's better to make concessions, yes, and take them, than to try the right and the wrong of it every time.

Take this case as example. The child couldn't be taken along. She was recuperating. Not sick enough for a father's worry, yet needing some one to look after her. Of course, it's right that the pater should be just as concerned about his child's welfare as the mother.

But, suppose you let the man run along and play his week-end, can't you, the mother, manage your own week-end later?

Schools Offer New Care for Wayward Boy

Bogan Announces Plan for Special Board.

A new treatment of wayward boys and girls in Chicago's public schools will be inaugurated this fall, according to the plans of Supt. William J. Bogan. The superintendent believes many so-called "problem" children can be corrected without placing them in special schools.

When other measures fail, individual cases, under the new scheme, will be taken before a special committee in each district superintendent's area. This group will consist of the assistant superintendent as chairman, the district superintendent, the principal of the school, the child's teacher, a truant officer, a psychologist, and a psychiatrist. "I will sit in at the first meetings of the committees to watch developments," said Mr. Bogan.

The pupil and his parents will appear before the committee and discuss with its members the case at hand such as truancy, petty thievery, or vandalism. "We want to find out the motive that impelled Johnny to break the school window, for example," Mr. Bogan explained, "and then apply the remedy.

"Often a child's fault may lie in a clash of temperament with the teacher," he continued, "or in a bad gang with whom he is associating. In such cases the remedy would be to place the pupil in the charge of another teacher or transfer him to another school.

"Under no circumstances do I want these committees to become inquisitorial bodies. Of course, there will be failures in some cases, but I feel certain the percentage of successes will be far greater."

The most drastic corrective method employed in the public schools is the commitment by the Juvenile court of a pupil to the Parental school at 3600 Foster avenue. There the child lives and goes to school under supervision for several months.

In the belief that this school is an outworn institution and an excessive burden on the taxpayers Supt. Bogan suggested to the school board subcommittee on economies on July 15 that the school be discontinued. The saving would be $80,000 a year. The per pupil cost at this school is more than $800 a year.

Habitual truants are sent to the Montefiore school, at 461 North Sangamon street, and the Moseley school at 2348 South Michigan avenue. Mr. Bogan will send the annual report of these schools today to Lewis E. Myers, president of the school board. The report has just been completed by Miss Isabella Dolton.

Expect 2,000 Buyers from 30 States at Merchants Council

More than 2,000 department store owners and buyers from 30 states are expected to attend the twenty-second semi-annual meeting of the Interstate Merchants council, sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce, which will open today in the Hotel Sherman.

A three day style show will feature the meeting, which brings merchants from throughout the country to Chicago to buy their fall and winter merchandise stock. The style show will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights in the Hotel Sherman, the Wednesday night performance to be limited to retailers from the local metropolitan district.

In both coats and dresses the fall fashions emphasize the upper half of the sleeve. Coats do this by an abundance of fur trimming, adding to the broad shouldered effect by large fur collars. Leg o' mutton sleeves. Vionnet sleeves and other treatments conceived to make the sleeve large at the top and narrow below the elbow will be displayed.

Checked Woolen Afternoon Frock Shown in Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Now that the French fabric manufacturers have taken to producing lacey woolens that vie with featherweight silks for coolness the woolen frock has stepped into the summer picture. Very open, thin, gauzy woolens are worn just as much as sheer crêpes by the chic Parisienne. She wears them for her sports frocks and for all day frocks as well, that can appear at teatime with perfect propriety.

The frock sketched today is in the latter category. In fact, M. Worth, who designed this frock, calls it "Pour le Thé." It has been one of the biggest successes of the season with the private clientele of this coutourier. It has been ordered mostly in its original color—black.

In a small, open checked design that forms a lacey pattern, this frock is in the sheerest of woolens. The unbelted bias cut skirt follows the lines of the body, flaring slightly near the hem. Tiny seams at the front of the bodice give a plastron effect. A bias band makes a half sash at the waistline, in lieu of a belt, ending in ties which hang at the left side. If you will look at the small sketch in the corner you will see how this sash achieves a snug effect around the waistline at the back.

This dress owes part of its charm to its white crêpe de chine trimming, which forms a plaited collar around the sides and back of the square décolleté, ending in a perky bow on the left shoulder. The short sleeves are banded with the same white crêpe with tiny plaits on the outside center of the arm.

Sally's Guests Will See Cubs Battle Again

Children to Enjoy Thrills of Baseball.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Aren't you pleased to know that we're going to see the Cubs again, boys and girls? Yes, as I told you in yesterday's paper, Mr. Veeck, president of the north side team, has invited us to return to Wrigley field to repeat the good time we had there a few weeks ago and we're going to see the game with the Boston Braves. Isn't that thrilling news?

The eastern team now occupies third place in the National league standing while the Cubs are in second place. These positions are close enough to insure an even contest and consequently a good game. It will be interesting, too, to see the Cubs' reaction to the new manager, Charley Grimm, whose first statement as new leader was to predict that his boys would win the pennant. And judging from the baseball they've been playing one couldn't call that a rash promise.

Last time we went to Wrigley field I know all of you were anxious to see Lon Warneke, the young pitcher, who has been piling up victories for his team this season. He wasn't on the mound that day, however, so a great many of you still have your first glimpse of this new star awaiting you. Let's hope we see him in action on Thursday, Aug. 18. That's the date of our party, you know.

If you are a baseball fan—and what boy or girl isn't these days—I want you to try to win an invitation to this party. Every one of you is eligible even if you were my guest at the Cubs-Brooklyn game. And the only thing you have to do is write a letter telling me why you'd like to be one of that lucky group of one hundred boys and girls. This shouldn't be difficult, either, if you are a real baseball enthusiast. You can tell me who your favorite players and teams are and, O, a lot of other things that would make your letter interesting. I shall select the writers of the hundred best letters as my guests.

Every letter must be in by next Thursday morning and these are the principal things to remember in writing. Your name and address must appear plainly, be sure to include your age, and write your own letter. So many of you ask for invitations for some one else, or more than one of you sign your name to the same letter, or the eldest in the family writes for the younger children. These I must exclude when picking the winners.

Hats Worn Straight Across Head Mark Paris Style Shows

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Hats worn straight across the forehead, in marked contrast to the recent exaggerated tilt, startled the fashion world at the fall shows today.

Felts with flat crowns and narrow brims were worn in a line almost parallel with the eyebrows and toques were poised at a much less exaggerated angle than heretofore, indicating the possibility that the tilted hat vogue is on the wane.

Charity Will Get Proceeds of G. O. P. Rally

An invitation is being extended 300 philanthropic organizations to participate in the sale of tickets for the Republican Labor day rally and picnic to be held at Riverview park Sept. 5.

The proceeds will go to charities and will be distributed by the Chicago Charities committee, headed by Evan Evans. Mrs. Joseph B. Long is treasurer. Other well known Chicagoans who have agreed to serve on the advisory committee are Frank J. Loesch, chairman; Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Fletcher M. Durbin, Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett, J. R. Winterbotham, Jr., Gen. Nathan William MacChesney, George R. Carr, B. A. Massee, and J. Russell Forgan.

It was pointed out that the Chicago Charities committee, while using the opportunity of raising funds at the Republican rally, is in no way interested in politics as a group. It was declared that the sole interest in raising money for private charities, which have suffered financially because of the drives for public emergency relief funs during the last two years.

Each charity which participates will benefit directly in the proceeds of the tickets it sells, and in addition the committee will distribute to the charities that have been particularly hard pressed the proceeds raised by the concessions and refreshments.

"While most private charities have experienced decided drops in their incomes during the last two years, the additional burdens thrown upon them have been tremendous," Mr. Evans explained. "We hope to be able to make up to some extent the deficits of these private charities, which receive little or no help from the Emergency Relief fund.

"Although the Chicago Charities committee and its advisory committee is a nonpartisan group, and as such are not indorsing any candidates or party, and we are grateful to former Alderman Arthur Albert and other party leaders for the opportunity offered by the Republican rally. We hope that every Chicago charity in need of funds will take advantage of the ticket sales to add to their respective treasuries."

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Here is a quick and easy way to take off a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—with never a hungry moment. A way any doctor will tell you is safe and sure.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in glass of water half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses your system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute. Cut down on sweets and desserts. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns to energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

ARGENTINE WINS MARATHON: OLYMPIC CLIMAX

CUBS WIN, 8-2; THEN LOSE, 8-1; GAIN GAME ON PIRATES

WARNEKE GETS NO. 17; GIANTS CHASE MALONE

Bruins 1½ Games from Top.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—Lon Warneke, who owns 15 suits of clothes and is Arkansas' best dressed son, rang up his No. 17 victory of the year when he toyed with the Giants for an easy five hit 8 to 2 victory. Unfortunately, Pat Malone couldn't carry on in the second game, and the Giants, off Malone, Charley Root and Leroy Herrmann, fashioned an 8 to 1 win directed by that wanderer of the majors, White Hoyt.

Though the Cubs would have been pleased to have taken both games, while the Pirates were losing their eighth and ninth straight in Boston, they were content with a draw, for it enabled them to gain a full game on those Pirates, whom they now trail by only a game and a half. A week ago this night the Cubs were six full games behind the leading Pittsburghers. A gain of 4½ games in one week on the road and at this stage of the season was not to be sniffed at, even though the boys appeared pretty puny against a nomad like Hoyt, who had been counted a push over.

Lon Allows Only Five Hits.

The first game was the fourth straight victory that Warneke has accomplished over the Giants, and the rangy mountaineer never was in danger. During the first seven innings he allowed only two hits, a single by Ott with two out in the fourth and a single by Lindstrom at the start of the fifth. In the eighth, during a shower, Lon had some trouble and Terry doubled for the third hit. In the ninth Ott got a homer and Lindstrom scratched a single for the fifth and last smack.

It was the first game for Warneke without the much discussed Hornsby direction of every pitch. He, obviously, did not miss the Hornsbian genius. Hornsby had predicted he would go right along just before Rogers left the club. "The kid is a great pitcher," said Rogers, "and all he has to do is remember what he already knows about the National league hitters and catch up with the newcomers. He doesn't need me any more."

After the game Lon was reticent about discussing this phase of the situation. He did not wish to belittle any help Hornsby had given him and at the same time his performance today revealed he is capable to do his stuff unaided.

As per their custom, the Cubs did much hitting in Lon's behalf. Leo Hartnett had a great day. He scored three runs, knocked a homer, a triple, and two singles, worked with Warneke perfectly and played a strong game in all branches of the defense.

At the end of the first game the Cubs, rated weak hitters and proved such by the records, had piled up 72 hits under the five games of the Grimm regime.

Moore Hits No. 11.

In addition to Hartnett, others who added to the total under the new order of things were Johnny Moore, with his No. 11 homer and a single, Woody English with a double and two singles, Grimm and Herman, each with a double and a single and Warneke with two singles. Stephenson, who was on a hitting rampage in Philadelphia, in the first game today contented himself with a single and two walks.

For some reason the sluggers cooled off after starting with a rush in the second game. Herman, first up, singled and English walked. Cuyler singled, scoring Herman and putting English on third, with none out. It appeared that slaughter was coming on, but as things turned out that run of Herman's was the only one made against Hoyt.

The Giants in the third scored two runs off Malone after two were out and again in the fourth they made two more, also after two were out. In the course of these jams Malone threw his triple ball to Terry, G. English, and Critz. In the fifth Mr. Malone was taking a bath.

FIRST GAME

Woody English doubled with one down in the first inning and the vigor with which he did it indicated that Warneke might be given a little percentage right off. But the hope died when Cuyler fanned and Stephenson lined to Joe Moore.

The second inning was considerably more cheering. After Johnny Moore had fouled to Hogan, Grimm knocked the ball to the center field wall, which is 480 feet from the home plate. Charley reaching second on the heavy track. Hartnett hit the ball to the same far distant barrier, scoring Grimm, and proved a better mudder than his boss, for he made a triple of his smack. Gabby held third while Jurges lifted a short fly to Ott, but walked home on Warneke's line single to center. Herman rolled out to Terry.

Herman Scores in Fifth.

Herman doubled to left with one out in the fifth and scored on English's single to right. Cuyler smashed a single off Bell's knee, English stop

ATHLETICS EVADE A SHUTOUT, BUT SOX ACCEPT ONE

Lyons Wins 3 to 1; Freitas Victor, 1 to 0.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Those White Sox who have been more or less of a tonic for their rivals are just beginning to realize their own strength. Having fattened up on their even break with the Yankees, they kept right on moving in the proper direction yesterday by taking a decisive 3 to 1 poke at the champion Athletics in the first portion of a double header. They then battled valiantly for another success, but succumbed by the narrow margin of 1 to 0 before 15,000 folks.

The two happy features of the Sox winning achievement was that Ted Lyons was on the right end for his seventh victory of the season and that Robert Mose Grove, the lengthy lefthander, was on the opposite end for his ninth trimming. The great Mr. Grove happened to get into that predicament because some hits were bunched on him by Funk, Hayes, Selph, and Appling in two of the nine innings.

No Liberties with Ted.

Lyons did not permit any such liberties with his stuff until the ninth, when the Macks scored their only run and avoided being blanked by him for the second time this year. No other pitcher has doused them with whitewash.

In the nightcap, it was just too bad for Milton Gaston that he drew as an opponent one Tony Freitas, a left-handed ex-Coast leaguer. Gaston pitched almost as brilliantly as Lyons had done before him. He gave up only six hits, but was unfortunate enough to have three of them occur in one inning. That was enough to give the champions their winning margin.

But, and this explains just about everything, the Sox could nick their southpaw opponent for only three safe taps. Even with this meager hit total they had such chances as three on with none gone in one inning and a man on second with none out in another, but Freitas was relentless in the pinches.

Simmons Bats .000.

If anybody around the premises spent an uncomfortable afternoon it must have been Al Simmons, the pride of Mitchell street, Milwaukee. All the hitting accomplished by the Mack slugger can be covered by a large zero. He was up against Lyons five times, four of them with men on bases. The only time he sent a ball as far as the outfield was when the bags were bare. While Gaston was operating, Simmons made four appearances. These, too, were devoid of anything related to a hit.

Even Jimmy Foxx, who has been known to hit 'em far, was no terror. He was restricted to one single in each game, but he, at least, had the satisfaction of starting the lone run that carried Gaston down.

FIRST GAME

The elongated Grove had easy traveling for quite a stretch, but that wasn't the case with Lyons. Every time Ted looked around he saw at least one enemy on base. Two of them were there in the first inning on an error and pass, but Simmons lined into a double play. There were two hits in the second with an out in between, but Dykes and Grove foozled out. The third was serious. Haas walked and Cochrane doubled with one gone. In this situation Simmons fouled to Blue and Foxx was tossed out by Lyons. Then the Mackmen quieted down for a few innings.

The Sox attack in the first five innings was not what could be termed boisterous. Only four widely separated singles were produced, and only one man reached second. Selph singled to center with one deposed in the sixth and that proved the beginning of Grove's decline. Fothergill bounced to Dykes, who threw to second but Selph already was there. Bishop then relayed to Foxx but Fothergill beat this play. Appling furnished a single to center on which Selph scored and

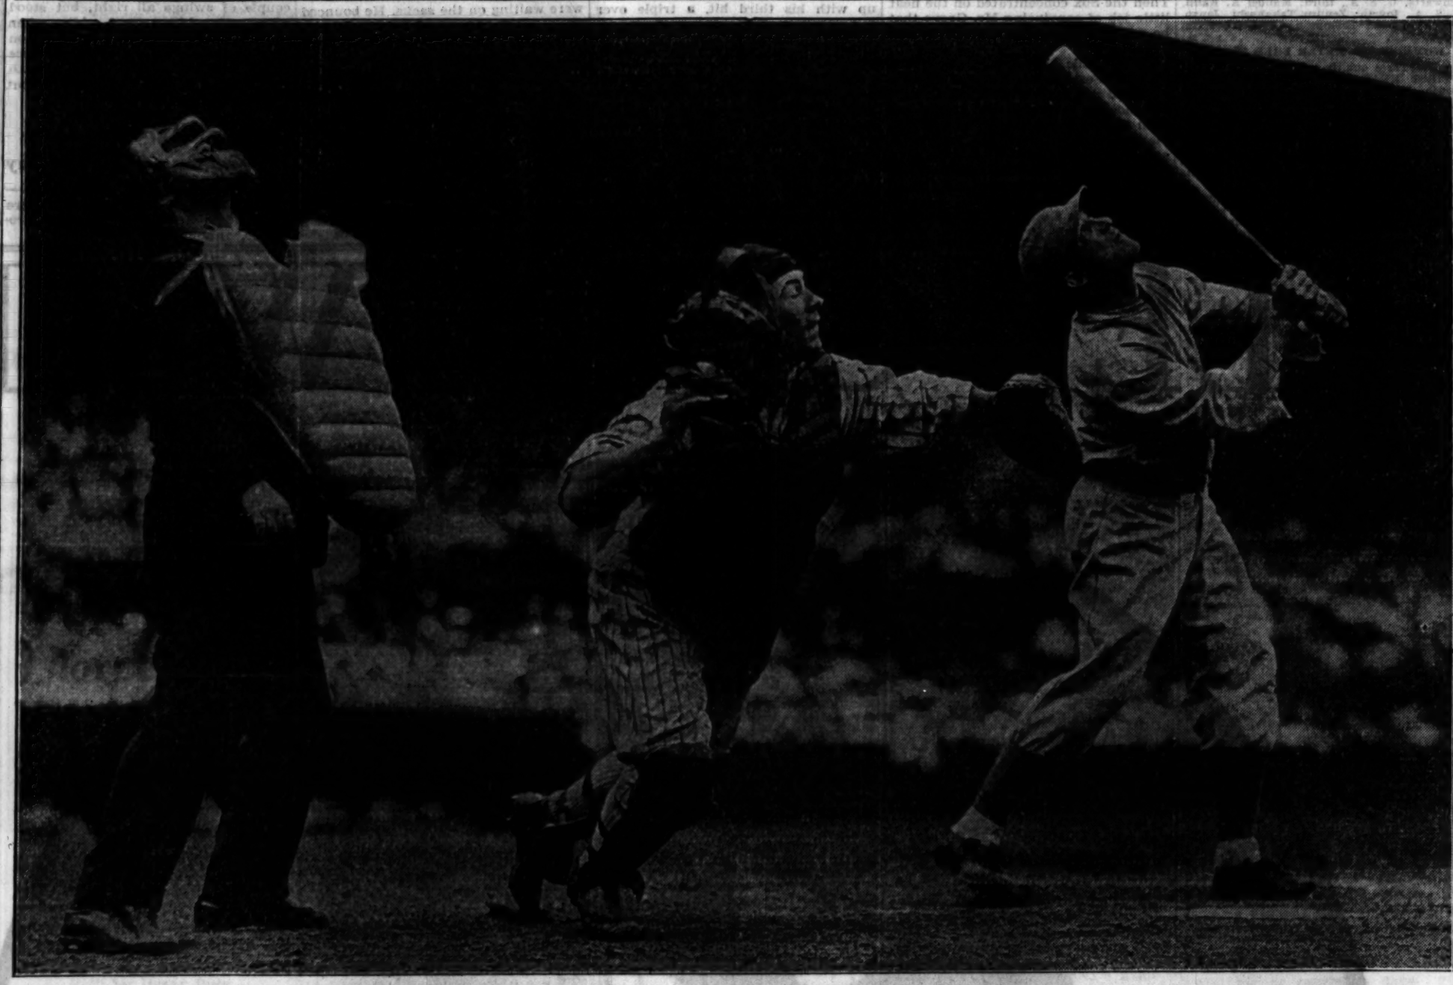
A LONG ONE, BUT AL FORGETS TO STRAIGHTEN IT OUT



There was fear and trembling and what not in the seventh inning of the first White Sox-Athletics game at Comiskey park yesterday when Al Simmons came to bat for the A's with three men on. Al took a mighty swing, but only a high foul resulted. Catcher Frank Grube was unable to get it, but everything was O. K. because Al only grounded into a force-out, later to retire the side, and the Sox won, 3 to 1. Left to right: Umpire McGowan, Grube, and Simmons. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Medal Round in District Golf Tourney Today

The Chicago District Golf association's 19th annual amateur tournament, bringing together the leading shooters of this neighborhood, will open today with a 36 hole qualifying round over the No. 3 course of the Medinah Country club.

Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge, present holder of the title, who shares with Bob Gardner the honor of having won it three times, has been exempted from the trials by the tournament committee of the association. Jack, who won the crown in 1927, 1930, and last year, will make his first appearance in the match play rounds, which open tomorrow.

Play in Three Flights.

The entry fee for the tournament is $5 and entries of tee time starters must come from club secretaries, certifying that the player in question is in good standing with his own club and a bona fide member of the district.

The C. D. G. A. is introducing a new scheme of play this year which will give more of the players an opportunity to reach the match play battles. In addition to the 32 who will qualify for the championship flight on the basis of today's 36 holes of medal play, sixteen others will advance to a first flight, and a like number will enter the second flight, so that the 64 low scorers today can be certain of at least one test of match play.

Tourney Ends Thursday.

The first and second rounds in all flights will be played over an 18 hole route tomorrow. Championship flight losers in the first bracket will meet in a consolation round Tuesday afternoon. The third round of the championship flight and the semi-finals of the first and second flights will be decided Wednesday morning, with the winners moving into the championship semi-finals and the first and second flight finals in the afternoon. The tournament will end Thursday with 36 hole matches in the championship and consolation flights.

Among the stars expected to compete are Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, Chuck Becka of Calumet, Chick Evans of Edgewater and Gus Novotny of Edgewood Valley, runner up to Westland last year.

What a Man Was Thorpe, but What a Man IS Jim Bausch

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 7.—The last time Jim Bausch, the athletic one man band of the Olympic games, occupied a prominent place in the public eye he was being had up on serious charges in the Missouri Valley Football conference. They accused him of holding a pretty fair sort of job as an insurance monger while he was engaged in playing some full back for the University of Kansas.

Now, it is legal and ethical for a man to hold a job or to play football, but there is something in the chemistry of American sport which causes poisonous vapors to arise and fume up the atmosphere when a man does both.

So Bausch was had up, and you may remember that the boss who was paying his wages took a very scandalous, un-American and anti-social attitude in the case. He said Bausch was a first class insurance monger and not only confessed to corrupting this frail innocent of 205 pounds but attempted to justify it all.

Like Lauding Wife Beating.

Under the code of amateurism and morality in football this was just about as though a habitual wife beater had attempted to establish wife beating as a congenial and altogether laudable domestic custom.

In football the young Kansan who has now finally outhered Jim Thorpe in winning the Olympic decathlon was no such man as Thorpe was in his years at Carlisle college, but then Thorpe had some peculiar advantages. He was playing for a great showman, Pop Warner, and he was dropped into spots. He was dropped into a spot against Harvard, for instance. Moreover, he could play football.

Thorpe has been present at the Olympic games from day to day since they discovered, just after the opening exercises, that the old Indian had not received a ticket and Charlie Curtis, the Vice President, who is slightly Indian himself and works at it, invited him to use his.

Old Jim on Hand.

Old Jim, he just sits around. Some days he sits in two or three of the boxes reserved for the royalty and nobility of the amateur sport business. Once he sat in the governor's box. He is a privileged character. Slightly pathetic, but privileged. So he happened to be on hand, just sitting around one place and another, when along came the sun-broiled, burly Kansas boy to outdo him in the achievements that made him historic in American athletics.

The decathlon consists of six field events and four runs and Bausch came to the final event, the 1,500 meter run, which is a distance of about a mile, so thoroughly used up from his work in the nine previous numbers that he couldn't get along at much better than a heavy, laborious jog, but so far ahead in the scoring that he didn't have to. He was in as the winner, anyway, and a better athlete than Thorpe, though it may have the sound of heresy in the ears of the older generation to say so.

Concedes He's Better Man.

Still, Uncle 'Lon Stagg of the University of Chicago, who was present in Stockholm when Thorpe made his records, turned to the new man today. Yes, Uncle 'Lon admitted on the records it would have to be conceded that the breed of athletes had now produced a better man than the one who had been thought of so long as par for the human race. Jim Bausch had scored something that would correspond to a birdie in the decathlon.

"Why, Bausch is good enough to compete in the individual events in most of our meets in this country."

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 7.—Juan Carlos Zabala, 20 year old school boy from Argentina, timing his race in accordance with his own advance diagram, set 90,000 spectators wild in Olympic stadium as he won the fastest Olympic marathon race ever run. His time for the 26 miles 385 yards was 2 hours 31 minutes and 36 seconds.

The race brought to a close the track and field program of the Olympic games and climaxed another day of record breaking, which saw the United States sweep all of the remaining events and set new marks in the men's 400 and 1,600 meter relays and the women's 400 meter relay. All but four of the old records for the Olympics were shattered in the week of track and field competition, during which the American team far outdistanced all of its rivals, amassing an unprecedented total of points.

Four Leaders Circle Track.

The marathon race was historic in the even running of the leading contestants. All of the first four finishers, who included Samuel Ferris of Great Britain, Armas Toivonen, and Duncan Wright, Great Britain, were on the stadium track during their final quarter mile. Zabala was first by 125 yards.

The fastest previous time for an Olympic marathon run was 2:32:35 4-5, by Hannes Kolehmainen of Finland at Paris in 1924. The first three to finish today bettered Kolehmainen's time.

As Zabala's light blue and white clad form loped past the tape, it was caught by Coach Sterling, who had groomed him for this race by stepping up his speed from moderately short distances until his present invasion of the United States with today's race as his goal.

Waves Salute to Crowd.

One mate took the sopping handkerchief from Zabala's left hand while another removed the white handkerchief which, turban fashion, kept his dark curly locks from falling into his eyes.

While several excited assistants supported the schoolboy victor to a position in the stadium's inner grass oval, facing the bulk of the crowd, one adherent stuck a two foot Argentine flag into his hands, and, beaming happily, Zabala waved while the crowd roared cheers to him and his subsequent finishers. Zabala ran the race with a bandage over his right wrist, due to a minor injury some days ago.

Ferris finished bare-headed, in contrast to most of the field of 28 starters, who used some kind of hat, turban or handkerchief as a head covering from the blistering California sun rays and the day's temperature of the high eighties. Ferris' time in second place was 2:32:13

Michaelsen First American.

Toivonen of Finland, who came in third, with a white handkerchief around his head, another wet hanky in his hands and his silk track shorts so soaked with perspiration that they clung to his thighs, hit up a flurry of speed which closed a bit of his gap behind Ferris. Toivonen's spurt brought his time to a fraction slower than 2:32:12. Duncan Wright of Great Britain neared the record in fourth place time of 2:32:42.

Albert Richard [Whitey] Michelsen, a New Yorker, who has been spending several months accustoming himself to distance racing conditions in southern California, was the first United States runner to finish, coming in seventh in 2:32:38 behind Seiychiro Tsuda and Onbai Kim of Japan. Hans Oldag, in eleventh place, was the second American to finish. The third American, James Henigan, fell out with a bad leg after 19½ miles.

Zabale took his first lead in the double circuit of the Olympic stadium, which started the pack on their record quest, and held this lead at each of the first four of the eight control points at which checkers, refreshments, and information depots had been stationed along the route.

Zabala Leads at First Control.

At the first control, about three miles out, Zabala was one yard ahead of M. Banos, Mexico, who came in last of the twenty finishers. Clifford Bricker, Canada, the final twelfth place man, was 60 yards back. The three lead positions were unchanged at the 5 mile station, which Zabala passed in 25:30, having extended his lead over Banos to 15 yards. At 9½ miles Zabala still was in front in 57 minutes, but Bricker was on his heels, and tiny Taika Gon of Japan, who finally finished in ninth place, was third. Lauri Virtanen of Finland was pressing Zabala at the 14½ mile mark, with Toivonen, Tsuda, Bricker, and the two Americans, Michelsen and Oldag, all bunched within 20 yards.

Michelsen and Oldag each took tea at this control, and were back in the pack when Virtanen drew up in the lead at the 19¼ mile mark. Virtanen was timed here at 1:50, but halted for a glass of milk, and Zabala sped past him, with Toivonen and the hitherto unseen slight figure of Wright, partly bald Englishman, dogging the Argentinan's heels.

Two Fall Out.

Roccati of Italy and Henigan of America reduced the field to 26 after this point and at the 22 mile mark, where the sixth station was located, Wright was ahead in 2:06, while Zabala was timed in 2:07. Toivonen, Ferris, and Tsuda all pounded by within the next two miles, and at this station Viller Kyronen, third of the Finns, dropped out exhausted.

The race tightened again at the seventh control, a mile and a half later, with Wright, Zabala, and Toivenen all bunched, in that order, less than a minute apart. Zabala's sprint carried him past Wright at 24 miles, and from then on he pulled slowly ahead, foot by foot.

Girls Start Relay Cleanups.

America's quartet of sprint queens, Mary Carew, Evelyn Furtsch, Annette Rogers, and Wilhelmina Von Bremen, sent the United States relay contingent off to a winning start in the Olympic team races. They won by inches from a Canadian quartet in the world record time of 47 seconds. The American girls were really timed in :46 9-10, but tenths of a second were not considered by the officials.

Canada's time for the relay was announced as :47, which is the time going into the records for the Americans. Great Britain placed third by five yards, with the Holland girls fourth, Japan fifth and German girls sixth and last.

Taking the world record cue from the four United States girls, the American team of Bob Kiesel, Emmet Toppino, Hector Dyer and Frank Wykoff tore through four laps of 100 meters at a speed nearer to flying than ever performed before. When Wykoff leaped to the finish tape 22 feet ahead of Arthur Jonath, anchor man for the German team, he completed the four man circuit of the cinder track in 40 seconds, which knocked six-tenths of a second off the world record which the same four American boys set in their qualifying heat of the relay yesterday.

Others Closely Bunched.

Kiesel sent the Americans off to a short lead against Koernig of Germany and Percy Williams of Canada on the first lap, but a clever bit of baton passing shot Chuhei Nambu of Japan, hop, step and jump winner of the games, into a temporary equality with the leaders at the start of the second lap. Toppino did not have the benefit of Kiesel's four foot lead as he got started, but the New Orleans Italian opened up and handed more than this distance to Hec Dyer when he passed over the stick for the third lap. Dyer shot ahead fast, and gave Wykoff five yards for the last lap.

Another Relay Victory.

The American relay group made it three races and three world records for the day when Ivan Fuqua, Edgar Ablowich, Karl Warner and Bill Carr flattened all previous records for the 1,600 meter relay in the amazing time of 3:08.2. Until this Olympic, the world record had stood at 3:13.6 and the former Olympic record at 3:14.2, both of which were shaved to 3:11.8 by the American quartet in the qualifying warm up yesterday.

Fuqua's time for the first 400 meters was unofficially caught in :47.1, and he gave Ablowich an eight foot lead. J. Buechner of Germany finished the lap in second position, but due to a better handling of the baton, Tom Hampson of Great Britain got off to a faster pickup than the German in the second lap. Ablowich ran his lap in :47.6 and increased the American lead to 15 feet over the Englishman, who came in second, with Canada moving ahead of Germany when another fraction was lost in passing the stick.

Babe Didrikson Beaten.

Phil Edwards, Negro sprinter, running No. 3 for Canada, challenged Lord Burghley's hold on second place, but the Britisher nosed in for second position while Warner increased the United States lead to 20 feet. Warner did the third lap, unofficially, in :47.3. Carr, running his fourth furious 400 meters in five days, galloped the last lap for America in :46.2, and finished 12 yards out in front of the last Briton, with Canada third, Germany fourth, Japan fifth, and Italy sixth.

Jean Shiley, a pink cheeked co-ed with a neck length bob of light brown hair, administered the first defeat of the Olympic games to Mildred [Babe] Didrikson, Texas' one girl track team, in the women's high jump, but it had to be a technicality which beat Babe.

After both girls had cleared 5 feet 5 inches, blasting the former world record of 5 feet 3⅛ inches to bits, the bar was set at 5 feet 5¾ inches and both Babe and the Temple university girl from Philadelphia failed at it. Babe failed because her foot struck the standard after she had cleared it easily.

The bar then was set at 5 feet 5¼ inches for another jump off. Both girls made it, but an official said that Miss Didrikson violated the rules by diving as she went over. The prize then was awarded to Miss Shiley, who did her jumping by a graceful leg scissors.

Japanese Wins Swim.

The Japanese made their first big cleanup in the Olympic program when their two swimming aces, Yasuji Myazaki and Tatsugo Kawaishi, finished first and second in the finals of the men's 100 meter free style, which Myazaki won in :58.2. Two Americans, Albert Schwartz of Chicago and Manuela Kalili, Hawaiian living in Los Angeles, placed third and fourth, with Zenjiro Takahashi of Japan fifth and Raymond Thompson, Naval academy, sixth. Myazaki's time was a trifle slower than the Olympic record of :58, his qualifying time yesterday.

Macks Escape Shutout, Then Hand Sox One

Lyons Meets More Trouble.

Lyons was confronted with a series of annoyances in the seventh. Bishop singled with two out for the first hit since Cochrane's double in the third. Haas' drive shot past Blue for a single, putting Bishop on third. A more or less intentional pass was handed to Cochrane, loading the sacks. This put Simmons on the spot. Lyons handled him so effectively that nothing worse than a soft grounder to Selph resulted in a force-out at third. Then the Sox concentrated on the neat little job of convincing Mr. Grove that he made a mistake by coming to Chicago.

The episode that fetched two runs into the Sox basket in the home seventh did not appear until after Grube had hoisted to center and Lyons had been thrown out by McNair. The first blast was touched off by Funk. He sent the aged Miller in pursuit of a three base drive to the scoreboard in right. Dykes was back on his heels at third, so Hayes poked a bunt in that direction and Dykes did not even attempt a throw to first. Funk scored easily on the hit. Then Selph came up with his third hit, a triple over Haas' head, and Hayes registered. Fothergill's fly to Miller concluded the happy session.

Lyons shoved two men out of the way in the ninth before he started to let a shutout get away from him. He passed Bishop, who dashed to third on Haas' single to right. A low liner by Cochrane fell just inside the right field line and hopped into the grandstand. This automatically restricted the runners to two bases. Bishop scored, Haas halted at third and Cochrane at second. Simmons then appeared for the fourth time when mates were waiting on the sacks. He bounced to Hayes for the final out.

SECOND GAME

The Sox did not bother the squatty Freitas with a hit or anything resembling one until the fifth. Then they picked up one that furnished them with a sweet chance to score, but they flunked out. The inning opened with Fothergill walking. Appling singled to right, Round Robert rolling to third. A pass to Blue filled the bases with none out. The decline started with Kress looking at a curved third strike. Berry grounded to short, forcing Blue and was doubled off first on Bishop's relay to Foxx.

Haas' single in the first was the only hit given up by Gaston in five innings, but three of them were clustered in the sixth to break up the scoreless string. With one gone Foxx beat out a safety to deep short. McNair hit one back at Gaston, who stopped it with his foot, but was so surprised at the success of the maneuver that he did not think to pick up the ball. So McNair beat it for a hit. A double steal was attempted, but Foxx was out down at third. Meanwhile McNair advanced to second and scored when Miller slapped a single through short.

Sox Let Chance Fade.

The Sox hit total improved slightly in the seventh when Fothergill singled with one out, but a double play stopped this. Then Blue blasted open the eighth with a double along the left field line and it appeared as if a run could not be avoided. It was. Blue took third on Kress' sacrifice. Grube was called in from the bull pen to swing in place of Berry. He took a couple of swings all right, but stood at attention like a good soldier when a third strike drifted over. Gaston grounded to Dykes, and the chance to tie it up was gone. In the ninth Hayes drew a pass with one out, but a double play halted everything.

Dempsey Agrees to Bout in Tiajuana on Labor Day

Tonight's Card

Dick Daniels vs. Buck Everett [8].
Dick Sisk vs. Johnny Panek [5].
Jack Robinson vs. Bob Stone [5].
Jackie Davis vs. Phil McQuillan [5].
Jack Ripp vs. Jack Barry [4].

Weather permitting, the twice postponed ten round bout between Art Laskey, Minneapolis heavyweight, and Tom Jones of Chicago, will be held at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, tonight. The match was originally scheduled for last Monday and later for Wednesday, but threatening weather intervened both times.

Laskey is a young Jewish fighter with championship potentialities — a hard punch in either hand and plenty of ability—and Mique Malloy is grooming him for a shot at Tuffy Griffith, or King Levinsky, in Chicago this winter. Art has won his three Chicago starts by knockouts, George Neron being the latest victim.

Jones Dropped Carnera.

Jones is a south side Negro who seems to be at his best in the gymnasium. He dropped Primo Carnera during a sparring session at George Trafton's gymnasium when Carnera was drilling for the Jack Gross contest at the Chicago Stadium. Jones has absorbed the heaviest punches from King Levinsky with apparently no harm.

Daniels Meets Everett.

Dick Daniels, Minneapolis rival of Laskey, will clash with Buck Everett of Gary, Ind., in the eight round semi-final tonight. Daniels whipped Al Fay in his only other start here. He has decisions over Al Friedman, Johnny Risko and Babe Hunt. Everett is a former Golden Gloves champion.

Bud Saltis, Logan Square middleweight, and Ray Tramblie of Rockford, Ill., who meet at Northwest stadium Wednesday, have much in common. Each is 22 years old and started boxing professionally two years ago. Both have been out of the ring for two months because of injuries, Tramblie with a stomach ailment, and Saltis, a spinal injury. Both won and lost ten round decisions against Sammy [Kid] Slaughter.

This is the second meeting between Saltis and Tramblie, the Rockford boxer winning from Saltis in their first start as professionals. Bud received the injury to his spine after he beat Slaughter at Terre Haute, Ind., six months ago. He knocked out Ted Ross and Joe Sharkey, and gave Gorilla Jones a hard ten round nontitle fight at Green Bay, Wis., last April 7. Tramblie won the Central A. A. U. middleweight title in 1929, and finished second in the national championships. Since turning pro he has beaten Gary Leach, Johnny Balma, Freddy Eiller, Tiger Johnny Cline, Slaughter, and Clyde Chastain.

CHICAGO JUNIOR LEGION NINE WINS ILLINOIS TITLE

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Harold A. Taylor post of Chicago today defeated the Crang-Bennett post club of Clinton, 9 to 3, to win the Illinois American Legion junior baseball championship and qualify for the national final tournament.

Westray, Clinton pitcher, was in trouble in the first inning when the Chicago club scored four runs. The downstate team was held to five hits. The Chicago entrant won the first game, 10 to 3, last Friday. Score:

Science proves Old Gold COOLEST
throat-easiest cigarette

Science found OLD GOLD a cooler cigarette . . . because OLD GOLD is just pure tobacco . . . made only from the choicest Turkish and domestic leaf . . . with no hot-burning artificial flavorings to irritate the throat.

O. Gs. are finer tobacco quality. Science found this reason for "not a cough in a carload." So will you, if you'll try OLD GOLD.

NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

*THE VERDICT OF SCIENCE

This is to certify that in 75 repeated tests made of four leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette by the Calorimeter method . . . it was shown that OLD GOLD is from 112 to 156 B. T. U's. COOLER than the other brands. Careful measurement of the heat of the smoke further confirmed the fact that the smoke of OLD GOLD is definitely cooler.

PIRATES PICK UP DOWNHILL SPEED; BRAVES WIN TWO

Boston, Mass., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Boston Braves extended the Pittsburgh Pirates' losing streak to nine consecutive games today by taking a double header, 2 to 1, and 7 to 6, before a crowd of 29,000. The double victory was an expensive one for the Braves, however, as Robert [Red] Worthington, hard hitting Boston left fielder, suffered a broken leg sliding into third base in the first inning of the second game, and probably will be out of the lineup for the remainder of the season.

DODGERS, REDS DIVIDE.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Ernie Lombardi's bat beat Brooklyn out of a double victory over Cincinnati today. Van Mungo pitched the Dodgers to a 6 to 1 triumph, their sixth straight, in the opener, but Lombardi led the Reds in an assault on Hollis Thurston to win the second game 9 to 5.

Lombardi and his battery mate, Si Johnson, came into the game late. Johnson yielded only one hit in the last 6⅓ innings, while Lombardi batted in five runs in the last three innings, giving the Reds the lead with a homer with two on in the seventh and sending home two more tallies with a single with the bases loaded in the ninth. TED WILMES HURT ON DIRT TRACK AS CAR OVERTURNS

Ted Wilmes, dirt track driver, who won the opening ten mile race at the Evanston Motor speedway yesterday was injured in the 30 mile feature event when his car turned over during the 40th lap. Wilmes suffered a broken leg and possible internal injuries. He was taken to the Edgewater hospital.

Wilmes, who was closely pressed, hit the east turn too fast. A tire blew out and the speeding car turned over several times.

More than 2,500 watched the speed program in which Bill Kiser took one of the ten mile events and the 30 mile feature. This final race, 60 laps of the track, found the two leading cars only half a length apart as they reached the finish line, while the third car was only two seconds back. The results:

TEN MILE RACE—Won by Ted Wilmes; Bill Kiser, second; Bill Hart, third. Time, 14:02.

TEN MILE RACE—Won by Bill Kiser; Virgil Livengood, second Bill Hart, third. Time, 14:05 2-5.

FIVE LAP MATCH—Won by Ted Wilmes; Tom O'Rourke, second. Time, 3:14 4-5.

Yanks Win 2 from Browns; Ruth Hits 31st

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The New York Yankees defeated the St. Louis Browns in a double header today, winning the first game, 11 to 5, and the second, 9 to 4. The Yankees got 29 hits in both games, while the Browns connected for only 17.

Crosetti, Yankee shortstop, hit a home run in each contest and brought in a total of eight runs, four in each game. Babe Ruth got his 31st homer of the season in the first game, with none on base, and he also hit a triple and two singles, in five trips at bat. Today's homer left him only one behind Chuck Klein and 11 behind Jimmy Foxx. Campbell, Browns' right fielder, also hit a home run in the first game. The Yankees made 19 hits off Stewart, Gray and C. Fisher in the first contest. Scores:

Thorpe? There Was a Man! But Jim Bausch!!

Mr. Stagg allowed. "Any man who can vault over 13 feet, throw the javelin more than 200 feet and put the shot more than 50 feet would be up among the best outside the decathlon."

Built for Heavy Duty.

The decathlon hands, having to be so versatile, generally are expected to fall considerably below the class of champions in the individual events. If he is just pretty good in all of them then, on the whole, he is a star because, ordinarily athletes are specialists, and a man who can hurdle or run the quarter in good time isn't expected to run the mile or put the shot or throw the discus. A running horse doesn't haul a plow nor a jeweler run a forge. Bausch is built for the heavy duty events of the field, such as the shot put, the discus, and possibly the 56 pound weight.

So when a man of his meaty physique goes mincing down the path with a fish pole poised and suddenly heaves all that freight up and up, more than twice his own altitude, to clear a delicately balanced crossbar and flop all of a hunk into the sand from that height without smashing something, he is likely to cause newspaper talk and find his lapels covered with little gilt souvenirs on striped ribbons.

All Have Their Turns.

Every star winner in the Olympics has a turn. A few days ago it was Eddie Tolan, then Dr. Pat O'Callaghan, the Irish alienist, who won the hammer throw and almost threw it plumb away with his final fling. Dr. O'Callaghan is only 25 years old, but a physician nevertheless, with a working job in a lunatic asylum back home. He has been moving around the Olympic sward some days, not engaged in any competition himself but talking some of the high strung kids out of their hysterics as they flop on the ground and sob when defeated.

"Oh now, come on, you," says Pat, "its nawthin' serious. It's just games we're playin'. Take it easy, you did all right," says Dr. O'Callaghan, and he do have a way with them, for they dry up and grin and walk off with him, a man almost as big as two of most men.

Dr. O'Callaghan might have done well in the decathlon himself if he had been of a mind to, but he wasn't of a mind. He is especially good at throwing heavy objects and fighting, and though his name is not on the list at present, he may take a notion to fight a few friends in the heavyweight division.

Thorpe ran against a different standard of point values in 1912, but by any standard or scoring system, Bausch beat him here. After that meet they adopted the winner's time, height, or distance in each event as the ideal for others to aspire to in the future, it being remembered, however, that Thorpe did not win them all. If Bausch had equaled all those statistics his score would have been ten thousand points.

If Bausch had equaled some and excelled all the others that would have been rather embarrassing for all concerned, because the system doesn't even contemplate the notion that any one man could beat the best aggregate marks of all the decathlon winners of 1912. If it ever happens they will just have to owe the fellow everything beyond 10,000.

Judged by the present system, Jim Thorpe, incredible as it may seem, would have finished with only 7,900 points to 8,462.23 for Bausch. In the next few years some one may come along to prove that Babe Ruth was only so-so sort kind of a man with a bat.

Cubs Win and Lose, but Gain on Pittsburgh

ping at second. The smash brought about the withdrawal of Bell and the entrance of Gibson. Gibson threw two wide ones with Johnny Moore at bat, so was yanked and Fitzsimmons came in. Moore grounded to Critz and English was forced at the plate, Critz to Hogan. Grimm ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then bounced out, Terry to Fitzsimmons.

Hartnett smashed his third hit, a single to center, with one out in the eighth. Jurges filed to Ott, but Warneke walked. Herman singled to right, scoring Hartnett and putting Warneke on third. Critz threw out English.

The Giants had a little fun for themselves in the eighth. Terry opened with a double, the third hit off Warneke, and G. English walked. Fullis batted for Marshall and fouled to Hartnett. Leslie batted for Fitzsimmons and walked, filling the bases. Joe Moore then forced Leslie, Terry scoring. Critz popped to Jurges.

Get Rough With Adolfo.

It was wicked the way the Cubs picked on Adolfo Luque, who limped onto the scene at the start of the ninth. Stephenson singled with one down and came home on Moore's homer. Grimm then singled to right and ran in on Hartnett's fourth hit, also a homer. G. English threw out Jurges, but Warneke singled to left and took second when the ball got past Joe Moore. Luque threw out Herman.

The fourth hit off Warneke was Ott's home run in the ninth. Hogan fanned for the third time. Lindstrom scratched a hit past Herman. Terry fouled to Hartnett and G. English forced Lindstrom to end the game.

SECOND GAME

The Cubs got after the touring Mr. Hoyt for a run in the first. Herman beat out a single to short and English walked. Cuyler singled to center, scoring Herman and putting English on third. Stephenson lined to Marshall and Cuyler was doubled off first, English holding third. John Moore filed to Ott.

The Giants made two runs after two were out in the third. Hoyt filed to John Moore and Joe Moore singled to center. Critz filed to Stephenson, but Terry tripled to left center, scoring Joe Moore with the tying run. Ott was given a more or less intentional pass. Fullis, who had relieved Lindstrom in center field, singled to left, scoring Terry.

G. English pushed off the fourth with a triple and held third while Marshall was scratching a single off Malone's bare hand. Hoyt attempted a squeeze play, but G. English was out at the plate, Grimm to Hartnett, Marshall stopping at second. Joe Moore popped to Jurges for the second out, but Critz came up with a triple, scoring Marshall and Hoyt.

Root took over the pitching job in the fifth inning. It was his third appearance on successive days. Fullis beat out a single to deep short. Hogan filed to Stephenson; G. English doubled off the right field wall, Fullis stopping at third. Marshall was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Hoyt filed to Cuyler and Fullis scored after the catch. Joe Moore singled to left, scoring G. English and Marshall.

Herrmann started pitching in the seventh and retired the Giants in order. With one down in the eighth Joe Moore doubled to left and scored on Critz's Texas leaguer over second.

Gardner and Lehman Beat Robertson, Martin

A birdie on the last green by Don Gardner of Flossmoor enabled him and his partner, Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, to defeat Jock Robertson and Russ Martin, 1 up, in an 18 hole exhibition best ball golf match at Flossmoor yesterday. Gardner dropped his approach nine feet from the pin and holed out for a birdie 4. Martin had a medal card of 74; Lehman a 75; Gardner a 78, and Robertson a 79.

TELEPHONE GIRLS SEEK TROPHY IN TRIBUNE'S SWIM

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Entries for THE TRIBUNE'S 100 yard free style swimming races, which will be held Sunday afternoon at the Lincoln park lagoon, continue to flood the sports department. With three days remaining in which entries will be accepted, there is no doubt but that the number of contestants will equal the number which competed a year ago.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company is the latest to enter a team. Eric W. Stubbs, supervisor of employment practices, has forwarded the names of 20 girls of the advanced swimming class known as Tarpons. These girls will compete in class E for those 19 years of age and over.

"We have, for the last five years, carried on an educational program of swimming and life saving instruction for our telephone girls and have taught about 3,000 of them to swim," Mr. Stubbs writes. "Of this number we have graduated a fair sized group who have qualified as American Red Cross life savers. We have never entered any teams in public competitions until now, but have confined our activities to intramural events.

"We are in hearty sympathy with your program for the encouragement of swimming among the youth of Chicago and we are encouraging our girls to take part and lend their enthusiastic support to your undertaking."

Two Chicago boys have agreed to settle their personal argument in THE TRIBUNE swim. As a result of their feud as to which can swim the faster they have petitioned that they be assigned to the same heat. Apparently they aren't concerned with the gold medals, but each will be satisfied if he beats the other. The boys are George Kubanda and William Pawlick.

Howard Drummond, former Lane Tech High school star, will captain the swimming team which the Culver Athletic club has entered in the races. Drummond is a former interscholastic 50 and 100 yard champion. "We also expect to get the cup," Coach George Homeyer says.

Claudia Eckert, winner of the class E title last year, will race in class D next Sunday. She is 16 years of age and a daughter of George Eckert, one of the officials of the meet. She will represent the Shawnee Country club.

Barbara Behr, daughter of John Behr, athletic director of the Illinois A. C., is entered in class C. She will wear the colors of the Illinois Women's Athletic club.

All entries received postmarked Aug. 10 will be accepted for the races. No post-entries will be accepted. Racing numbers will be passed out at the Lincoln Park Boat club between 10 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. Sunday. The first preliminary is scheduled for 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Lejeck and Miss Wolf Win City Net Titles

Charles Lejeck, Chicago high school teacher, rallied to upset George O'Connell, Chicago public parks champion, in the finals of the Chicago city tennis tournament at the Oak Park Tennis club yesterday. The score was 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

On an adjacent court Miss Catherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., had little difficulty in beating little Jackie Ayer, 6-1, 6-4, for the women's singles championship.

O'Connell, the tournament favorite, started the match in a burst of speed, smothering all Lejeck's returns and storming the net with success. As the second set got under way he faltered and Lejeck, taking advantage of his opponent's errors, broke up O'Connell's game with a barrage of base line drives, winning the set 6-3.

O'Connell steadied in the third set and apparently had it won when Lejeck abandoned his back court play and displaying brilliant work at the net ran through the next four games to win the set. After a ten minute intermission both players played a cautious game, each winning his own service until the score was four all, when Lejeck broke through to clinch the match.

Miss Wolf kept Miss Ayer running around the court to meet her accurate placements and base line drives. Dropping but one game in the first set she relaxed in the second to allow her opponent to amass a 4-3 lead, but tightened to run out the set at 6-4.

DICK TRACY—Planned

MARGE! WHAT'S THE MATTER?
8-8
KENNETH AND I WERE OUT FOR A WALK THIS MORNING AND HE DISCOVERED SOME WILD BLACKBERRIES WHICH I BROUGHT HOME. I ATE A FEW AWHILE AGO AND THEY MADE ME ILL. I MUST HAVE FAINTED.
HERE'S KENNETH NOW.
MARGE, DARLING, WHAT'S WRONG?
FORTUNATELY YOU DIDN'T EAT ENOUGH OF THESE BERRIES TO DO ANY GREAT HARM. THEY HAVE BEEN POISONED!

THIS LINE'S BUSY TRAINING FOR SWIM

Bell Telephone girls have been practicing in private for several years. Now they are coming out to win amateur swimming honors. They start in The Tribune's annual sprint carnival at Lincoln park next Sunday. A team of twenty operators has been entered by the company. Some of the stars are (left to right): Florence Shiels, Evelyn Blazek, Mary Buckley, Elenore Kabat, and Ida De Long. Everything will be all right if the judges don't give the girls the wrong numbers. Cooper Defeats Walsh on Last Green for I.P.G.A. Title

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

President Gus Munch and Manager D. W. Danley of the Glen Oak Country club have been up in the air the last month trying to find niches about the premises wherein to set the trophies which golfers at the Glen Ellyn course have been bringing home with almost monotonous consistency this year. Harry Cooper, the club's professional, added to their dilemma yesterday by defeating Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr in the playoff for the Illinois Professional Golfers' association championship. Cooper had a 70, three under par, against Walsh's 72.

Cooper's victory added the Willie Marshall Memorial trophy to the Glen Oak collection, which already includes various bits of jewelry contributed by Warren Dawson, Illinois amateur champion; Harry's Canadian open prize, and the huge cup won by Warren and George Dawson, John Morrell and Doug Tweedie as members of the new Chicago district championship team. The Marshall trophy, which has been held previously by Jock Hutchison, Al and Abe Espinosa, and Jim Foulis, was presented to Cooper by Alex Pirie of Old Elm, honorary president of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, and Mrs. William Marshall, widow of the veteran Onwentsia professional.

Cooper in Fine Form.

Yesterday's playoff was necessitated by a tie between Cooper and Walsh on July 27 during the regular state tournament at Glen Oak, which each finished with a card of 141. Cooper was in good form yesterday, except for a few putting lapses, and had the advantage of playing over his home course, but Walsh gave him an argument to the final green.

Their cards:

Par—Out	443	453	544—36
Par—In	534	444	454—37—73
Cooper—Out	443	443	552—34
Cooper—In	434	454	453—36—70
Walsh—Out	443	453	544—36
Walsh—In	534	444	444—36—72

Cooper Gets Four Birdies.

Walsh's score for the round was almost a perfect duplicate of the course card, the only exception being the 17th, where he pulled up within one stroke of Cooper with a birdie four. Cooper had birdies on the fifth, ninth, tenth and eighteenth, a fifteen foot putt accounting for the last one. Walsh had hard luck with three putts, which dropped in the hole but bounded out.

NORTH SHORE.

Ball sweepstakes winners were: Class A—B. B. Lamphill, 82—9—73; T. R. McCaull, 80—6—74. Class B—E. B. McGuinn, 82—10—72; M. W. Lowell, 85—13—72. Class C—C. Peterson, 92—18—74. Class D—W. A. Fuller, 100—25—75. Richard Wolfe and Mrs. C. S. Campbell won the mixed two ball foursome with 94—21—73.

Tri-State Golf to Open Today at Michigan City

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Harry Cooper, Morton Smith, Tommy Armour, Al Watrous, Bob McDonald, Jock Hutchison, and Harry Hampton, with 115 others, will start 72 holes play for the Tri State open championship at Beverly Shores Country club tomorrow morning.

Equipoise and Mate to Try for Gold Cup

Equipoise will make one more start at Saratoga before moving back to Chicago for his engagement in the Hawthorne gold cup, according to word which reached the Hawthorne offices from Trainer Fred Hopkins yesterday. Mate will come west at about the same time. He is also coming for the Gold Cup engagement.

Jimmy Moody, who trained the ill-fated Pittsburgher for Theodore Mueller of Kentucky, was in a hospital suffering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident when he received word of Pittsburgher's tragic death in the Hawthorne handicap.

Fairenо, winner of the Hawthorne handicap, was shipped back to Saratoga yesterday. Blenheim went along in the same car. Fairenо most likely will start in the Kenner stakes at Saratoga Wednesday in which Gusto, the Arlington Classic and American Derby winner, will be one of his foes. The Kenner is at a mile and three-sixteenths.

The crowds at Saratoga have acclaimed Bobby Jones as one of the greatest jockeys ever to come out of the west. The easterners think he is as good as Sande and Fator when they were at their best.

If Jones can win the Hopeful stakes and Belmont Futurity on W. R. Coe's Ladysman he is likely to wind up as the leading money winning rider of the year.

DE RENNIE CARDS 81; WINS ARMOUR OFFICIALS' GOLF

MY DANDY LIKELY CHOICE IN $10,000 ILLINOIS GALLOP

BY FRENCH LANE.

Along about 5 o'clock next Saturday afternoon some Illinois turfman will pat himself on the chest, point to a thoroughbred that is being unsaddled out in the middle of the Hawthorne race track and remark with considerable pride, "Look at my horse! He's the best in the state."

The Illinois Owners Handicap, a $10,000 gallop, will be run at Hawthorne at about that time. Only horses owned by residents of Illinois are eligible and as all the topnotch Illinois thoroughbreds have been nominated, it will be a genuine state championship event.

The field also promises to be a bumper. Thirty were named for the stake and all of them are in active training at Hawthorne for it. It will not be surprising if 15 or 20 horses strive for the prize, this depending of course on the weights which are handed out by the board of handicapers.

My Dandy, after running a smashing second to Faireno in the Hawthorne Handicap Saturday, may rule as the favorite. He is owned by the Reichert brothers of Belleville, Ill. Yet Polydorus, which was fourth in the Hawthorne Handicap, and Evergold, which was fifth, are also leading contenders. So is Cathop, which beat most of the good 3 year olds in the west last week. Spanish Play, Pairbypair, Risque, Valenciennes, I Say, Paul Bunyan, Prince Hotspur, Charleigh, and On Sir are others that are sure to muster much backing.

This handicap, which is at a mile and a sixteenth, is the only race run in the state each year exclusively for horses owned by Illinois citizens.

Some of the candidates will be tuning up for the race in the Hinsdale purse at a mile and a sixteenth which features the Hawthorne program this afternoon. Much interest will center in the showing Mowris makes. This 4 year old son of Luculite was a former star in Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas stable. He was purchased about a year ago by J. H. Manheimer of Chicago.

He hasn't accomplished much so far for his Chicago owner, but his workouts lately have bordered on the sensational.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE WILL PAY $100.00 IN CASH PRIZES EVERY DAY

for the best solutions to "WANT AD JINGLES"

Today the Chicago Tribune presents another fascinating game of "Want Ad Jingles." It's loads of fun. It's easy, but not too easy. It's instructive. It'll keep you on your toes. It's full of laughs—and there's $100.00 every day in cash prizes to reward successful contestants!

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. Daily and Sunday until further notice, the Tribune will print four incomplete Want Ad Jingles. The missing rime-lines to each day's Want Ad Jingles will be found hidden in want ads in the Tribune Want Ad Section of the same day. At least twelve rime-lines will be hidden each day. You are invited to find and select the FOUR rime-lines which you think best fit each day's Want Ad Jingles and try for the cash prizes which the Tribune will pay.
2. For the best solution to today's Want Ad Jingles submitted in accordance with these rules the Tribune will pay $100.00 in cash prizes: First prize, $25.00; second prize, $15.00; third prize, $10.00; next 3 prizes, $5.00 each; next 10 prizes, $2.00 each; next 15 prizes, $1.00 each.
3. This offer is open to all—men and women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.
4. Awards will be made to the persons who send in the best entries. Each entry must consist of the four Jingles printed that day. Judgment will be based on the suitability of the lines submitted, and neatness. No special consideration will be given to elaborate entries. Therefore, make your entry simple and neat, choosing the last lines you believe to be most suitable. Only one entry may be submitted by any one contestant on any one day. However, you may submit an entry EVERY DAY.
5. Entries should be mailed to "WANT AD JINGLES 'J'," the Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries for today's game must be received in the Tribune office before 6:00 P. M. on Friday, August 12, 1932. NOTICE: The new postage rate on first class mail (letters) is THREE CENTS for each ounce or fraction thereof.
6. All entries will be considered by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept all decisions of the committee as final. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be paid to tying contestants. No entries will be returned, nor can the Tribune engage in correspondence on this subject.
7. You need not purchase the Chicago Tribune to compete. The Tribune may be examined free of charge at the Tribune offices or at public libraries. You may use the handy blank supplied here or you may submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. Names of prize winners will be announced in the Tribune as soon as possible.

MILLION DOLLAR ESTATE CLAIMED BY UNWED WIFE

Court Fight Likely Over W. H. Kearns' Will.

A court fight for the wealth of the late William H. Kearns, jobber of bags and burlaping, who left an estate of more than $1,000,000, was promised yesterday by Mrs. Mattie L. Kearns, who claims the estate as his common-law wife. Through her attorney she announced that she would claim the entire estate in the Probate court.

Mrs. Kearns' counsel, Charles H. Soelke, said that his client had lived with Kearns for more than forty years. He said that common law marriages contracted before 1905 are recognizable in Illinois. The present statutes holding such marriages void were passed in that year.

Claims All Personal Property.

On this basis, Attorney Soelke said, Mrs. Kearns has a valid claim to all her husband's personal property and to one-third of the real estate as her dower rights. The greater part of the estate consists of securities and bonds and is classed as personal property.

Attorney Soelke said that Kearns died of a heart attack while on a business trip in the loop on last July 19. Soon after his funeral, he said, his brother, Daniel, 616 Waveland avenue, and his sister, Mrs. Rose Fitzgerald, 3823 Gladys avenue, filed a petition for letters of administration and ignored Mrs. Kearns' claims.

Because they did not know the true size of their brother's estate they set its value at $150,000. They posted a $300,000 bond in accordance with the rules of the Probate court, which provide that the administrator of an estate must post a bond double the value of the estate.

Bond Is Increased.

Recently, he added, a search of bank vaults disclosed the true value of the estate and the bond was increased by the courts to $2,000,000.

Attorney Soelke refused to reveal the whereabouts of his client pending her appearance in court. He said that he would institute proceedings to vacate all previous orders entered early this week.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, reached at her home yesterday, said that her brother had never married. She said that no one else had a claim upon his estate.

TWO CHICAGOANS DROWNED IN LAKE AT SAWYER, MICH.

Sawyer, Mich., Aug. 7.—[Special.] L. E. Hawkinson, 35, 304 East 109th street, Chicago, and his brother-in-law, Michael Mertz, 28, 13310 Baltimore avenue, Chicago, were drowned today in Lake Michigan one mile south of Bethany beach, near here, when they ventured into water over their heads. Neither could swim. Another brother-in-law, A. C. Childers of Michigan City, tried to rescue them, but was unsuccessful. The drownings bring the total in Berrien county so far this year to 10. The bodies were recovered. The victims had been spending their vacations with their families in the summer colony near the beach.

Dr. Irving A. Milbyer, 54, North Side Dentist, Dies

Dr. Irving A. Milbyer, a dentist with offices at 3270 North Clark street, died yesterday at his home at 4444 North Francisco. He was 54 years old and a graduate of Northwestern university, class of 1903. Surviving Dr. Milbyer is his widow, Matie. The body will be taken to Syracuse, his birthplace, for burial Wednesday.

CERMAK EXPANDS FAIR PROMOTION PLANS IN EUROPE

Mayor Is Better After Carlsbad Visit.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CARLSBAD, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 7.—The medical waters of "Old 130" spring and the air here appeared today to be working a remarkable cure for Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago.

"I didn't believe I could make such progress," the mayor said after he had spent the morning at the baths and was resting for lunch. "Really, I feel fine. My strength is returning rapidly. I am beginning to feel like a new man."

Speeds Up Plans.

The mayor's rapid recovery has caused him to speed up his plans to visit various European capitals to promote the 1933 World's Fair in Chicago.

"Now that I feel better, I wish to visit as many European cities as possible to explain how big a thing the Chicago Fair is and to enlist the cooperation of European countries in exhibiting there," he said.

To Prague Tomorrow.

According to his new plans, the mayor will drive to Prague, capital of Czechoslovakia, Tuesday. Wednesday he will drive 25 miles to Kladno, the little mining town where he was born. He will also visit his mother's birthplace at Budweis, and then will go on to Pilsen to inspect Europe's largest breweries.

The mayor said that although his plans are still indefinite, he expects to visit Warsaw, Rome, Berlin, London, and Paris in the interests of the Fair. He will make an address in Berlin at the American club.

240 ENTRIES AT DOG SHOW

DANIEL O. CRILLY, 56, SOUTH SHORE BUILDER, IS DEAD

Daniel Oliver Crilly, 56 years old, well known south shore building contractor who was credited with erecting one of Chicago's first coöperative apartment houses, died Saturday at Stroudsburg, Pa., friends here learned last night. He had gone there for his health a year ago. Funeral services will be held at Stroudsburg tomorrow.

Born in West Liberty, Ia., Mr. Crilly came to Chicago in his boyhood. He followed the career of an uncle after whom he was named, who was one of the city's earliest settlers and construction men. As a boy he helped in the construction of several exhibition buildings at the Columbian exposition here in 1893. It was his hope, friends said last night, to live long enough to help in the building of structures in the 1933 World's Fair.

John Behr, physical director of the Illinois Athletic association, described Mr. Crilly as "the finest physical specimen he had ever seen." Mr. Crilly frequently exhibited his strength by setting 600 pound stone sections, a task ordinarily requiring the labor of several men.

Surviving Mr. Crilly is a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Cook, wife of W. S. Cook, 10220 Hoyne avenue.

TRIBUNE FLAGPOLE TO BE DEDICATED AT 12:30 P. M. TODAY

The new 90 foot flagpole on top of Tribune Tower will be dedicated at 12:30 this afternoon. Senator Otis F. Glenn will make the dedication speech and Col. W. H. Burt, chief of staff of the Sixth corps area, will raise the flag. An army bugler will sound the call "To the Colors," and the W-G-N symphony orchestra will present a musical program which will be broadcast over the radio and through loud speakers around the Tribune Tower.

POLICE EDUCATE DRIVERS IN USE OF 4 LANE ROADS

A two months' campaign of education in the proper use of four lane highways has shown satisfactory results, Chief William Collins of the county highway police and Chief Walter L. Moody of the state police reported yesterday.

Each four lane highway has signs at half mile intervals instructing motorists to keep to the right except when passing, but some motorists still straddle lanes and cut from one to the other in crowded traffic, said Chief Collins.

"Carelessness by the driving public if responsible for most of the traffic confusion," he said, "but I believe our policemen have convinced most drivers that progress is just as fast when the rules are obeyed."

It is not illegal to drive in the wrong lane in Illinois, but arrests are made for reckless driving.

Memorial Services to Be Held Here for W. J. Lipsey

Memorial services will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday at Trinity church, 26th street and Michigan avenue, for William Joseph Lipsey, retired Chicago business man, who died Saturday at San Diego, Cal. Burial will be at Escomdito, Cal. Mr. Lipsey was 67 years old and was connected with Carter & Holmes, haberdashers, for 35 years. Mr. Lipsey possessed one of the finest collections of Japanese and Chinese antiques in Chicago. Surviving are seven brothers, James, Robert, Andrew, Edmund, Howard, Frank, and John. Mr. Lipsey was a bachelor.

Funeral Rites Here Today for Dr. J. Paul Goode

Brief funeral services will be held today at Oakwoods cemetery for Dr. J. Paul Goode, professor emeritus of geography at the University of Chicago, who died Friday in his summer home at Little Point Sable, Mich. He was 70 years old. The services are to be read by the Rev. M. P. Boynton, pastor of the Woodlawn Baptist church. The body is to be cremated. Funeral services also were held Saturday at Little Point Sable.

3 KILLED, 11 HURT IN MILWAUKEE PICNIC CRASH

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Three young persons were fatally injured shortly after midnight Sunday morning when a truck, containing a picnic party of fourteen returning from Brown's lake, left the roadway on the Loomis road, careened along the ditch for 150 feet, sideswiped a tree and then crashed head on into another.

Ten other occupants of the truck and the driver are in hospitals in Milwaukee, three of them in serious condition.

Mariam Weidemann, 19, 3048 South Nevada street. Identified by her father, Fred, at 7:45 a. m. today.

Edward Gaethke Jr., 20, 3947 South 4th street, Town of Lake. Identified by father, Edward, at 6 a. m. His body still is at the county morgue. The family has been receiving county aid for sixteen months, according to the morgue records.

The bodies of the two girls were transferred to undertaking rooms while funeral arrangements are being made.

22 FISHERMEN DIE IN BOAT DISASTER; TWO SURVIVORS

VIGO, Spain, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Twenty-two fishermen were lost in the sea when the fishing motor boat Azana capsized in a strong northerly gale off Congas Demorrazo several days ago. This was learned with the return of the only two survivors to the port today.

The survivors were picked up by the Norwegian steamer Kertledre. They were exhausted by cold and fatigue after 52 hours in the water.

Six of the fishermen were caught in nets with the overturn of the boat and drowned immediately. The other eighteen clung to the keel of the boat and dropped off one at a time as fatigue overtook them. When four were left they tried in vain to right the craft.

Ancient Spanish Church Burns; Blame Candle

CUENCA, Spain, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Tocrecilla church and its valuable 17th century renaissance altar were destroyed today by a fire believed to have been caused by a falling candle.

CORN CROP LOOKS BEST IN YEARS IN QUINCY AREA

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—There has not been so good an outlook for corn crop in years. One unusual thing, almost without precedent, is that there is no late corn in western Illinois, northeastern Missouri or southeastern Iowa. Corn is beginning to dent and will be out of the way of frost by the fifteenth of September—five weeks.

The large amount of moisture that has fallen in the last week, when nearly five inches of rainfall has been recorded—all of it gentle rains, with no downpour—has so saturated the cornfield that it almost precludes any possibility of damage by hot winds. Soy beans are a month ahead, while old and new clover and alfalfa were never better.

Mrs. Beckie Ritman Dies; Mother of Art Instructor

Mrs. Beckie Ritman, 60 years old, of 1826 Millard avenue, mother of Louis Ritman, instructor in painting at the Chicago Art institute and winner of several international awards for his canvases, died yesterday at South Haven, Mich. Another son is Attorney H. B. Ritman, former assistant state's attorney. Six other children and her husband, Solomon, survive. Funeral services will be held in the chapel at 3125 Roosevelt road at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Texas Longhorn Becomes Curiosity; Placed in Zoo

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 7.—(AP)—A Texas longhorn is grazing at the Oklahoma City zoo, a curiosity in the state which not so long ago was crisscrossed by famous cattle trails. When the longhorn arrived at the stockyards here last week to be made into beefstake newspapers printed its picture and the zoo bought it.

GLENCOE ROBBER IS BROUGHT BACK FROM GERMANY

Levy Starts Term Today; Looted Stern Home.

Ernest Levy, 38 years old, convicted with two others in the $100,000 jewel robbery of the Lawrence F. Stern home in Glencoe last August, yesterday was lodged in the Town Hall police station, the first person extradited from Germany since the world war.

Levy, his brother, Max, and Dave Blumenfeld, an ex-convict, were convicted on charges of grand larceny and conspiracy and sentenced to one to ten years. Maxy Levy is in the county jail and Blumenfeld is at liberty on a writ of habeas corpus.

Forfeits $10,000 Bond.

Ernest Levy forfeited a $10,000 bond after his conviction and fled to Germany. He was brought back by Assistant State's Attorney Albert C. De Witt and an official of a bonding company. Today he will go to Joliet.

The three men and Ernest Levy's sister-in-law, Sadie Weingarten, who was found not guilty, were implicated in the robbery by Wilma Harjes, Mrs. Stern's maid and sweetheart of Levy. After she had testified for the state she was deported to Germany.

President Issues Warrant.

German police were notified after it was learned Levy had left on the Westernland for Antwerp and were asked to watch the home of Levy's aged father, a retired merchant of Cologne. The German police arrested Levy and held him for extradition, whereupon a warrant was obtained from President Hoover. Levy waived a hearing but had to appear for affirmation of his return on the warrant.

Since the war persons wanted for trial or punishment in America have been deported from Germany as undesirable aliens, but the new extradition treaty was only concluded a little more than a year ago and Levy's extradition was the first, Mr. De Witt was informed by the American embassy.

CO-OP OWNERS REFUSED LIST OF BONDHOLDERS

Bank Receiver Smiles at Court Ruling.

BY AL CHASE.

Citing a recent decision of Circuit Court Judge Philip J. Finnegan that an equity owner has a right to know whom he owes, the twenty-one tenant owners of the Essex cooperative apartment building at the northeast corner of 76th street and Essex avenue, asked H. C. Vernon, receiver of the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank, for a list of bondholders.

This was refused by Mr. Vernon who stated that it would be turned over to a bondholders protective committee composed of himself, the former president and two former directors of the closed bank. None of these, it is claimed, own any Essex bonds.

The full amount of interest due on June 20 on the outstanding bonds, or $2,748, was on deposit in the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank ready for payment when that institution closed. Wishing to preserve its equity, the tenant owners, organized as the Essex Building corporation, whose stockholders are the tenant owners, raised additional funds to meet interest payments.

Cash Ready for Interest.

Burke F. Ward, one of the tenant owners and secretary of the Essex corporation, announces that funds are now on deposit at the Northern Trust company and bondholders may obtain payment by application at his office at 2602 East 75th street.

Mr. Ward, when asking Mr. Vernon, as receiver, for the bondholders' list in order to notify the owners of the bonds that cash was on hand for interest payments, told of the Judge Finnegan decision which ordered the receiver of the Depositors State bank to turn over a list of bondholders to the equity owner.

"Mr. Vernon said that was ridiculous; no such decision had been made or would be made," said Mr. Ward. "His comment was: 'We've beaten a number of such cases.' I persisted that my information was based on fact.

Dares Him to Try.

"His answer was: 'If you're so sure, why don't you get an attorney and try and get the list?'

"I explained that was just what I was trying to avoid, expense, so that we might continue to pay our interest, taxes and other running expenses; that I had no desire to run up needless bills that in the end would only force us into foreclosure."

Mr. Ward stated that since the building was built the corporation has paid $6,400 annually on the principal; also interest, taxes, repairs, and all current expenses. The original mortgage of $130,000 has been reduced to $91,600. This was due in June, 1932.

"We fully expect to be able to refinance the building on favorable terms and we're anxious to save a possible $7,000 or $8,000 expense on a bondholders' committee so that such an amount could be used for further amortization of the bonds and payment of taxes," said Mr. Ward.

Taxes All Paid.

Following is a financial statement of the Essex for twelve months ending Jan. 1, 1932:

INCOME.

EXPENSE.

Interest paid on loan	$ 5,784
Taxes paid in full	3,537
Janitor's wages, coal, decorating and all other expenses	4,470
Total expenses	$13,791
Prepayments made on loan	6,400
Total	$20,191
Cash on hand Jan. 1, 1932	$ 860

"I feel that the directors of the corporation, all responsible business and professional men, are entirely capable of being an ex-officio bondholders' committee to work out the present difficulties which were in no way the fault of the company," said Mr. Ward.

The Essex was financed originally by the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank. The directors of the Essex Building corporation are: Cecil W. Judd, president; Andrew Todd, treasurer; Burke F. Ward, secretary; James Fox and Herbert Miller.

COAL CO-OP TRIAL AT ASHEVILLE IS IN SECOND WEEK

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Trial of the government's anti-trust suit against Appalachian Coals, Inc., and 136 coal operators will enter its second week before a special three judge federal court here tomorrow. Court officials said they did not believe it would end before Thursday. The government rested last Tuesday, but it is doubtful that the defense will complete its evidence before Tuesday or Wednesday.

Defense counsel announced today that 16 more witnesses will be placed on the stand, at least six of whom are independent operators and retail coal dealers.

The government seeks to dissolve Appalachian Coals, Inc., formed as a selling agency by 136 operators of the Southern High Volatile coal fields of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws. Should the court uphold its legality similar selling organizations will be formed by other coal producing districts east of the Mississippi, according to testimony introduced last week.

POOL RUMORS HELP WEEK'S WHEAT PRICES

Encourage Buying in Chicago Pit.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A reversal of sentiment, with an increase in speculative buying, and an advance in prices recently have marked commodity markets.

The last two weeks witnessed one of the most sudden changes known in the business world. Market reports of the formation of a $50,000,000 bankers' pool in New York to boost commodity prices helped the stock market but also assisted in a reversal of sentiment in grains. The grain market also was helped by reports of a $30,000,000 pool in which Arthur W. Cutten was said to be interested. Mr. Cutten has been a believer in wheat for some time and being a farmer himself knows that prices for everything that the farmer raises are below cost of production. This is also the case with interests in practically all commodities.

Within a week it has become apparent to business leaders that agricultural products and all commodities have been pressed to lower levels than was warranted by actual conditions.

It also became apparent that pessimism had run its limit and that a change for the better was due. Every advance in the price of agricultural products helps farmers to pay taxes, interest and other obligations, and at the same time assists in putting him on his financial feet.

Easterners Are Buying.

Leaders in the wheat market have known for several weeks that strong eastern interests had bought heavily on all breaks and lifted the market out of the rut, advancing prices moderately. Their efforts have resulted in a pronounced change in speculative sentiment on grain exchanges, which has been greatly improved by the sensational advance in securities, which seemed impossible a few weeks ago. The reversal of speculative sentiment has been most rapid and sensational. Traders who a few weeks ago predicted 40c for wheat are now said to be talking higher prices. There was selling on bulges by eastern interests who took their wheat back on breaks. The wheat market absorbed millions of bushels of wheat within the last few days in a way that restored confidence and made a close around the highest of the week.

A few conservative operators said at the close that prices had advanced too rapidly and that it was not wise to get too far out of line with foreign markets, in fact, it was for the best interest of the wheat trade to keep on an export basis so that stocks can be reduced, and not hold the bag for other countries to sell their grains.

Lower Spring Wheat Crop.

Crop estimates on spring wheat will be given out by the government report on Wednesday and expected to be reduced 25,000,000 to 40,000,000 bu from the government estimate of 305,000,000 bu in July. Winter wheat estimates are likely to be increased around 6,000,000 bushels to an aggregate of 435,000,000 bushels. Canadian spring wheat estimate has been reduced around 25,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels from 500,000,000 bushel level of last month.

New wheat is moving earlier and faster in the northwest than last year, and winter wheat receipts are keeping up fairly. Prices are up 7⅝ to 8c from the season's low with the close on Saturday the highest on the present upturn with net gains of 2⅞@3¼c for the week. September wheat closed at 54¼@54¾c, December, 57⅝@57¾c and May, 62¼c. Prices for the week follow:

Farmers Sell Old Corn.

Farmers mostly in Illinois were heavy sellers of old corn for future shipment last week which was well taken by elevator operators, shippers, and industries. Apparently farmers are satisfied with their crop prospects, as they seldom sell so freely at this time unless they have the promise of a good crop in sight.

Speculative sentiment has become more mixed and prices advanced in sympathy with wheat, although net gains on futures were only ⅛@⅜c. The speculative trade is largely a local.

Insurance Policy Holders Are Urged to Join High Tax War

A state-wide educational campaign pointing out that wasteful governmental expenditures are taxing insurance policyholders to the breaking point without providing any additional real benefits is to be undertaken in the near future by the insurance and taxation committees of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

The taxation committee will assume its share of the job because of its desire to do everything possible to convince the voting public that irrational expenditures must cease.

"The insurance department of Illinois collected $6,162,329 in 1930," said John H. Camlin, insurance division chairman. "Only 3.2 per cent of this large amount was used for the benefit of policyholders. The remaining huge balance was used to supply the general revenue fund of the state, and once more the policyholder contributed to the enormous expenses of government without getting his proper benefits. Our aim is to convince policyholders that they are personally interested and must cooperate in the fight against enormous public budgets. As nearly every voter is an insurance policyholder of some form or other, we believe we can, in this way, arouse strong sentiment against increasing governmental expenditures."

Insurance Expert Protests.

Mr. Camlin called attention to a statement by John Leissler in a recent issue of the Illinois Journal of Commerce in which that insurance expert said that "the buyer of insurance should object to having his thrift and foresight taxed. Politicians have long ago scented a tremendous new field for revenue production and they have taxed policyholders [under the delusion that they are soaking the rich insurance companies] to the point where the revenue of the insurance departments far exceed their individual needs and the general revenue funds are profiting by the excess.

The state chamber will work through the insurance divisions and the taxation committees of over 200 local chambers of commerce asking their cooperation in acquainting policyholders with the facts concerning this type of taxation. It will point out that the legislature is already considering additional taxes affecting policyholders even though present income is more than thirty times the amount now used to run the state insurance department. The state chamber will recommend that there be a material reduction in the amount of premium taxes collected, limiting them to a total that will adequately support the insurance department of the state.

Killing Revenue Goose.

"If we allow this matter to go unchecked," concluded Mr. Camlin, "there is nothing to prevent politicians from finally killing the goose that lays the golden egg; from destroying that thrift and foresight already shown by insurance policyholders. As long as we let politicians spend money like water, we must expect them to hunt unceasingly for sources for that money. Our job is to assist in putting the federal, state and local budgets where they can be taken care of without destroying initiative and bankrupting the country.

"Once we do that the eyes of the public will be opened and then perhaps the politicians will permit policyholders to pay taxes to the amount only necessary to keep the state insurance department in good working condition. There is no reason why 98 per cent of the money collected by the insurance department should be used in general public spending when the state insurance department is allowed to struggle along with about 3 per cent of the revenue to which it is entitled. Our hope in instigating this educational campaign is that policyholding voters will be alert in defense of their rights when they know that they are being unjustly taxed."

Advise County Mergers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—Growth of the movement to curtail wasteful expenditure in county finances through centralization and uniformity in new financing is outlined in a symposium on county government presented by the National Municipal league in the current issue of its official publication, the National Municipal Review. Despite opposition, it is noted that mergers of counties have taken place in Tennessee and Georgia, while efforts are being made in at least thirty-two states to bring about consolidations either on a large or small scale.

In the rural counties, it is pointed out, the two biggest items that require public flotations of bonds are those of roads and schools. "Unable or unwilling" to make fundamental adjustments, it is said local governments have sought relief through state and federal subsidies. These subsidies, it is said, are destructive both to the economy of administration and democratic government.

North Carolina and Virginia have taken all the roads into the state systems. By elimination of road districts, it is shown that funds can be more cheaply obtained through state credit, as variations in the ability of the individual districts to meet their obligations necessitate consequent variations in prices at which their respective bond issues are marketed. In some respects the evolution in school support parallels that in road support. Payment of school costs from state funds is not advocated, but it is contended that there should be reasonable equality of tax burden in meeting minimum standards.

NOTE HOLDERS ACCEPT SAXON REFINANCE PLAN

New York, Aug. 7.—The National City bank, as depository under the offer made recently by Saxon Public Works, Inc., of Germany, to issue new 6 per cent notes in exchange for the issue of 5s that fell due on July 15, announced yesterday that holders of more than 50 per cent of the $7,000,000 of matured notes outstanding had accepted the plan. The offer stipulated that holders who assented to the offer by Aug. 15 would receive a cash payment of 5 per cent and the balance in new notes.

An announcement made by the bank on behalf of Saxon Public Works, Inc., and the Free State of Saxony, guarantor of the notes, specifically reserves for them the right to refuse to accept further deposits of notes for payment in accordance with the offer after Aug. 15. The new notes will mature on July 15, 1937. The notes were originally issued in the amount of $10,000,000, but about $3,000,000 have been acquired by Saxon Public Works, Inc., and cancelled.

The ready acceptance of the offer by noteholders, it was said yesterday, with deposits continuing in satisfactory volume, attested not merely the confidence of investors in the outlook but recognition that German borrowers, such as the Saxon Public Works, Inc., were seeking to the best of their ability to meet the situation resulting from the regulations issued by the German foreign exchange control.

LONDON ECONOMIST SEES BETTER OUTLOOK FOR U. S. BUSINESS

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Economist, one of Great Britain's foremost economic and financial authorities, said today it believed the crisis of the economic stress in the United States was past.

"It would be rash to predict that America is yet within sight of general economic recovery," it said, in a review of world conditions, "nevertheless, there is reason to think that the giant of the west has passed the crisis of his sickness.

"In the spring and summer there were grave symptoms, such as the growth of unemployment, the widespread failure of banks, the drain of gold to Europe and the growth of hoarding and the distrustful public.

"These were justifiably regarded with serious apprehension, but the period of panic seems to have passed. The process of hoarding is being checked, the banking position is salvaged and the psychology of the people steadied."

There are also indications, the paper said, that "in the world generally, the steepest phases of the depression are past."

BENDIX LETTER TELLS OF GEAR SHIFTING DEVICE

Two mechanical devices, one permitting the elimination of gear shift levers of motor cars, the other making possible the use of hydraulic power in froning, are announced in a letter from Vincent Bendix, president, to the 23,000 stockholders of the Bendix Aviation corporation. The letter also states that two important patent suits have come to favorable conclusions, that Bendix clutch control is being satisfactorily consumed by car manufacturers, and that strict economies will be "very substantially reflected in the operations for the balance of the year."

Bendix Research corporation, the letter states, has developed and perfected an automatic transmission system by which gears are shifted automatically through torque reaction, thereby eliminating the conventional gear shift lever. The device has been installed and tested on several automobiles and has been demonstrated successfully to many leading automobile manufacturers. According to Mr. Bendix, these new transmission devices will be sold both to automobile makers and transmission manufacturers.

The Bendix Hydraulic Brake company has developed a hydraulic power means for household froners, the letter states, which reduces manual labor in home froning to a minimum. A contract has been made with a large manufacturer and distributor for this hydraulic equipment. "The parts will be made in our South Bend plants and shipments will commence shortly," the letter states, "and we expect this business to expand rapidly."

Board of Home Loan Bank to Start Action

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The newly appointed home loan bank board will lose no time in putting into operation the complex machinery of a nation-wide banking system expected by its sponsors to ease the mortgage burden on the struggling home owner.

Appointed only yesterday by President Hoover, the five man bi-partisan board headed by Franklin W. Fort, New Jersey banker and insurance man, will meet tomorrow or Tuesday to begin establishing from eight to twelve district banks in various parts of the nation.

Members of Board.

On the board with Fort, who served three terms as a Republican member of congress, are:

William E. Best, Republican, of Pittsburgh, attorney and president of the United States Building and Loan league.

Dr. John M. Gries, Republican, Rosewood, O., economist and long time associate of President Hoover in the commerce department.

Nathan Adams, Democrat, president of the First National bank of Dallas, Tex.

H. Morton Bodfish, Democrat, Chicago, executive manager of the United States Building and Loan league.

One of the first tasks to confront the directors when they assemble here is selection of the cities where the banks will be located.

Each bank will have eleven directors and will be capitalized at a minimum of $5,000,000. Shares will be sold at $100 par value, with the Reconstruction Finance corporation standing ready to spend $125,000,000, if necessary, in subscribing the required capital.

How Loans Are Made.

The individual home owner will be able to borrow directly from the district banks if he can show beyond a doubt that he has been unable to obtain funds elsewhere. Building and loan associations, savings banks, cooperative banks, homestead associations, and insurance companies will be able to borrow on home mortgages.

Organizations such as these will be required to subscribe for stock equal to one per cent of the unpaid principal of the total home mortgages held by them before being able to borrow.

Only mortgages on homes valued at $20,000 or less will be acceptable as collateral at the home loan banks, as congress designed the system to be of aid to small home owners.

The home loan bank system is the last of the reconstruction measures recommended by President Hoover and enacted at the last session.

New York Bank Clearings Reported in Sharp Gain

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Bank clearings made a gain in the week ended Aug. 3 of double that expected, Bradstreet's clearing index reported. Clearings now have reached 41.2 per cent of the 1928-'30 average, it was reported.

CORNER, SO FAR AS STOCKS GO, SEEMS TURNED

Billions Are Added to Share Values.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—Whatever the attitude of business and industry, the stock market has made its gesture of turning the corner. Last week's vigorous upturn left no doubt on the score whatever. With the exception of a mild reaction on Tuesday, due to profit taking orders thrown in by traders wary of the pace of operations, the list was kept pointing upward throughout the week, with the movement gaining momentum day by day.

Saturday's two hour session witnessed the heaviest trading in more than two years, a total of 2,723,430 shares changing hands, recalling the bumper markets of 1929 and early 1930.

Measured by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S combined averages on fifty assorted stocks the net gain of the day amounted to $3.52 a share, while the average on twenty-five industrials was $5.20.

It is estimated that the upward movement since it got under way some three weeks ago has added no less than ten billion dollars to the market values of the 1,200 or so stocks listed on the exchange. The increase since July 9, the date of extreme lows for the long bear movement, has approximated 60 per cent, many issues having more than trebled their recent price quotations.

I. C. C. REFUSES TO LET RAILWAYS CUT SUGAR RATES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission has denied transcontinental carriers the right to reduce rates on sugar from San Francisco bay to Chicago, St. Louis, and related points to a figure lower than the charge to intermediate points.

The railroads sought to reduce rates in an effort to meet competition by way of the Panama canal and the Mississippi river to St. Louis and by the Panama canal through the New York Ship canal and the great lakes to Chicago. This business has been growing steadily, causing the railroads to lose a large tonnage of sugar.

Under the fourth section of the interstate commerce act the commission is authorized to permit such departures under proper conditions. The commission said it felt that the present rates were sufficiently low.

Steel Company to Build Addition to Its Plant

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Columbia Steel corporation, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, announced plans for a $400,000 addition to its plant at Torrance, Cal.

International Telephone Deal May Be Completed

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Completion of International Telephone and Telegraph company's contract for an interest in the Ericsson Telephone company of Sweden is expected shortly, according to advices from abroad. International's claim to the controlling stock of Ericsson has been in abeyance temporarily owing to complications arising out of the difficulties of the Kreuger & Toll company, which formerly controlled Ericsson. The latter is an important manufacturing and operating unit in the foreign telephone field.

Denmark Puts Many Raw Materials on Free List

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The national bank currency office has announced tariff reduction on raw materials, effective Sept. 1. On the free list will be grain, sugar, tobacco, coffee, rice, tea, cocoa, fodder, skins, paper pulp, seeds, fruit for oil pressing, celluloid, iron and other metals, and all artificial fertilizers excepting superphosphate.

Cuts Rail Fare to 2½ Cents a Mile to Fight Buses

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The once familiar 2½ cent a mile fare will be available from Aug. 10, to passengers riding the Baltimore and Ohio train leaving Washington at 12:35 a. m. for New York. The interstate commerce commission granted the road permission to make the reduction, which D. L. Moorman, assistant central passenger agent, said was the opening gun in a war against bus companies, which for some time have carried passengers between the two points at considerably under the $8.14 one way train fare under the general 3.6 cents a mile rate.

Ten Year 5% Sinking Fund Gold Debentures

Due June 1, 1938

To Holders of the above named Debentures:

Receivers in equity were appointed for Susquehanna Silk Mills on July 18, 1932, by the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York.

The undersigned have been requested and have agreed to act as a Protective Committee to represent the holders of the above named Debentures. The Protective Agreement is being prepared and will be presently available. It is important that the Debenture holders unite for the protection of their interests and, to that end, that they deposit their Debentures with City Bank Farmers Trust Company, No. 22 William Street, New York, N. Y., as Depositary for the Committee.

Coupon Debentures should be accompanied by all coupons due December 1, 1932, and subsequently. Registered Debentures should be duly endorsed in blank for transfer or accompanied by transfers in blank duly executed. The Depositary will issue transferable Certificates of Deposit for all Debentures received by it.

A million dollar Bank—doing SMALL things BIG

They Mean Business

Our customers know what it means to live within their means . . . They count the costs . . . and cut the corners. If they borrow money they borrow wisely . . . safely . . . economically.

If they save, they save as though they meant it. They are always on the job night and day and . . . . . whatever they do wherever they do it . . . . . they mean business.

The time . . the terms . . the cost of personal loans ($50 to $5,000) made by us . . . are "made to order" for the man who means business.

STEEL INTERESTS MORE HOPEFUL FOR INDUSTRY

Inquiries from Consumers Now Being Received.

Despite the decline in steel operations to between 14 and 15 per cent of capacity last week, the underlying sentiment that the industry is headed toward higher ground is gaining more recruits, according to the magazine, Steel. Actually, from a production standpoint the situation is little changed, the magazine explains, but "inquiry from consumers long dormant, rechecking of the season's requirements for iron ore, requests for longer price protections, firmer prices on scrap and a drying up of the supply, and more irregularities in price for specific business, are evident in iron and steel."

"But failure of operations to expand as rapidly as sentiment is no dampener, for the industry is viewing the long pull and minor adjustments in production as peculiar to midsummer," the magazine continues.

"The awakening of interest is more apparent among small, miscellaneous users of iron and steel. Inquiry for heavy finished steel is appreciably broader, chiefly in small lots. Occasionally a consumer places a small lot for stock. In the northwest there is a tendency on the part of jobbers to anticipate conservatively increased rural buying this fall.

Rails an Enigma.

"The railroads continue an enigma. If favorable interest rates prevail on Reconstruction Finance corporation loans the carriers may place some 800,000 tons of steel for repairs and equipment the remainder of the year, but they are not disposed to use 6 per cent money. July freight car awards of 25 units brought the 7 month total for 1932 to 384, compared with 6,661 in the like period of 1931 and 33,993 two years ago.

"Automobile requirements are curtailing rapidly. Ford has retrenched to 2,500 of the eights daily, 5 days a week, assembling fours only as required. Chevrolet in August will put out about 20,000 units, two-thirds of July, other General Motors lines being virtually down. August and September automobile production probably will be as lean as early in the year before Ford started, but new models will quicken the fourth quarter.

Structural Steel Dips.

"A dip in structural steel awards to 11,415 tons, which is below the 1932 weekly average, is accompanied by a bulge in inquiry and prospective work. Largest in the latter class is 350,000 tons for a tunnel for the port of New York authority, contingent on a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

"On heavy finishing steel, prices are largely without test, but appear firm. Tin plate, however, is irregular, and deep concessions are being made in sheets and strip to the automotive trade. The iron and steel composite of steel remains unchanged this week at $29.46 and the finished steel composite is stable at $47.71, but the scrap composite is up 4 cents to $6, the first gain since Feb. 25."

BOND MARKET SHOWS GAINS FOR THE WEEK

Notwithstanding seeming neglect by former sponsors, listed loans raised their average 1½ points to the week and were around 12 points above the low water mark of the year. Also, total daily sales never dropped below the 10 million mark.

Business and trade trends were still mixed and uncertain, notwithstanding the inclination of stocks to forecast a substantial fall upturn. Steel ingot production was down slightly and the railroads reported no pronounced upturn in traffic. Results of the German elections were not altogether definite and South American and far eastern horizons were rather murky.

On the other hand, there was a firming of commodity prices, notably in wheat, corn, cotton, copper, lead, and zinc, and a noticeably improved sentiment in retail business. Electric power output showed a mild increase and the building industry, which has been in the doldrums for the last four or more years, exhibited some faint signs of life.

Railroad bonds were the only ones to record a slight weakness, this being attributed to considerable profit taking among the more speculative carriers. Industrials made the best showing, although the utilities, led by communications company issues, were not far behind.

The foreign section moved irregularly, loans of Germany, Japan, and Argentina being subjected to some pressure. French obligations were in demand at higher quotations and those of Australia and the United Kingdom were steady.

Drop in Sterling Seen Due to Buying of U. S. Stocks

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Continued transfers of speculative capital in response to further rises in Wall street, together with the seasonal demand for dollars, were considered the main factors today in another drop in sterling which hit a low of $3.45 yesterday. The free flow of money to the United States by speculators and investors is being maintained. How long the Wall street boom tendency will last is one of the most discussed questions in London's financial center and although some profit taking is in evidence there are indications of confidence in the recovery of the American stock markets.

NEW YORK SHIPBUILDING.

Net income of the New York Shipbuilding corporation for the first six months of 1932 was $480,772 after all charges, compared with $411,588 in the first half of last year. June quarter net was $250,467, against $230,305 in the first three months of this year.

STERLING SECURITIES.

Sterling Securities corporation reported that net assets of June 30 were equal to 33½c a share on the convertible first preferred stock.
